"Tex" Rickard, famous prize fight promoter of New York, has been fined $7,000 in a Federal Court in Newark, N. J., for conspiracy to violate the interstate commerce laws by transporting the films of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight out of New Jersey. More scandals in British society are expected to be bared in the divorce suit filed in London by the Duchess of Westminster. Roald Amundsen, noted Norwegian explorer, with a party, in two airplanes, expects to hop off from the icepack north of Spitzbergen for a flight over the North Pole in May. The party expects to spend a full day at the Pole. Florence Reddington, trained nurse of New York City, is suing Colonel Isaac M. Ullman, millionaire manufacturer and politician of New Haven, Conn., for $150,000, alleging he is the father of her four-year-old son, and that he is guilty of breach of promise to marry.

cap discarded by Duncan, as having been worn by the man who procured food from her.

That Duncan took plenty of time in the Penney store is evidenced by the fact that he even stopped to take a shave, using a safety razor and a tube of cream off the notion counter. Two towels were stolen off the shelves, and after being used were thrown on a heap of rubbish in the basement.

EX-CONSTABLE MILWAUKEE GUILTY OF BOOTLEGGING

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

PORTLAND, Ore., April 24.—Frank E. Lowe, ex-constable of Milwaukee, Ore., charged with conspiracy to violate prohibition law, was found guilty of conspiracy and possession of two bottles of moonshine by a federal court jury here today.

He was found not guilty on the charge of manufacture, a second charge of possession of materials. Lowe was tried once before, but the jury failed to agree. D. W. Weller and Fred Sauerman, with whom Lowe was accused of having conspired, both pleaded guilty shortly after the arrest about a year ago and received sentence.

Lowe's attorney asked 10 day's stay to appeal.

TUFFY REID MEETS DEATH ON GALLOWS WITHOUT FEAR

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., April 24.—Clarence Tuffy) Reid, Los Angeles murderer, was hanged at San Quentin state prison here today. Reid went to the gallows bravely.

On January 21, 1923, Reid, then 18 years old, with Lawrence McMullen, entered the rear room of the spring street trunk factory of Charles Weingarten in Los Angeles. They found Weingarten and five others engaged in a card game. Reid drew a pistol and covered the players while McMullen went through their pockets. Weingarten grappled with Reid and the youth then drew another pistol and shot the merchant dead.

Russian Children Have Brief Carefree Moments

Presently there came to us the sound of tambourine and the singing of youthful voices. The children who had been standing in groups listening to their wrangling elders dashed joyously into the street. Nikifor hooked his arm into mine and bade me follow him. Soon there passed before us a procession of young people headed by the village band—an accordion and a tambourine. The girls followed directly behind the players. They were in holiday attire, white waists, neat little aprons, some in big shoes, others barefooted. They walked arm in arm with one another. The boys, also in Sunday clothes, trailed after them. They were all singing in lusty resonant voices an age-old melody of a Cossack killing a girl who threatened to steal his sweetheart. It was to me a beautiful and thrilling sight—these boys and girls, barefoot, many of them, in old though freshly laundered clothes, walking briskly and in step, oblivious or unmindful of the cares that pressed with brutal agony upon their fathers, and giving themselves with joyous abandon to song and play, and it made me forget for the moment the ugly mud, the dingy hovels and the multitude of embittered souls wailing with sullen piteousness at the fate that had befallen them.—Maurice G. Hindus in the Yale Review.

Machine Puts on Record Development of Plants

A wonderful machine has been invented which measures the growth of plants. A small thread connects the plant with the apparatus, which consists of an electrical battery and a drum which revolves slowly.

Above this drum is a pen worked by electricity. As the plant grows the thread slackens, and causes a connection between the battery and pen. The latter drops onto the drum and makes a mark. At the same time a small rod is pushed up, which tightens the string again. Thus the drum shows the growth of the plant over a given period, and information is obtained showing the effect of heat and light upon various specimens.

It has been proved that most plants grow more rapidly at night, and this fact has been of great assistance to those engaged in forcing the growth of flowers and vegetables.

BANDITS' BANK LOOT $15,000

Whence Comes Term "Bit"

The visitor at the west coast of Canada is likely to be puzzled by a merchant asking two, four or six "bits" for an article. Its history is connected in the old "Chinook" or trading language but the origin of the term "bit" goes back even farther than that. A "tipenny bit" (five-penny bit) was really the 12½ cent unit derived from the old Spanish real or one-eighth of a dollar, long used for computation and pricing in New Orleans, California and most seacoast towns. The United States never had a 12½ cent coin of its own, but to this day a quarter or 25-cent piece is commonly spoken of as "two bits." The name "tipenny bit" or five-penny bit obviously was derived from a reference to the British and American colonial penny, which was worth a fraction more than two cents of Canadian money.

Curiosities of Smell

No substance that refuses to dissolve in water has an odor. It is the actual substance itself, floating in the air, that appeals to the nose and not simply a vibration of the air, as in the case of light and sound, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The damper a thing is the more powerful odor it gives off. A pleasant proof of the fact can be had by walking in a garden after a rain. There is no end to the curiosities of smell. It is, for example, the vapor of a liquid that smells and not the liquid in the mass itself. If eau de cologne be poured into the nostril the nose refuses to recognize any odor there at all.

Collector's Queer Hobby

The world is full of "collectors." Collectors of stamps, coins, spoons, autographs, etc., etc., and now comes the collection of beer bottle labels. A London dealer recently offered for sale, for $275, 10,000 beer-bottle labels, carefully preserved in 15 albums. They comprise fine, clean specimens from nearly every brewery in the world, of beautiful design and artistic merit. A noted collector has spent 50 years in traveling and getting them together. Many of the breweries represented have been closed down, and the brands are obsolete.

Oldest Juniper Tree

What is believed to be the oldest Juniper tree in the world is now being protected by the forest service of the United States Department of Agriculture. The tree is in northern Utah, and a careful examination shows that the age of the tree to be not less than 3,000 years, thus placing it on a par with the big redwood trees in California. The diameter, breast high, is 7 feet 6 inches and the height is 42 feet. The forest service has erected a sign near the tree, giving the interesting facts about the age-old veteran.—Dairymen's League News.

Flowers Show Emotions

Experiments made at the Jardin D'Acclematation de Paris have, according to the Medical Journal and Record, demonstrated that flowers are almost as quick to show signs of displeasure as human beings.

Most people know what it is to arrange two kinds of blossoms in a vase and then to find a few hours later that the blooms are drooping. In most cases this is due to the fact that flowers object to being associated with one another. Separate the blossoms and, in a short while, they will be as fresh as ever.

Although his ship the Arcturus, on which he and a party of scientists set out to explore the Sargossa Sea for the New York Zoological Society was equipped with wireless, efforts to get in radio communication with Dr. D. William Beebe proved unavailing. Miss Abby Rockefeller, eldest daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has received a license to marry David Merriwether Milton, her childhood sweetheart. The wedding will take place May 14, in her father's New York town house. Mrs. Charles A. Fulton, leader of New York society, has entered suit for divorce, charging her millionaire husband is occupying a castle in France with a French divorcee. At the same time, she sued his immensely wealthy parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Palasmeyer, for $500,000 for alienation of affections. Fulton charged his name during the World War. The Georgia State Prison Commission has recommended to Governor Walker that the death sentence imposed on Mrs. Ida Hughes, of Atlanta, for the murder of her mother-in-law, be commuted to life imprisonment. She was to have been hanged April 24.
