JUDGE HAMILTON AFFIRMED.

The decision of the lower court in the case of Vern W. Pitts and others against George A. Crane was affirmed in the state supreme court in a decision handed down today. The case was one in which Pitts brought suit on his own and assigned claims against Crane for labor performed. A verdict against Mr. Crane was given by Judge Hamilton, his position being sustained by the supreme court in its opinion.

ATTORNEYS FOR SHEPHERD TO BE INVESTIGATED

gated by his office. James C. Callan, politician, whose case for alleged attempt to fix a venireman is now pending, will be arrested on sight any time he is seen in the criminal courts building, the attorney said. In announcing that he intended to make jury fixing in the building "so precarious that no one will want to try it."

Attorneys Stewart and O'Brien expressed resentment when apprised of Mr. Crowe's plan. "We welcome any investigation that one wants to make," Stewart said. "It is no hardship on us to have an investigation conducted, but it is a hardship on honest jurors who returned the verdicts."

He added that the investigation was ordered only to intimidate the jurors in the present case because the state realized it had no case against his client.

Mr. Stewart also asserted White had signed the affidavit in question of his own volition. It declared the case against Shepherd was a frameup. Today's program for the trial proper was the continuation of the weary task of getting a jury. A juror had been sworn in and one venireman tentatively passed on both sides.

MRS. INGRAM DIES AT ASTORIA

Mrs. Randolph Ingram, well and most favorably known Douglas county woman, passed away yesterday afternoon at the Astoria hospital where she had been ill for several weeks. Her body will be sent to Roseburg today for burial.

Mrs. Ingram is survived by three daughters, Effie and Artie, of this city, and Jennie, of Astoria, and two sons, Clarence and Edward, of Roseburg. She had been ill for some time and was recently placed in the Astoria hospital for treatment. Final arrangements will be made on the arrival of the body here today.

LACK OF NEWS OF AMUNDSEN WORRY CAUSE

hagen newspaper as declaring, and adding: "He is capable of handling himself under difficulties of any kind. There is no reason to feel nervous about him."

Amundsen never thought seriously of returning from the Pole by airplane in the opinion of Captain G. E. H. Ellis, a member of the Oxford University expedition of last year. This authority believes that if his rescuers, the Pole abandoned their two planes and now are on their way back on foot.

Colonel Koch, Danish explorer, says eight days must elapse before hearing from the expedition, allowing several days for Amundsen to verify his arrival at the Pole before attempting the return.

The latest cable dispatches from the North, received through the Oslo, say the Arctic regions are threatened with storms, which, it is thought, will compel Captain Amundsen to return immediately if he is able. Snow and fog are forecast for tomorrow.

Four possible relief expeditions are under discussion. The United States navy department, with the dirigibles Los Angeles and Shenandoah at its disposal, is understood to be prepared to go to the relief of the Amundsen party if a call is made upon it.

Gettir Almgarsson, young Icelandic, who has been preparing at Liverpool, England, for a polar flight in a non-rigid airship or "blimp," is hurrying his preparations to be of possible assistance.

Commander Donald MacMillan, who will lead an American expedition into the polar region next month is quoted as promising its immediate help in any relief work.

Haakon H. Hammer, former associate of Amundsen, says he has an airplane in Switzerland, which could leave fully equipped for the North within a short time.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Government relief for the Amundsen expedition to the North Pole is favored by President Coolidge, but he is not certain that the situation has reached the point where such action would be justified.

SEATTLE, May 26.—Captain Roald Amundsen may already have landed on the northern coast of Alaska, but it may be weeks before the world will know persons familiar with the climate and terrain of the region pointed out here today.

The ice in the Arctic ocean is just breaking up. No vessels having wireless communication are known to be north of Nome. The furthest north radio station is at Kotzebue, about 200 miles north of Nome and about 1,500 miles from the North Pole. Between Point Barrow, which is the northernmost tip of Alaska, and approximately 450 nautical miles nearer the Pole than Nome and the Pole, is a vast "blind spot" of more than a million square miles. Captain Amundsen first made preparations for a flight across the Pole in 1918. His original plans contemplated hopping off at Wainwright, 200 miles east of Point Barrow, where he expected to fly to Svalbard in about 29 hours.

He is believed to have left a large square of sailing canvas where on the north coast of Alaska. If he can reach that point with his plane undamaged he may appear at Nome or Kotzebue at any time. If Amundsen lands on the desolate, ice-gripped north coast of Alaska, unable to continue his flight, he may be weeks in reaching civilization, as the opinion expressed here, as progress on foot. The only other means of travel until the Arctic is open to navigation, is painfully slow.

NOME, Alaska, May 26.—Amundsen's penchant for startling the world, makes it difficult to tell when news will be received from the explorer, George H. Maynard, mayor of Nome, and a personal friend of Amundsen's declared today.

"In case a landing is made at Point Barrow, it would probably take at least two weeks to get word to Kotzebue or Nome," Mr. Maynard said.

"From Wainwright, which was Amundsen's former starting place, it might be possible to hear in about ten days, unless he chooses to walk along the Alaska north coast until some vessel with a wireless apparatus should make it way north through ice floes on a trading trip.

"This is possible, but would not be accomplished much before a week of two."

CHICAGO, May 26.—Ty Cobb, the veteran leader of the Detroit Tigers, broke the life time record for extra base hits held by Honus Wagner, formerly of the Pirates, when he smashed out a two bagger in the eighth inning against Chicago. The new record for major league baseball which Cobb made today was 209 extra base hits. Wagner's record was 205.

NORMAL SCHOOL SITE NOW UP TO CITY OF ASHLAND (Associated Press Local Wire.)

SALEM, Ore., May 26.—The board of regents of state normal schools today selected a site for the new normal school at Ashland, contingent on the city of Ashland acquiring a portion of the site selected.

The site comprises 18.75 acres, valued at $20,000, on the south side of and at the end of Ashland boulevard, one block from where the Pacific highway from the south turns into the boulevard. It is directly west of Indiana street.

Portion containing seven acres is already owned by the city. To acquire the remainder, which is owned by various persons, it would be necessary for the city to call a bonding election. The board recommended that the next legislature transfer to the city the old normal school site.

BIBLE STANDARD MISSION.

Meetings at the Bible Standard Mission are being well attended.

Last evening the subject was of Christ's Second Coming. It proved to be of real interest to the people. It was stated by the evangelist that he would tell the day and the hour that Christ would come, which is recorded in Mathews 24:50. Then he brought out the fact that it was foolish for men to set days and hours for the Son of God to come, when not even the angels in heaven knew the time. The "Seven Locks of Hair" will be the subject for this evening. The meetings will continue throughout the week.

Visitor Here Monday—

Chas. Willman, of the Salem Terminal hotel, stopped over here last night and today and was a guest at the Terminal hotel here. He was enroute home after a trip to Klamath Falls and spent some time today with W. A. Roseburg, viewing the hotel in Roseburg, viewing scenic spots here and near the city.
