PLAN FOR INAUGURAL

Hindenburg Worried Over Attire—May Appear in Civics but Prefers Military Robe.

BERLIN, April 28.—Germany's new president but only has the care of office to face in the near future, but one problem of an apparently minor nature which is giving him and his advisers real concern in connection with his inauguration. This is the delicate problem of how he shall attire himself for the ceremonial.

As head of the nation, Hindenburg also is commander in chief of the army and it is planned to have him review a military parade immediately after the ceremony in the Reichstag. When heretofore a president has reviewed the troops he has done so in civilian attire, but Hindenburg besides being a civilian president is a retired field marshal general and entitled to wear a uniform.

According to the military etiquette under which the president-elect grew up, it is regarded as an insult if a military man visits the troops in civilian dress. On the other hand, if he appears in uniform before the Reichstag, it is considered certain he will give offense to that body. The president-elect thus seems to be facing a real dilemma.

LONDON, April 28.—Winston Churchill, in his maiden budget laid before the House of Commons today placed the British empire on a gold basis, and announced the re-imposition of the McKenna duties on imported luxuries.

LONDON, April 28.—The gold standard in England will be restored dating from today by a special license to the Bank of England to export gold bullion, it was announced by Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, in his budget speech in the House of Commons this afternoon. The bank's special license, Mr. Churchill said, would operate from today pending the formal lapsing on December 31 next of the 1920 act prohibiting the export of gold bullion.

Mr. Churchill characterized the yield from internal revenue as "satisfactory."

Excess profits and corporation profit taxes showed a deficit of 3,000,000 pound sterling, but these were "meritorious" taxes and were more than counterbalanced by the yield from income tax, super and death taxes.

The consuming power of the British people has been maintained, declared Mr. Churchill.

He said he realized that the surplus of the late chancellor's estimate corresponded with remarkable accuracy to the budget's revenue from spirits. Tobacco had fallen 2,000,000 pounds sterling below the last budget estimate, but beer had advanced by a million sterling.

Mr. Churchill said he was making arrangements to obtain credits in the United States for not less than $200,000,000 with possible expansion.

The American credits being arranged for, Mr. Churchill said, would only be used if and when required and he did not expect that it would be necessary to use them.

The standard rate of the income tax will be reduced by six pence in the pound sterling, Mr. Churchill announced.

With regard to the re-establishment of the gold standard, Mr. Churchill said he would introduce a measure providing for internal notes as well as Bank of England notes, which would be convertible into coin, but only at the option of the Bank of England.

The re-establishment of the gold standard, he said, did not necessarily mean a return to gold coinage.

Simultaneously with these provisions, he said, the Bank of England would be obligated to sell gold bullion in amount not less than 400 fine ounces in exchange for legal tender at a fixed price of 3 pounds sterling 17s 10d 1/2 per standard ounce.

The accumulated gold reserve was 153,000,000 pounds sterling, part of which was in dollars, to the amount of $156,000,000, the chancellor announced. This dollar reserve he said, would be required for the June and September debt funding.

The interest on the British national debt, Churchill announced, has been reduced since 1920 by more than 70,000,000 pounds sterling. It was most important, he said, that the policy of debt repayment should continue.

The normal deadweight charge of the debt had decreased from 7,680,000,000 pounds on March 21, 1924, to 7,646,000,000 pounds. Churchill said he proposed to raise the sinking fund to the statutory limit.

The total expenditure of the budget, Churchill estimated at 799,400,000 pounds sterling, which is 9,400,000 pounds sterling more than last year's budget provided. This, the chancellor termed as a "very disappointing result."

Churchill estimated the revenue for the current year upon the existing basis of taxation at $25,900,000 pounds sterling. He estimated there would be a surplus of 26,600,000 pounds sterling on the present basis of taxation, while counting upon 9,500,000 pounds sterling from German reparations, Churchill said he was not budgeting any repayments of allied debts.

HUGHES BREAKS TO COMMERCE MEN

NEW YORK, April 28.—Charles E. Hughes, former secretary of state, vigorously defended the government of the United States against charges of imperialism in an address today. He spoke at a luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce of the state of New York at which he was presented with an honorary membership. "There are some who have an inveterate although mistaken notion that our government cherishes an imperialistic policy," he said. "They get political headaches from eye-strain caused by the effort to see what does not exist. They imagine, for instance, that they discover a government controlled by bankers, to the bankers themselves, conscious of their unaided efforts, such charges must seem to be the perfection of irony." "The truth is that the investment in foreign loans is and must be a private affair. The business men of America know that the government is not going to involve itself or promise to collect debts. Naturally the department of state has desired information as to transactions with foreign governments. While the government does not control private investments, it has wished in the interests of the general peace and sound condition of commerce, to encourage nations for unproductive purposes, such as would be thought to strengthen military establishments in a world that needs more of reason and less of arms."

REEDSPORT MEN HERE.

A large delegation from Reedport met with the county court this afternoon for the purpose of securing funds for the further improvement of the Reedport section of the Umpqua highway. The bureau of public roads is working on the government section of the road this year and it is the desire of the Reedport men to have the same department continue the work of widening the road from the gap into Reedport. It is thought that by keeping this same crew on the job that the county's section can be improved at a lower cost than if it were necessary to allow a separate contract.

REEDSPORT KIWANIS CLUB VISITS ROSEBURG

The Roseburg Kiwanis club entertained a large crowd of Reedport Kiwanians at the regular noon-hour luncheon today. C. M. Johnson, of Reedport, introduced each of the visitors and they were accorded a round of applause. R. J. Hubbard and Spencer Hinsdale, both of Reedport, spoke briefly concerning the object of the trip to this city and their appearance before the county court. They stated that Reedport is extremely anxious to link up with Roseburg by the completion of the highway down the river and will urge local support in securing the necessary funds. As this is Forest Preservation Week, Carl Neal, local forestry official, had charge of today's program. N. E. Macduff of Eugene, forestry supervisor of that section, was the speaker and made a fine appeal to the Kiwanians to preserve the forests. His talk was one of the finest ever made before the local Kiwanis club. "Bush" DeFarr won the attendance prize today, a fine framed photo of a scene in the Umpqua National Forest.

This policy, it was said in official circles this morning, would be pursued by allies who desire above all to avoid anything that might provoke further reaction in Germany which was manifested in the election of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg to the presidency.
