Salem, Ore.—"For some years I have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as a spring tonic and have never found it to fail in cleansing the system, stimulating the blood and giving a feeling of healthy life. At one time I was weak and run-down, felt all worn out and ready to go to bed, but the help I got from the 'Golden Medical Discovery' brought back to me a feeling of strength and new life. I shall always have a good word to say for this wonderful remedy for I have always found it good when a tonic was needed. I have also used the 'Pleasant Pellets' for the stomach, liver and bowels, and can say they can be depended upon to clear and regulate these organs." —Mrs. M. Etnner, 459 South 18th St. Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice or send 10c for trial package of any of his medicines.

Legal Panning By this is not meant panning which is legal—for there is no pun that the law authorizes—but panning by members of the profession which calls itself legal. A judge in New York was harangued patiently to an argumentative conflict over the amount of a fee claimed by a counsel. At the close of the contention he remarked: "Let me have your papers and the affidavits of the expert, and I will see what is feasible as to the fee, and will endeavor to see my way clear to a just solution between the contention on the one side that the fee is a phenomenal one, and on the other side that there should not be a nominal fee."

His Favorite Selection His name has been instrumental in giving many families education of a kind that enables them to recognize the classics, and many people who have slight knowledge of compositions or technique are fond of the best selections. In a South side family a scall boy loves to hear the quartet from "Rigoletto," but he isn't familiar with the title of the piece. In asking for his favorite that long ago the boy said to his mother, "Please put on the piece where the lady tries to dent the man talking." —Youngstown (Ohio) Telegram.

Odd Beliefs of Zulus Recorded by Traveler They believe that the earth, moon, sun, stars and indeed everything was created by a Supreme being called "Mvelingana." "The First Appearer," though there seems to be no idea as to within what period all these things were made. There is a tradition to the effect that all people originally came from a single pair, and this pair sprang from a bed of reeds; but where such a bed is to be found, tradition does not say. At the same time, it is pressed, a Zulu would probably locate it somewhere in the North, seeing a deep-rooted tradition of their having descended from that direction is widely prevalent, not among them, but other allied peoples like the Basutos, Nossas, Swazis and Tangas. A certain fairly well-defined section declares that its ancestors "reached down from the North in a large basket (Isilulu)." In my opinion the Zulu race today is the finest colored race in the world. There is hardly a man under six feet tall. They are good subjects to their chief and are a clean-living, law-abiding race. They have given no trouble to the Natal government since the lamabata war of 1908. I have lived among them, so I know.—Adventure Magazine.

Pottery Maker Must Be Skilled in Art Thrown pottery is shaped on a rapidly revolving disk. The preparation of the clay is a scientific process. The ingredients—ball clay, flint powder, felspar and kaolin—are carefully selected and weighed in certain proportions, so that they will fuse properly and become sufficiently hard when shaped and fired. The mixture is left to stand until thoroughly soaked and then is tawed through fine linen and dumped into a plaster box which absorbs the water and leaves the clay in condition to be beaten. All the air-bubbles must be driven out of the ball of clay before it is placed on the throwing wheel. Workers in pottery delight in the touch of the plastic clay as it spins upon the disk. The thumbs make the inside of the object while the extended fingers shape the walls. After the work of art is properly shaped it is put into a plaster box to become "leather hard" and is then finished or turned. The plain objects finally are ornamented and placed in the fire oven, and a still later, baking process puts on the desired glaze.

Toadstone's Bogus Virtues The toadstone is generally described as a species of black pearl of no especial beauty as an ornament. During the Dark ages, however, it was in great demand. It was supposed to protect children from the malvolition of fairies and to cure kidney and stomach troubles, says the Springfield Republican. That a common toad wears a precious jewel in his head was a profound belief in the Middle ages. Its possessor was supposed to be immune from toothache, so the legend runs, and it was a sure antidote for poisons. These creatures were said to forewarn against venom by transmitting a smarting sensation to the flesh. The toad was credited with having a natural fear and antipathy for man as well as for all venomous reptiles, hence its warning.

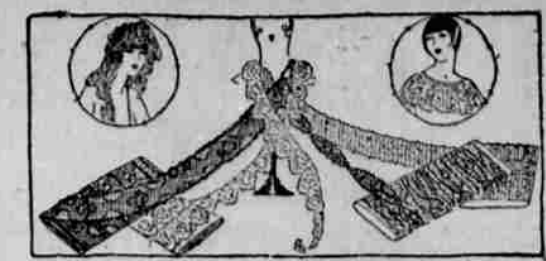

A Concession "A young woman of our family" returning home from a trip brought a gift for each of her mother's seven sisters, a contributor. "For the hundredth time had a silk blouse of a bright shade. 'That won't do for Hannah,' her mother said; 'her husband died and she is in mourning.' "Later in the day she showed Hannah the present she had intended for her and said she was sorry for the mistake, adding: 'I will give the blouse to Lizzie and get you something else.' "Hannah looked admiringly at the pretty garment and then said: 'Don't you give that blouse to me. I like Miss Annabelle, 'cause next month I'm going out mourning' from de waist up." —Boston Transcript.

The High Cost of Postponing Permanent Highway Building

Poor motor roads stifle industry and agriculture, waste huge sums annually in high maintenance costs, and greatly increase gasoline, tire and repair bills.

There is not a state, not a county, not a community, that isn't paying a heavy price for having too few permanent roads.

There are still many sections of the country—even whole states—that are trying to operate twentieth century traffic over nineteenth century roads.

This is costing millions of dollars every year, and will keep on costing millions until we have well developed permanent highway systems everywhere.

Even what we often call the more progressive communities are far behind the demands of modern highway traffic with its 17,000,000 motor vehicles.

From the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from Canada to Mexico, we need more Concrete roads—the roads for twentieth century traffic.

Your highway officials want to be of the greatest possible service to you. Get behind them with ways and means that will provide more Concrete roads and streets. Such an investment will pay you big dividends year after year.
