

HORACE G. WILSON PLEADS GUILTY TODAY

OREGON HISTORICAL SOCIETY Public Auditorium

FURTHER TIME PLEA DENIED BY THE COURT

Insincerity of Pretended Effort to Secure His Witnesses Shown

SENTENCE ON MONDAY

Gets Time to Close Affairs Before Paying Penalty for Violation of Mann Law.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 19.—Horace Greeley Wilson of Roseburg, former Indian agent at Klamath reservation, this afternoon pleaded guilty after an effort to obtain a postponement of his trial.

Federal Judge R. S. Bean said he would defer imposition of sentence until next Monday, in order to give Wilson time to arrange his affairs.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 19.—Federal Judge C. E. Bean this morning overruled the motion of Horace Greeley Wilson of Roseburg former Klamath Indian agent, for a third postponement of his trial on charges of violating the Mann Act. Wilson had asked a further delay of six months.

"This appeal coming on the eve of trial comes too late," declared Judge Bean. "The fact that the defendant is without money is no ground for postponing a criminal trial. If this ground would be upheld, it would not be long until this excuse would be used to postpone every criminal trial that is serious."

Judge Bean stated that the case had already been postponed several times upon the request of the defendant, and that "there is no assurance he will be any more ready for trial at the end of six months than he is today."

Wilson offered an affidavit that averred he had tried to sell his land in order to get money for his defense, that he had been unable to do so, that his first attorney had quit and that his present counsel, L. B. Sandblast, of Portland, had only had the case a few days, that he could not bring witnesses here to combat the first three counts in the indictment and that it would be necessary for him to have six months in order to prepare the defense.

In replying Assistant United States Attorney Joseph Stearns declared: "The government has shown the defendant every consideration. But I have on most excellent authority that Mr. Wilson openly boasted on the streets of his home in Roseburg that this case would never come to trial. I have been informed that during the time he was supposed to be traveling about getting his witnesses and trying to sell his property, he was playing cards in the club in Roseburg."

Stearns said the government has spent more than $5,000 bringing witnesses from Washington, New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Los Angeles and other places.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
NEW YORK, May 19.—The connection of associates of Henry Ford with a New York bond house was generally held in financial circles today as meaning the manufacturer's entrance in Wall Street. Yet from Detroit came a denial that it had any such significance. The newly organized Guardian Detroit Company opened for business yesterday in the Equitable Building on Broadway, near Wall Street. One of the directors is Ernest Kanzler, vice-president of the Ford Motor Company.

The Guardian Detroit Company is announced as an investment branch of the Guardian Trust Company of Detroit, of which Edsel Ford and Kanzler held similar positions with the Kean, Higbie Company before its entry into the new company.

ROBBERY AT CONLEE HOME LAST NIGHT

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Conlee, on Washington street, was entered last night, and a vanity bag and gold fountain pen taken. While the family were all in the front part of the house, some unknown person jimmied the side window, and reached through with a long handled tool, and lifted a silver vanity bag from Miss Lorlene Conlee's dresser. The bag contained a gold fountain pen, and a small amount of change. Footprints in the window clearly indicated how the theft was performed and the long handled fork was found nearby. Officers rounded up a number of suspects but could find nothing to connect any of them with the crime. The vanity bag was found this morning, but the contents had been removed.

TRIBUTE PAID BY NATION TO GENERAL MILES

Famous American Soldier Rests in Mausoleum of His Own Design.

CORTEGE IS IMPOSING

Personnel of Immense Host Includes Veterans of Four Wars, Heads of Army and Navy

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
WASHINGTON, May 19.—Washington stood with bowed head today to express the nation's tribute to one of its great military heroes, Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles.

President Coolidge arranged his affairs so that he might occupy a place in the funeral cortege signifying the country's reverence for the memory and achievements of the famous campaigner.

To the military service, loved and served so faithfully by him, was the general's body entrusted for the last march to Arlington National Cemetery, there to repose beside the body of his wife and among his comrades of three wars now sleeping beneath the grassy slopes.

A troop of United States Cavalry, the arm of the service which the general led so well in wrestling the western frontier from the connections, assembled at the residence to escort the casket to St. John's Episcopal Church where the simple rites of that faith were prepared by Rev. Dr. Robert Johnston. The solemn march to the cemetery ending at the mausoleum constructed under the general's direction would conclude the ceremony. Six black horses were selected to draw the caisson and officers of the army, navy and marine corps were designated to pace behind them. Surrounding the group battalions of soldiers, sailors and marines led by Brigadier General Samuel D. Rockenbach, commander of the District of Washington, formed the escort of honor. Nine commanders whose history in the service of the nation fills pages besides those inscribed with the deeds of General Miles and the soil of that faith were given the right to march with the body as honorary pallbearers. They were Major Generals Dennis E. Nolan, acting chief of staff of the army; Hugh L. Scott, Oswald E. Ernst, John L. Clem, Henry T. Allen and William M. Black; Rear-Admiral George Baird, Brigadier-Generals Edward J. McClelland and John A. Johnson, and Truxton Beale, son of the late Major-General Beale.

President Coolidge found his position in the procession with members of the general's family and his close associates, immediately behind the flag-draped casket.

Veterans of the World War, the only conflict in the life of General Miles in which he took no active part, mingled with veterans of the civil war, Indian campaigns and the Spanish war, who were there to pay homage to their former leader.

SQUABBLE DEPLORED

Asserted Regent Boards of Warring Colleges Could Have Settled Affair in First Place.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
PORTLAND, Ore., May 19.—While the state board of higher curricula, which yesterday heard both sides of the controversy between the University of Oregon and Oregon Agricultural College on duplication of courses, has the questions at issue under advisement today, members of the faculty of the two institutions are endeavoring to make adjustments. The board late yesterday adjourned to study the brief and statements of representatives of both schools. Decision is not expected for some time, said Dr. C. J. Smith, chairman.

Differences to be decided center principally around the school of commerce and the school of journalism, it developed late yesterday, for efforts are being made to settle the other issues by compromise.

Dean Colin Dymont, of the college of letters and arts of the University of Oregon, revealed that the compromise arranged by him and the dean of basic arts at Oregon Agricultural College, which would be submitted for approval of the board of higher curricula, provides that G. A. C. shall not grant degrees on the work in any of the 12 departments of the school of basic arts and that O. A. C. agrees to restrict students in not more than 27 term hours in history, 27 in modern languages or 27 hours in English, plus nine hours freshman composition.

Dean Dymont also offered to meet Dean J. A. Rexall, of the college, in an effort to work out an understanding on the matter of sociology, economics and political science, and it was indicated that a compromise might be agreed upon in the educational course.

PANIC INJURES 75 PASSENGERS

NEW YORK, May 19.—At least seventy five persons were injured two of them probably fatally, in a mad panic which swept a crowded east side subway train as it was about to leave the Grand Central terminal station today. A blown fuse, followed by a series of electric lamp bulbs explosions, was reported to have been the cause of the accident.

The train, literally jammed with humanity, came to a sharp stop a block from the terminal. Men, women and children were swept from their feet in confusion which grew to panic proportions when the cars began to fill with stifling smoke caused by burning insulation. A short circuit had occurred, causing the bottom rail to halt the long string of cars and when he attempted to start it up again, every light bulb in the train exploded. This was the signal for the panic which sent scurrying men, women and children toward exits and seeking to escape from their cage like imprisonment by smashing windows.

Scores were knocked to the car floors and trampled. The confusion was increased when the guards prevented opening of the emergency doors. The lounge and several salons of the nearby hotel Vanderbilt were converted into emergency hospitals where twenty five persons received treatment. Thirty others were removed to Bellevue Hospital.

When Policeman George Deno arrived at the 34th Street subway exits, he saw burly men knocking half hysterical women aside in their mad plunges for freedom. He tore off his uniform coat and waded into the crowd, knocking down five of the men he had seen losingly woman.

SEEK SUPERIOR JURORS TO TRY SHEPHERD CASE

Knowledge of Chemistry Is Desired of Them by the State's Attorney.

TWO LIKELY TO DIE

Scores Knocked to Floors and Trampled When Mad Rush for Windows Takes Place.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
CHICAGO, May 19.—Education sufficient to comprehend the technical testimony involving chemistry, bacteria and poisons is required of jurors who will try William Shepherd for the alleged murder with typhoid germs of his wife's ward, William Nelson McClintock, orphan millionaire.

Wanted also by the state are those not opposed to capital punishment and who would not discount circumstantial evidence note the testimony of an accomplice. For the state's chief witness is C. C. Falman, science school head, who confessed that he supplied typhoid germs to Shepherd and instructed him in their use for a promise of $100,000.

This was brought out in the questioning of a dozen veniremen, three of whom had been tentatively accepted as jurors and a fourth accepted by the defense when the opening session of the trial adjourned. One hundred and fifty more veniremen await the call to the jury box indicating to the attorneys that a jury may be selected in shorter time than expected. Examination of prospective jurors also forecast the trial plan of prosecution and defense. The state stressed hanging on circumstantial evidence. The defense made prominent the testimony of friends as to Shepherd's character. A venireman was asked by Shepherd's counsel if pre-judice would result in the juror's mind if Shepherd does not act as a witness in his own behalf, Shepherd and his wife, after their first affectionate greeting, were not permitted to remain together at the opening of the trial. She was given a seat across the aisle. Both expressed gratification that the trial was under way and Shepherd hoped it would be hurried through. Miss Isabelle Pope, fiancée of young McClintock

Fundamentalist Champion Continues Stormy Tour to the Assembly.

BESET BY HECKLERS

Darrow and Malone Will Be Opponents at Trial Evolution Teacher in Tennessee.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
NEW YORK, May 18.—After a tour of the east during which controversies concerning modernism, fundamentalism and evolution burst forth with renewed vigor, William Jennings Bryan today is on his way to Columbus, Ohio, to attend the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church and become, it is reported, a candidate for moderator, on a strictly fundamentalist platform.

The commoner, whose speech at Brown University, Providence, R. I., was followed by hissing and booing, was accorded a somewhat similar reception at one of three addresses on evolution that would up the eastern campaign here today.

He was twice interrupted by the Rev. James M. Williamson, who denoted Bryan's assertion that "modernists and missionaries to Africa when they have no message to send."

Mr. Bryan touched upon his assistance in the prosecution of Professor Scopes, Tennessee science teacher, on charges of violating the law against teaching of evolution. "The disgrace is not the Tennessee law," he said, "it is that teachers paid out of taxes of community which stamps its dollars 'in God we trust' should be true to the trust reposed in them by the taxpayers."

Dudley Field Malone, lawyer of New York and Paris, has received from Judge John Randolph Neal of Knoxville, Tenn., an acceptance of offers by Mr. Malone and Clarence Darrow to assist in the defense of Scopes.

Mr. Malone telegraphed Judge (Continued on page 3.)

Three-Year Chase Reunites Stolen Chinese Girl With Slave Mother Who Is Awarded to Her Purchaser

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—Sing Toy, a young Chinese slave girl, was sold by one Chinese to another for $650, but the seller retained custody of the slave girl's three-year old child, according to an agreement produced in the superior court here yesterday in a contest for the child. The agreement also revealed that the slave girl was sold on condition that all other debts she contracted "she must pay herself."
Tom Lok-Iin, a New York Chinese, was the buyer. Lum Sh-Kwinn, who posed as the slave girl's husband, was the seller. The buyer said he was a first cousin of Sing Toy.
After the sale, the seller kidnaped the girl. A three-year chase led mission workers to New York, Chicago and Michigan in quest of Sing Toy. She was located in Chicago's Chinatown, the testimony showed, and reunited with her child in San Francisco.
Miss Donaldina Cameron, head of the Chinese Presbyterian mission here won a court contest for the child yesterday and was awarded letters of guardianship. Sing Toy was returned to her purchaser.
