SUFFERED TWO YEARS

Finally Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Says Mrs. Anderson

Rangleley, Maine.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me greatly for pains in the sides and back, headaches and tired feelings. ATHLETIC EVENTS POSTPONED ON ACCOUNT OF RAIN The continued rains today made it necessary the postponement of the various athletic events scheduled for today. This morning there was a grade school sectional track and field meet scheduled, but as the Laurelwood field was under water in many places, the meet could not be held. The Medford high school tennis players, who were to have met the Roseburg high school team, came to Roseburg, but the weather was such that the tournament could not take place. Roseburg and Myrtle Point were booked for a dual track meet this afternoon, but this was also postponed.

C. A. Lockwood declared this afternoon that the golf tournament between the Roseburg and Marshfield country club teams will be played, regardless of the weather conditions, and urged all of the members of the local clubs to turn out tomorrow morning.

EARL SANDE WINS DERBY IN KENTUCKY

place and $1,000 for fourth. Quatrain, winner of the New Orleans handicap and the Louisiana Derby remained the outstanding favorite in the early wagering at odds of 3 to 2. Captain Hal was quoted at 3 to 1, while the four horses headed by Chantey, representing the Whitney entry, were third in the wagering. The price on Kentucky Cardinal was 6 to 1.

Quatrain will be ridden by Jockey Kenny Breuninger, a comparative novice, without the skill and daring of Earl Sande, but chosen because the colt seemed to work better under Breuninger's guidance than any other rider. Sande, rated as have the mount on Flying Ebony, while Mack Garner, the leading jockey in the west, will be astride Kentucky Cardinal.

Soon after the rising sun started casting its rays on the Ohio river, Louisville started filling up with the invading thousands until street intersections were impassable because of traffic jams. A steady stream of dust-covered automobiles poured into the city and thence to the Churchill Downs course.

It was an impossibility to obtain hotel accommodations last night. Thousands of visitors spent the night in private homes and sleeping aboard special trains which cluttered every inch of space in the railroad yards.

Fifty one years ago Kentucky's first derby won by Aristides in 1875 for a stake of $2,850, was witnessed by not more than four thousand patrons of the turf.

In 1924 more than 75,000 spectators saw Black Gold capture the derby winning $52,775.

Conservative estimates placed the amount of money that would change hands at the derby at $1,500,000. There were 194 cashiers baling money at the mutual machines as fast as it was handed to them. A line of bettors stretching for almost a block was lined up before each of the mutual windows all afternoon.

By two o'clock the course was packed with a sweltering, elbowing crowd. Notable personages and persons less important gathered from all over the land for the event. Leaders in the political and financial worlds held forth in the club house, while the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker were no less enthusiastic on the lawn below the grandstand.

Below the club house, grandstand, paddock and field the vistas of vantage were measured by inches, coveted by the less fortunate and cherished by the more resourceful. The grandstand was taxed to its utmost by thousands who came as early as 8 o'clock. In the clubhouse the open spaces were only slightly less occupied than in the grandstand.

Enough automobiles to support an oil octopus were stowed away like toys in every possible inch of parking space on the grounds. In the streets of the section and open spaces far beyond. Autos were parked by the street.

Besprinkled throughout the long rows of boxes in grandstand and clubhouse were men and women known throughout the nation. A roll call of these personages might well have resembled a section from America's "Whose Who", there was William Gibbs McAdoo and Mrs. McAdoo, daughter of the late President Wilson. They came from their home in Los Angeles.

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt of New York was another box holder. Mrs. Vanderbilt owns the great Sarazen.

Mrs. Payne Whitney, owner of the Green Tree stable which houses Chantey was another as was Harry Payne Whitney who came to see his colors borne. Marshall Field was here although his derby candidate, Stimulus has failed to train for the event.

The American Legion was well represented, National Commander James A. Drain of Indianapolis was a box holder as was John R. Quinn of San Francisco.
