MARKETS

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) PORTLAND, Ore., April 29.—Demand for country dressed meats, especially veal, has fallen off until prices are off from 1 to 1 1/2 cents a pound. The extreme top on choice light veal is 16c. Some of the commission men believe choice veal would sell at 13 cents before the day is over.

As soon as prices began to weaken, butchers practically withdrew from the market expecting lower prices.

Choice light hogs are only partly affected by the weakness in the country veal market. A few fancy hogs are coming in and they are still bringing around 17 and 17 1/2 cents, although the demand is limited to strictly fancy stock.

Print butter is moving out this morning at the cent decline with stock selling at 42 cents, creamery butta. On the exchange, cubs were asked off a half cent for extras at 49 cents. Other grades held steady.

Egg prices are unchanged with extras still posted at 31 cents on the dairy board. Current receipts are bid at 26 1/2 cents net. The weekly storage report of the government issued today is considered bullish by the local trade. Portland shows 45,936 cases of eggs as compared to 21,527 cases on the same date last year.

No change is shown in the live poultry market. Receipts today were only moderate with a very light call.

Apparatus is plentiful now and cheaper. Best Oregon grass sells at $1.40 per dozen bunches. Local hay dealers report that demand for hay has fallen 50 per cent in the past two weeks. Demand now is limited to horse feeds such as cheat, oats and vetch and timothy. Prices are unchanged.
