Pretty Home Wedding Ceremony Wednesday

A beautiful floral motif of roses and ferns transformed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Rusbo Wednesday when their daughter, Marquette Frances, became the bride of Rudolf P. Lindner at a quiet wedding ceremony to which only members of the two families and a few close friends were invited. The service was read by Rev. H. E. Mow of the First Christian church, before a flowered arch of mock orange, maidenhair fern, and Caroline Testout roses. The same flowers were used in great profusion about the rooms.

The bride was a charming picture in white satin crepe and lace and wore a bridal veil of tulle, held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses, lilies of the valley and orange blossoms. Mrs. Jay Fulcher was matron of honor, and Virginia Yount flower girl in silver and white lace, carrying a silver basket of Cecil Brunner roses to scatter before the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. The bride entered to the strains of Lehigh's wedding march played by Miss Dorothy Winston. Preceding the ceremony Miss Edna Haseltine sang "Because" and afterward "Only You."

Wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony at a table unusually lovely in silver and pink, centered with a silver candelabra holding pink candles. Covers were placed at the breakfast for the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Fulcher, Miss Edna Haseltine, Miss Dorothy Winston, Miss Virginia Yount, Mrs. George T. Haggard of Wheaton, Minn., Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Rusbo, Mr. and Mrs. John Lindner, Rev. H. E. Mow, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Rusbo, Mr. Chas. F. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. S. Van Voorst, of Rogue River, Oregon.

The bride is one of the most charming members of the younger set here, and since her graduation last year from the Roseburg high school has attended the University of Oregon. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lindner and will be associated with his father in the management of the Deer Creek Dairy. He attended the University of Minnesota before coming to Roseburg. After a honeymoon trip to California by automobile Mr. and Mrs. Lindner will be at home on what was formerly known as the Roseberry place, east of town.

Charming Evening Party Honors Miss Haynes

Miss Teka Haynes, whose marriage to Ivan Browning McKinney in Portland, will be celebrated on June 12, was arate the inspiration for a charming evening party on Tuesday when Mrs. A. A. Wilder and Mrs. H. H. Stapleton joined in entertaining in her honor at the home of Mrs. Stapleton. A portion of the guests gathered about bridge tables, and others chatted through the pleasant evening. Miss Jane Wharton held high score at bridge, receiving a dainty box of gaily colored handkerchiefs, and Miss Haynes received the guest prize of a set of mixing bowls.

Luncheon was served at small tables by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. C. W. Wharton and Mrs. I. G. Broadway. The younger girls were seated at the dining table with Miss Haynes and found their places by means of interesting bridge place cards. A lovely cluster of pale pink rosebuds and pale blue delphinium was attractive in the center of the table.

Bidden to the affair were Miss Haynes, Mrs. F. W. Haynes, Mrs. C. W. Wharton, Mrs. Glenn Mimberty, Mrs. Henry Booth, Mrs. George Bradford, Mrs. L. W. Josse, Mrs. Bert G. Bates, Mrs. J. Rest on, sainted dead! Dear as the blood ye gave; No impious footstep here shall tread The herbage of your grave; Nor shall your story be forgot, While fame her record keeps, Or Honor points the hallowed spot Where Valor proudly sleeps. You marble minstrels voiceless stone In deathless song shall tell, When many a vanished age hath flown, The story how ye fell; Nor wreck, nor change, nor winter's blight, Nor Time's remorseless doom, Shall dim one ray of glory's light That gilds your deathless tomb. —Theodore O'Hara.

POETS' CORNER

Signed Contributions for This Department May Be Sent to the Society Editor of The News-Review, and Will Be Used as Space is Available.

LOVE AND HAPPINESS The following poem by Alden Harness of Roseburg has been chosen by the Frank H. Gibson Press for a book of poetry, which they recently compiled. Where wide and gorgeous valleys extend from shore to shore; Where silence reigns unbroken Save by the ocean's roar; Where man, through all the ages, Had never been before; Where cloudless tropic heavens In tender beauty smile; Adrift, surviving shipwreck, Two people reach an isle. He kept upon the headland His signal fire ablaze. In vain beside the waters, Which held her eager gaze, For sails she watched and waited Through long and weary days, Deep in the ancient forest They ventured mile on mile. They ceased to hope for rescue Upon that unknown isle. In warmth of Summer's sunshine; In kiss of Summer's breeze; The rich fruit grew and ripened On brittle vines and trees. Eternal peace pervaded That haven in the sea. A cavern they discovered Towed in a deep defile, Love came and they were happy Upon their lonely isle. ALDEN HARNESS

MY HOME PAPER By Orpha Collins On my table lies a heap Of late papers, but I keep Just one little corner safe where e'er I roam There's a leaf a precious one, There's none like it 'neath the sun, 'Tis the little old "four pages" from back home. Though I read the news of state, News of war all up to date, News of ships and transports on the raging foam; Yet I turn with eager hands From the news of other lands To the little old "four pages" from back home. There, I read of hearts so true There, I read of friends, not few Read of births and deaths in cot or sheltering dome. While I read in other lands I can almost feel the hands Reaching out of those dear pages from back home. If, by circumstances bound, All my years I wander 'round Then I hope, e'en though the land and sea I comb, That there yet will come a time When we'll meet with joy sublime And have left upon life's pages:—Gone, back home. (From Everyday Life Series)

And that by learning you would grow To see all things face to face. With time's own scythe you are sliced down To month, week, day and minute. Momentous, Guest, of world renown! Now you are scarcely "in it." You fought a valiant fight for right. You played the role of hero, Now you are swallowed out of sight. In Rio de Janeiro. J. R. M. DAVIS following the class day exercises. The program is in charge of Miss Alice Ueland, and promises to be an interesting one, consisting of music and talks by the S. B. A. president, Paul Geddes, the class president, Hall Seely, and a number of seniors and alumni. Red and white sweet peas, the senior class colors, will be used as the motif of decoration throughout the banquet room. Election of next year's alumni officers will be held after the banquet. This banquet is a yearly affair given as a farewell to the graduating class, and this year's promises to be one of the most interesting yet given.

Social Meeting at South Methodist Church

The ladies of the South Methodist church enjoyed their monthly social meeting this week in the church parlors which were lovely with roses and sweet peas. An unusual feature of the afternoon was a miscellaneous shower for three young ladies of the church, two of whom were recent brides, Mrs. Letta Clark and Mrs. Grace Pappal, and the other, Miss Mildred Munson, whose engagement was recently announced. A dainty luncheon was served after chatting, and informal games.

Advertisement for 'The Dead' featuring a poem by John McCrae and an illustration of a soldier in a trench. The poem reads: 'In Flanders fields the poppies blow Between the crosses, row on row, That mark our place; and in the sky The larks, still bravely singing, fly Scarce heard amid the guns below. We are the Dead! Short days ago We lived, felt days, and saw the sun, We have moved and these are these things— These are the things that lift us down.' The illustration shows a soldier in a trench, looking out over a field of poppies under a cloudy sky.
