ROSEBURG, OREGON, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, 1925.

BIG CITY CONGESTION

President Coolidge, speaking to a gathering of Automobile Club secretaries some days ago, expressed some doubt as to whether the very great cities are as efficient as they have been thought to be. Many students of social conditions will say that the big cities have reached a point where they exact too heavy a charge for the privilege of having a home in them. If the streets are so crowded that business vehicles have to move very slowly to get anywhere, it is expensive distributing supplies. If land is pushed to exorbitant values, it will cost too much to own or rent homes there. If stores have to pay high rents, they must add these charges to their goods. The time would seem to have come for a movement to persuade people not to crowd without reason into great centers of population. If a person starts for such a community with a vague idea that the opportunities are better there than elsewhere, the chances are very strong that he will be sadly disappointed. If he earns more money, which is doubtful, he will have to spend more for the cost of everything. The visitor to almost any great city must be impressed with the way traffic gets jammed. As he sees trucks waiting for the time until they can move, he must feel that the consumers of the stuff carried by those trucks are having to pay the cost of that jam, as charges are imposed sufficient to cover the expense of slow moving deliveries. In a community like Roseburg, no extra charges have to be paid because our streets are so crowded that traffic can not operate efficiently. The business of the future is likely to settle more and more in communities like ours, where expenses are reasonable, and where any kind of business can operate economically.

FOUR OUT OF TEN OF US WORK FOR PAY

How many people work? The National Bureau of Economic Research gives an answer to that question in a recent report on population, according to Nation's Business. The Bureau estimates the population of the United States on July 1 of last year at 113,454,000. Of these 35,000,000 are children under fifteen, not employed. Another 35,000,000 are adults not gainfully employed; most of whom are engaged in the arduous labor of housekeeping. A third group of 35,500,000 are working for others. This leaves 9,600,000 who are employers or are in business on their own account. The proportion of workers grew in war time but dropped back, so that it stands now about where it did fifteen years ago. Some 38 per cent of the population are "gainfully employed," the other 62 per cent being about equally divided between adults and children.

There has been, the Bureau believes, a shrinkage in the numbers who work for themselves, due to the corporate growth in business. These "entrepreneurs," as the report calls them, numbered 9,830,000 in 1909 and 9,657,000 in 1924 despite a 25 per cent increase in population.

But how does one define employer? Is the president of the United States Steel Corporation an employer or one of the employed? And if he is one of the employed, how many employers of labor do you know? Corporations have swallowed up most employers save farmers, proprietors of beauty shops (now called beauticians), bootblacks (soon to be called booticians), and perhaps an occasional grocer and butcher. Even the littlest merchant now is apt to be a corporation.—Nation's Business.

Now, if the governor will appoint some enthusiastic fellow from Douglas county to serve on the state game commission the best county in the state—from the standpoint of wild game—will be fittingly represented. He ought to be able to find one man suitable to the Pierce administration in this neck of the woods.

The rapidity with which public officials are releasing themselves from state positions makes it imperative that Governor Pierce broaden his drag net to get men of worth while ability to stick on the job.

The tourist crop is just beginning to materialize and promises to be more "prolific" than ever, which will help some to tide over quiet spells between seasons.

The weather man can now bring forth all the summer weather at his disposal. The Portland Rose Festival is only a week or so in the distance.

LOS ANGELES GAY WITH SHRINE HOST

(Associated Press Local Wire.)
 LOS ANGELES, June 2.—A June rain, "most unusual," according to all Angelenos, despite the broad grins of visiting nobles, forced the abandonment of the Shrine program for today in the Coliseum.
 And to rub it in, squads of the gaily garbed host tramped the sloppy streets chanting: "In June it never rains, they say."
 "In June it never rains, they say."
 "But it rained like today," Motley Flint, director-general of the Shrine pageant, came back at his jollying friends with the announcement that scheduled parades will be held tonight even though it showers pitchforks.

SPRING WHEAT AND OATS PROMISE BIG YIELDS IS REPORT

 PORTLAND, Ore., June 3.—Barley is coming in some southern localities, says the weekly Oregon crop report issued by the weather bureau here today. Seeding of spring barley is just being completed in some elevated sections. Considerable rye has been cut for hay and for green feed. Winter wheat which was not winter killed is doing well, and in places is safe from drought. Conditions have been favorable for spring wheat and oats, except that in Jackson county spring wheat is lodging. In some places the growth of corn has been retarded by cool, wet weather.
 Strawberries have been slightly injured by rain in places, but are generally abundant. Prunes are mostly thin on the trees, but are sizing well. Pears have dropped heavily but are now doing well in southern Oregon.
 Haying has been slightly delayed by rain, and growth of alfalfa has been retarded by cool weather but meadows are mostly good to excellent. Some sheep remain to be sheared. Livestock is making rapid gains, and is now good to excellent. Potatoes and garden vegetables are doing well.

FORCES OF FRANCE AND SPAIN UNITE AGAINST RIFFIANS

 EL ARAISH, Spanish Morocco, June 3.—General Colubart's column has repulsed an attack by the Riffians in the Bent Zeroual section, according to dispatches from the French zone. The tribesmen are said to have been equipped with all the modern means of warfare, directed by Europeans and with some of the men dressed in French uniforms. The French casualties are described as numerous.
 A raid attempted by his men on the section at Sidi Rahoua was nipped in the bud by native levies and friendly tribesmen, unaided by regular troops. The first evidence of Spanish co-operation with the French is seen in the western section, where patrols were sent out yesterday.

ROSEBURG BOY MAKES FINE RECORD IN NAVAL SCHOOL

Alonzo Denn, of this city, a student at the Mare Island naval school, graduated from the hospital corps training school yesterday with the highest grade of any member of his class, according to word received here this morning. He has been diligently studying pharmacy in the naval school, and was the honor man of his class, a record which is greatly to his credit, considering the large number of young men attending the school. As a result of his fine work he is being transferred to the naval hospital at New York City, where he will complete his study as a pharmacist. Mr. Denn entered the navy only a few months ago, and his excellent record is due to studious application.

EXTRA INNING GAME PLAYED IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE

In a rattling good game of baseball last night, the Odd Fellows team of the twilight league defeated the Baptist-DeMolay combination by a score of 9 to 8, two extra innings being necessary to determine the outcome.
 The evening was cold and raw and both teams were slow in getting started, but after the game was once under way it was nip and tuck until the finish. "Doc" Finlay, the manager of the Baptist-DeMolay team, effectively plugged the hole at shortstop last night, by putting Sid Nichols in the breach. Nichols was the star of the game, taking one fielding chance after another in a perfect manner.
 The game was fast, and in several innings only three men on each team faced the respective pitchers.
 The twilight games are limited to seven innings, but when that frame rolled around the score stood 6 to 6, so it was necessary to go an extra inning. The youngsters succeeded in circling the bases again, but the Odd Fellows by a couple of clean hits, also put across another run, tying the score again 7 to 7. In their half of the 9th, he boys again scored one, but failed to hold the Odd Fellows, and a wild heave over first base, allowed the winning run to cross.

 TALL MEN BAND TOGETHER FOR MUTUAL PROTECTION
 MARSFIELD, Ore., June 3.—Banding together in an organization to alleviate the woes of tall men, which they hope may become national and international in scope, 25 men of Marsfield and six footers or more, have formed the Long Fellow Club No. 1.
 "To make life more comfortable and longer for tall men," is one of the purposes of the club. Others are: "To promote close relationship and friendship among members; to furnish each member all possible information bearing on improvements made in living conditions of tall men."
 Among the things which these "higher-ups" hope to accomplish is to start a movement for longer beds in hotels; longer berths in Pullman cars and staterooms; longer bathtubs; for awnings on streets which will not cause the down-trodden of this group to dodge continually while strolling down the street, and for more comfortable car and theater seats.
 Benjamin Oester is president; Wilson Kasman, vice-president; Earl W. Murphy, secretary, and James Montgomery, treasurer.
