

PROPOSED NEW TRAFFIC LAW PRESENTED TO COUNCIL; FOLLOWS STATE REGULATIONS

Ordinance Read First and Second Times Includes Provisions of State Motor Law and Rules, With Additions to Meet Needs of Traffic Inside the City.

The city's new traffic ordinance was presented to the city council last night and placed on first and second readings, several changes will probably be made before it is placed on its third reading for adoption. The ordinance drafted by City Attorney Wimberly, follows closely the provisions of the state law, and road rules, embodying also some of the provisions of former city ordinances, and including several new features believed necessary for the handling of traffic.

Section 1 of the ordinance is devoted to definitions, giving explanations of such terms as streets, curbs, vehicles, etc.

Section 2 contains the rules and regulations governing the operation of motor vehicles, conforming closely to the state road rules, providing for right of way, arm device and horn signals, turning, passing, safety measures, parking, speed contests, speed limits, qualifications of drivers, security, traffic control, accidents, etc.

Subdivisions 1 to 9 inclusive, embody the road rules of the state law providing that cars must keep to the right side of the road, and that cars proceeding in the same direction pass each other on the left, regulating the speed in passing, signals for passing, keeping to the proper side of the road in passing or meeting, giving right of way at intersections, prohibiting cutting corners, and providing proper arm device and horn signals, such as are in general use, being provided by the state law.

Section 10 provides for regulation and control of the streets during speed contests, the permission of city authorities being required before races can be staged.

Section 11 provides for regulation and control of the streets during speed contests, the permission of city authorities being required before races can be staged.

Section 12 provides for regulation and control of the streets during speed contests, the permission of city authorities being required before races can be staged.

UNUSUAL SLANTS AT UNUSUAL PEOPLE

MADRID, May 5.—Gypsies have more or less faith in the prophetic powers of certain members of their tribe, but none of those who rove with the caravan to which La Miralle belongs believed ardently until she began to exercise her remarkable talent for prophecy. Senorita Miralle, whose ability as a dancer has been taken her from the roving road to the Madrid theater, is given credit for predicting the Japanese earthquake, the Spanish military coup, the details of the settlement of the Corfu tangle between Italy and Greece, and the disturbance in Bulgaria. Many other instances of her foresight are sighted. Her latest prediction is that Greece as a republic will be a great strength in European powers in the future. Although the matter has not been touched on by the press, it is known she is being consulted from time to time by high officials.

Subdivision 10, of Section 2, reads as follows: "Every vehicle shall be kept on the right side of the street or highway travelled within the city of Roseburg; and every vehicle left standing shall be on the right half of the street or highway and at no greater distance from the curb than two feet from each wheel (next to the curb) of said vehicle, and no vehicle shall be left standing in any street intersection or in any street within twenty feet of the corner of the curb at the street intersection or within ten feet of any fire hydrant. No vehicle shall be left standing in any one place on any of the following streets, to-wit: Jackson street between Douglas street and Cass street, Cass street between Jackson street and Sheridan street, Sheridan street between Cass street and Lane street, for a period of longer than 30 minutes at any one time, between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and six o'clock in the evening of any day; and no vehicle shall be left standing or be kept on any street within 100 feet from the north end of Deer Creek bridge at any time."

Another provision will be prohibiting parking on any street after midnight.

Subdivision 11 provides for regulation and control of the streets during speed contests, the permission of city authorities being required before races can be staged.

Section 12 provides for regulation and control of the streets during speed contests, the permission of city authorities being required before races can be staged.

Section 13 provides for regulation and control of the streets during speed contests, the permission of city authorities being required before races can be staged.

Section 14 provides for regulation and control of the streets during speed contests, the permission of city authorities being required before races can be staged.

Section 15 provides for regulation and control of the streets during speed contests, the permission of city authorities being required before races can be staged.

Section 16 provides for regulation and control of the streets during speed contests, the permission of city authorities being required before races can be staged.

Section 17 provides for regulation and control of the streets during speed contests, the permission of city authorities being required before races can be staged.

Section 18 provides for regulation and control of the streets during speed contests, the permission of city authorities being required before races can be staged.

Section 19 provides for regulation and control of the streets during speed contests, the permission of city authorities being required before races can be staged.

CATTLE ATE DYNAMITE

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
MEDFORD, Ore., May 5.—E. B. Day, a rancher in the Sams Valley district found four of his best beef cattle dead on the range a few days ago and reported the matter to the state veterinarian W. H. Lytle of Salem, who came down after an autopsy declared the animals had been killed after eating dynamite. The wrappers on the dynamite with the markers name plainly visible were found in the stomachs of the dead steers. According to Mr. Day the state will assist Jackson county officials in prosecuting the parties responsible for leaving dynamite loose on the cattle range.

BILL JARDINE TAKES DARE TO RIDE A BRONCHO

Secretary of Agriculture to Enter Riding Event at Mandan, N. D.

OLD COW PUNCHER

Boyhood Chum Dares Him to Take a Swing at a Tough Horse and Bill Shows His Metal.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
MANDAN, N. D., May 5.—Accepting a "dare" of a boyhood chum, William "Bill" Jardine, secretary of agriculture has been entered in the broncho riding event at the third annual Mandan round-up to be held here July 2, 3 and 4.

Mr. Jardine "will be able to ride as many bronchos as you can lead before him" said F. M. Russell, assistant secretary of agriculture, in a letter to John M. Stephens, superintendent of the United States Northern Great Plains field station here. "Bill" and John Stephens were both born at Malad City, Idaho, and grew up together. Both punched cows as youngsters and both developed reputations as "mean hombres" with an "outlaw" then "Bill" went over into Western Montana and punched cows for four years. Both gravitated into the scientific side of entering the government service as assistant to Jardine when the latter was head of the Idaho agricultural department.

When Stephens was in Washington recently he had a talk with his old pal, the new secretary of agriculture, who informed him of his intended tour through the west and his intention to visit the government farm at Mandan.

"Better come up at the time of the Mandan round-up, and I'll get you a rough broncho to ride," suggested Stephens.

"I'll do it if I can make it," returned Jardine. "I'll let you know."

"That you can't stick on an 'outlaw' net you pull leather," dared Stephens.

"I'll have plenty of opportunity to tackle tough horses," to guide and regulate traffic; section 7 making it unlawful to remove or deface any sign, and section 8 requiring lights complying with the state law.

RIFFIANS ARE PREPARING TO ATTACK FRENCH

Invaders Ready to Strike at Three Principal Points Observers Say.

MARCHING TO FEZ

Native Forces to Launch a Big Offensive Today—Airplane Scouts Sight Troops.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
FEZ, Morocco, May 5.—The Rifians are preparing to attack the French forces at three principal points, it was reported today by French aviators after General Colombat's column had engaged the invaders near Djebel Bihani to relieve the French outposts still surrounded by the tribesmen.

Marshal Lyautey began again inspection of the area, along the expected line of attack to satisfy himself of the French preparations for resistance and for counter attack and also to ascertain the state of mind of the local tribesmen whose uprising the invaders are attempting to cause. This possible uprising is feared by the French authorities more than the actual onslaughts of Abd-el-Krim's forces.

Information of the French intelligence division is that one force of Rifians is assembling in the center of the front to attempt to march in the general direction of Fez. Another native force apparently is assembling to attack the French left, while a third is being formed against the French right.

The result of the first skirmishes, French authorities say, shows that Abd-el-Krim's warriors are little prepared to meet French tactics. They appeared surprised at the deadly character of French fire and although they faced General Colombat's men courageously at the beginning, they broke and fled in disorder when they saw the effects of the French fire.

Today's French offensive in the Djebel Bihani region was intended to keep open the territory around the French advanced posts rather than to force a decisive combat. Most of the outposts have now been freed from envelopment by the Rifians.

LOWERING OF SURTAX RATES WILL BE URGED

Secretary of Treasury Mellon Says Radical Reduction Planned.

TALKS TO BANKERS

Tax Must Not Be Levied So High as to Hamper Business, Speaking of Income Rates.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
JACKSON, Miss., May 5.—A "lowering of the maximum surtax rates and a radical reduction in rates and the elimination of the federal state tax," in all probability will be recommended to the house ways and means committee by the treasury next fall, Secretary Mellon today declared in an address before members of the Mississippi Bankers' Association.

The secretary said that while it would not be appropriate for him to set forth a "definite program, until the treasury makes its recommendations to the committee in the light of income then available" he felt sure that the "margin of surplus" would be ample for these reforms.

The levy of an income tax, at proper rates, is a fair and economically sound means of raising the immense revenues required for the operation of the government, Secretary Mellon asserted.

"But the tax must not be levied at rates so high as to hamper business, slacken initiative, divert investment and encourage avoidance of tax."

"If the position of the income tax is to be made secure, we must preserve its essential integrity. We must give to the country a law which closes the most obvious doors of escape from taxation, without at the same time exposing the law to contempt by loading it with complicated provisions unsuccessfull in stopping tax avoidance."

"Our present law has many of those defects."

"In attempting reform of the law, two courses are open, the secretary pointed out.

The treasury, he said, has frequently recommended to congress the adoption of a constitutional amendment restricting further issue of tax exempt securities. This, however, can not be counted on for the present, he added.

"Personally, I feel that this is the strongest possible test of whether it is really desired to make wealth bear its share of the tax burden," he explained.

"All that is necessary is to close the door and thereby cut off this inviting avenue of escape from taxation."

"Since this is not now possible, he continued, "there is consequently no immediate remedy for the situation within the power of congress except a readjustment of the surtaxes on a basis that will attract capital back into productive business and keep it from exhausting itself in tax exempt securities or from taking advantage of the many other methods of investment by which taxes are avoided."

EASTERN STAR IN SPOKANE GETS AN INFERNAL MACHINE

SPOKANE, Wash., May 5.—An infernal machine sent by express to Electa chapter, Eastern Star Lodge here from Los Angeles, was turned over to the police, who announced today that had it not failed to explode when opened, it would have been able to kill 50 persons. The express company's tag showed the sender as H. E. Colbert, 327 North Dillon St., Los Angeles.

The machine, enclosed in a clear box which in turn was contained in a suitcase was filled with gun powder and shot gun shells, with a quantity of small shot. It was so connected with an electric battery that a spark would ignite the powder when the suitcase was opened. Failure of the electric circuit to be completed when the suitcase was opened last night prevented an explosion, the police said.

C. W. Macomber, worthy patron of the chapter, said that before he opened the suitcase he had pulled on a copper wire which had protruded from one end. He thought he had thus destroyed the electrical connection. He could ascribe no motive for sending such a machine to the local lodge.

LOS ANGELES, May 5.—Checking here of the name and address of the supposed shipper of an infernal machine to an Eastern Star Lodge at Spokane, Wash., revealed no H. E. Colbert, in the city directory nor any person of that name living at 327 North Dillon Street, the address on the shipping tag.

CONFESSION OF MAN CONFIRMED BY THE POLICE

Convict and Wife Sign Statement to Warden of Penitentiary.

ANGRY AT WIFE

Prisoner Makes Confession Because He Wanted Wife to Spend Time in Prison.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
SALEM, Ore., May 5.—Jealousy inspired by the belief that his wife was running around the country and enjoying herself while he is confined to the state prison here, is believed by prison officials to be the motive behind the confession of C. R. Moor, convict, that he shot and killed Harry Brown, of Sacramento, during an attempted highway robbery near Sacramento in September, 1923.

Moor the prison authorities say, is insanely jealous of his wife, and when she visited him at the prison last Friday to inform him that she would have to go to Portland to secure employment he fell into a rage and declared he would tell what he knew and she would find herself in prison too. According to Moor's confession, his wife drove the car in which they escaped from the scene of the murder.

The confession was made Friday after Moor had been visited by his wife and the two had quarreled over the woman's declared intention to go to Portland to seek work. She became hysterical.

Moor became violent and asked to be taken before the warden. He was handcuffed and in the warden's office signed a written confession to the Brown murder.

Moor was sent up from Eugene last March for auto theft after he had been extradited from Denver. Eugene authorities placed little credence in the confession because of a statement Moor made to authorities there that he had killed a man in his holdup in Portland. The telegram received from Sacramento, however, appears to confirm the confession made here Friday. Warden Dalrymple has notified Sacramento authorities that Moor will be turned over to them if they desire. The confession was signed by both Moor and his wife.

The confession states that Moor and his wife drove to Erio, Pa., to California, reaching Sacramento September 17, 1923. While attempting to hold up a man on September 23 he killed the man who proved to be Brown, says the confession. Moor believes a young woman was with Brown.

Pursuit was begun at once, but because Mr. Moor had the car in motion when the shooting took place the couple made their escape. The statement says they drove to Stockton and Fresno, later lived in Arizona and Texas, and came to Oregon and located near Eugene.

After the automobile theft at Eugene, Moor escaped to Iowa and while there returned to Oregon from Clifton, Iowa, attacked the deputy sheriff who had him in custody, with a monkey wrench and fractured his skull. He failed to escape.

Information from C. S. Morrill, superintendent of the California state bureau of identification, Moor has served in various prisons in the last 10 years and has been known by the names of R. C. White, C. R. White, Mac Moore and Clifford Rolland Moore. Records show that he has done time at the Indiana reformatory, Folsom, San Quentin, Reno and Denver.

The confession is apparently confirmed by a telegram received by Warden Dalrymple late yesterday from B. McShane, chief of police at Sacramento. The telegram stated that details in a letter sent (Continued on page 5)

JESS BALDWIN SENTENCED TO 30 DAYS IN JAIL

Jess Baldwin, found guilty a few days ago of a charge of being drunk and disorderly at a recent Dixonville dance, was sentenced to 30 days in jail today by Justice of the Peace George Jones. He immediately gave notice of appeal to the circuit court.

LEE GOODMAN GUILTY

Lee Goodman was found guilty this afternoon by a jury in the justice court on a charge of driving a motor vehicle for hire without a license. This is the second time he has been tried on the same charge, the first case resulting in an acquittal. Considerable interest was shown in the case.

HUMIDITY IS LOW

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the thermometer at the U. S. Weather Bureau observatory, stood at 86 degrees. Meteorologist Bell reported the relative humidity to be 21 degrees which is very low. This low humidity makes conditions favorable for forest fires, and warnings have been issued to those in charge of fire prevention work in the forests.
