HATCHERY AT ROCK CREEK AUTHORIZED BY COMMISSION

The new salmon hatchery to be constructed on Rock Creek, and to replace the hatchery above Glide was officially authorized yesterday by the Oregon State fish commission. Although the plans have been approved, and work already started, the official authorization was not made until the regular meeting yesterday. The hatchery will be rushed to completion, and it is expected that it will handle ten million eggs this year. The racks are already in and the eyeing stations are being set up, so that hatchery operations will be under way even though the buildings will not be done for some time.

It was the original intention of the commission, after abandoning the site above Glide, to establish the largest hatchery in the state at Winchester, where it would attract the attention of the tourists to the fishing industry of the state. The commission planned to expend a large sum, and make the hatchery a show place, which would be of interest to everyone passing along the highway, but during the winter, the high water proved the plans impractical, and it was decided then to adopt the Rock Creek site. The land has been donated by the Kendall brothers, and the buildings to be occupied by the Superintendent and Hatchery man are already in process of construction.

TAKE ACTION TO FORCE RETURN OF BANKING OFFICES

(Associated Press Local Wire.)
SALEM, Ore., April 29.—Following a formal demand made April 6, District Attorney John H. Carson today filed in the circuit court here a petition for an alternative writ of mandamus requiring Frank C. Gramwert, state superintendent of banks, to return the state banking department from Portland to Salem. The petition is on request of George Putnam, publisher of the Capital Journal, who made the demand of the district attorney.

Sam A. Koser, is also made a defendant in the case and the petition demands that he furnish quarters for the department in Salem.

The proceedings cite the law which requires that the state banking department have its offices in Salem. The banking code was amended by the 1925 legislature.

NO FEAR OF EVIL resulting from change of diet, water or climate, concerns those who take on the short trip, summer vacation or long journey.

Ready for emergency—night or day.

but when the amended code goes into effect May 28 will still require the banking department to have its offices in Salem, only a branch office being allowed in Portland under the amended code.

The present law covering the case says that "the state bank examiner shall maintain his office in the city of Salem, and the secretary of state is hereby required to furnish suitable quarters therefor."

The new code, effective May 28, says:

"The superintendent of banks shall maintain his office in the city of Salem, and the secretary of state is hereby required to furnish suitable quarters therefor; provided, the superintendent of banks, when considered by him to be expedient or convenient, may establish branch offices within the city of Portland."

Since the removal of the department to Portland, about March 24, the superintendent of banks has established a desk in the state house an occasionally a clerk of the department comes to Salem. This says the petition filed today, is a subterfuge and is for the purpose only of making it appear that said superintendent of banks and said state banking department maintain an office in said city of Salem.

ATTACK DAWES PLAN

(Associated Press Local Wire.)
WASHINGTON, April 29.—Vice-President Dawes' program for reform of the senate rules was attacked today by Senator Feas, republican, Ohio, who declared a strict limitation on debate would aid rather than check the "mania for new laws." The Ohio senator, who made his views public after a visit to the White House said, however, the senate should amend its rules to limit speakers strictly to a discussion of the subject of the debate.

VICTIM OF "ACID BATH" TESTIFIES

(Associated Press Local Wire.)
LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 29.—Young Darby Day, Jr., son of a Chicago capitalist, whom physicians say will be disfigured for life as a result of an "acid bath," alleged to have been given by his wife, Mrs. Bernice Lundstrom Day, last February, went on the witness stand in court here today—the prosecution's star witness against her.

The first exhibit to the jury was a deep red scar on Day's right temple, extending from above the hair line well down the side of his face.

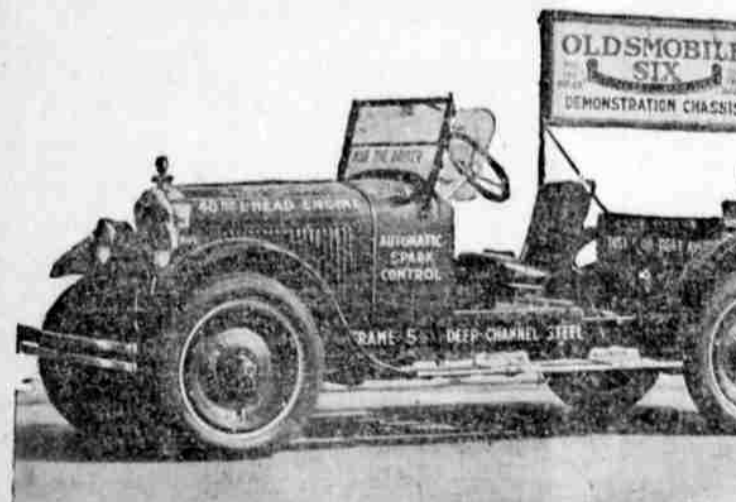

His story on the stand covered several quarrels with the young wife after their marriage in Chicago and on a Southern honeymoon, culminating in one at Beverly Hills, February 3, when he said she doused acid into his face while he was at the wheel of his automobile.

FIREWORKS IN FORESTS ON JULY 4 ARE FORBIDDEN

"The throwing or placing of a burning cigarette, cigar, match, pipe, firecracker, or any ignited substance, or the discharge of any kind of fireworks, in any place where it may start a fire" is prohibited in the National Forests under a new regulation just issued by Secretary of Agriculture W. M. Jardine, under authority vested in him by congress. Word of this new regulation has just been received by District Forester, C. M. Granger.

Violation of the new regulation is a misdemeanor, punishable under federal law by a fine of not more than $500, or 12 months imprisonment, or both.

Local forest officials suggest that the new regulation would make a good text for a forest protection talk during American Forest Week, which is to be observed April 27 to May 3.

The forest service plans to enforce the regulation strictly. They hope, by so doing materially to reduce the number of man-caused forest fires, particularly during the fourth of July. Many people still seem to have a mistaken idea that patriotism consists largely of discharging fireworks in dry forested areas, it is said.

LAND SETTLEMENT PROGRAM MEETS WITH MUCH FAVOR

PORTLAND, Ore., April 29.—(Special)—Major communities of Oregon are thoroughly sold on the value of the present state-wide settlement program, according to the report received by the land settlement department of the Portland chamber of Commerce following publication of the annual report of the department last week, in which it was mentioned that more than 700 families, bringing with them an aggregate capital in excess of $2,000,000, had been brought here during the past year.

"Personally," writes Lloyd L. Crocker, president of the Roseburg Chamber of Commerce, "I think the work done by your department was more directly responsible for the large number of settlers we received in Douglas County than any other agency. We received more real farmers, that had some money, than we have before in ten years, I think I am safe in saying."

"We certainly think the people of Southern Oregon should appreciate your efforts in settling up this part of the country," writes J. W. Lucas of Grants Pass, representative of large undeveloped holdings under the Grants Pass irrigation district, in reporting the names of 30 new settlers. "I am very positive that a few years of this kind of concentrated effort along the land settlement line will make Oregon one of the best states on the Pacific Coast."

EXONERATE ATTORNEY

SALEM, Ore., April 29.—Exoneration of Clyde N. Johnson, former district attorney of Lane county, and dismissal of the charges against him, asking for his disbarment are recommended in a report to the supreme court by the grievance committee of the state bar association. The report is in the hands of the court and has not yet been acted on. Lawyers Edmundson and others in Lane county accused Johnson of immoral conduct.

PARIS, April 29.—The allied council of ambassadors today referred to the various governments represented in the council the supplementary report of Marshal Foch of Germany's violations of the treaty of Versailles. Action on the document thus is postponed until the members of the council receive instructions from their chancelleries.

BERLIN, April 29.—An unenviable stranger arriving in Berlin during the presidential election or the few days preceding and following it would have had difficulty in ascertaining the official flag of the German republic.

The black, white and red of the empire dominated the black, red and gold which was officially adopted to represent the Germany of the Weimar constitution. Then there were isolated displays of the red emblem of communism.

Realization that such a situation is untenable has caused the people party to bring a resolution before the Reichstag demanding official redaction of the monarchical colors as the national banner.

It is argued that as the republicans accepted the name "Deutschland Uber Alles," they might also safely revert to the colors of pre-war days.

TO ARRANG STEPHENSON

(Associated Press Local Wire.)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 29.—D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, will be formally arraigned Monday on charges of murdering Miss Madge Oberholzer, 28, Earl Kluck and Karl Gentry, former Evansville, Indiana, residents, indicted with Stephenson, also, who were brought into court at that time.

Officials said the arraignment would be held regardless of the outcome of the hearing set for Friday on a petition asking that the trio be admitted to bail pending trial. They are held in the county jail.

LUMBER SUBJECT OF ARTICLE IN APRIL ISSUE OF THE VOLT

An article of interest to this community under the head of "Products of Power" appears in the April issue of The VOLT and presents an excellent story of the lumber industry of Southern Oregon. Special mention is made of the new Owen-Oregon Lumber Company plant near Medford which when completed, is expected to become one of the largest pine lumber producers on the Pacific Coast.

The romance of lumbering is treated in an interesting manner as is indicated by the following excerpt from the feature article:

"From the moment the first axe stroke bites into the standing trees, the theme of lumber is motion. Gigantic logs, finally to be made into timbers, boards, lath, or delicate molding, are snaked and high-lined through the brush like things alive. Loading cranes daintily pick up two-thousand-pound logs and settle them on cars. Steel chains bind them; a clanking Shay type engine bustles up, whistles shrilly, and the steel rails hum as the logs begin their journey to the log-pond at the mill.

"Men with pile-poles harry them again. A steel-hooked chain leads them into the maw of the mill and upon a darting saw-carriage. Steel hands rise out of the mill depths, fasten themselves upon a log and with uncanny sureness smooth it out for its first ride into the sawing mill.

"The territory served by the California Oregon Power Company and the rest of the Pacific Northwest contains a large portion of the existing timber resources of the United States.

"Lumber has been a major industry of the Pacific Northwest for many years, but during the past few years it has received a considerable impetus from the increasing demand for lumber products and the diminished supply in other sections of the country. More scientific and careful cutting, with reforestation, will preserve Western timber resources for many generations.

"These and other factors have built up a very substantial lumber industry at Klamath Falls, Weed, Hill, McCloud, Medford, Grants Pass, Glendale, and in fact throughout Northern California and Southern Oregon.

MOVIE STARS ARE INJURED IN WRECK

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 29.—Four motion picture players and a property man were injured and $10,000 worth of motion picture equipment was destroyed in the wreck of the Santa Fe train last night near San Diego. It was announced here today at Warner Brothers' Studio from which a party of 22 was on the train.

Mary Prevost, Louise Fazenda, Kenneth Harlan and Walter Long, players, were cut by glass and bruised, and Bob Webb, property man, was burned in attempting to save Engineer John Warboys, it was announced.

LOS ANGELES, April 29.—One dead and 35 injured is the number on a casualty list in the wreck of a Santa Fe train last night, 20 miles north of San Diego as published today by the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway offices here. In addition four persons were reported injured whose names at 9:30 o'clock this morning were learned by the company officials. John Warboys, engineer, Los Angeles, was killed. The locomotive and five cars went over the grade.

The thirty five injured listed on the casualty list by the Santa Fe were not seriously injured, but were able to proceed to San Diego hotels after emergency treatment by the doctors and nurses from the special relief train from San Diego.

The locomotive left the track on a curve at the Linda Vista grade, the Santa Fe announced. It was raining. The exact cause for the derailment was not ascertained this morning, the officials said. The tracks were found to be in good condition and being cleared for resumption of traffic by the afternoon.

Rolling over a field beside the track, the locomotive was followed by a baggage car, smoker and coach, all of which splintered over the locomotive. Two coaches remained on the tracks. Seven of the injured were in the smoking car.

Bob Webb, motion picture property man of Hollywood, was declared by the Santa Fe superintendent to be the hero of the wreck, having led in the rescue of passengers.

Sound Reflection Helps Blind to Comprehend

Whenever a sound impinges on a flat vertical surface of any appreciable area it is reflected much the same as light—not echoed. An echo is also a reflection, but of a pronounced type; but the sort of reflection to which I refer takes place at distances shorter than necessary for an echo, and results in merely the addition to the original sound of a characteristic quality that could probably be classified as an after-tone. Poles, trees, walls, buildings, and even a fairly fat, full, vertical, good-sized surface, will produce this effect.

The seeing rarely, if ever, are aware of it, of course. They do not need to be. But the blind are not only aware of it, but make thoroughly practical use of it for such everyday purposes as locating objects and finding, for example, the gaps in a long line of parked cars. When a blind man taps his walking stick on the pavement or shuffles his feet he is more often causing sounds which can be reflected than by trying to determine his location by touch.

The utilization of one of hearing's possibilities generally wasted is also responsible for the sixth sense myth, and only one of the several ways in which this sense when developed serves the blind.—Charles McGehee Adams in the Atlantic Monthly.

SCOUTS ENTERTAIN AT P. T. A. MEETING

At the regular meeting of the high school parent teacher association last night, an interesting program was given by Troop 1 of the Boy Scouts. Under the direction of Russell Lintott, the boys erected a camp upon the stage, and then went through a day's routine in brief form, showing what scout camps are like. From the first bugle until taps, the program was followed out, even to the hazing of members for breaking rules. Mr. Lintott presented the merit badge receipts to the scouts passing in the various tests, the program in all being very entertaining.

Pretty Legend About Island in South Seas

One of the most picturesque spots in beautiful Hawaii is Cocoon Island, in Hilo harbor. This little bit of earthly paradise possesses a mythical origin. The story runs that the chief Maui with his magic hook fished the island of Maui up from the sea and planned to join it to the island of Hawaii. The plan failed because one of his brothers, who was in the canoe with him, disobeyed a command that he must not look behind, and the island of Maui slipped back to its present position on the map, and only a small part thereof, Cocoon Island, remained on the hook. In this district is Konaole, the site of a famous temple, Maunali, built many centuries ago and reconstructed in about 1400 by King Lono. On that occasion 24 human sacrifices were offered. When Lono died, Maui and his half-brother Hahaione both wanted to succeed him. The high priest had the family war god at his temple, and both raced there from nearby points to secure it. Maui got there first and won the title.

Beasts as Baggage

R. L. Dittmers tells an amusing story of sheepherding wild animals from San Francisco to New York. Among them were pythons, prongy water buffalo and two orang-utans. Mr. Dittmers was kept busy preventing the men from changing in temperatures. The larger orang had a sunny warehouse room, but shivered at night; being given an army blanket, he soon learned to wrap up in it. The smaller orang lived in his master's room at the hotel, upon reluctant permission from the management. By the kind co-operation of the railroad all these specimens were transported on the overland limited as baggage; four days' travel brought them safely to their new home.
