RAY MACHINE WILL AID DENTAL WORK

An actinic ray transmitting machine, an invention that has enabled physicians and dentists in recent years to combat many of the serious ills that beset the human body, has been imported from Europe by Dr. R. L. Bathrick of this city and installed in his dental offices in the Roseburg National Bank Building.

Inspired by the beneficial results obtained by the exposure of the human body to the natural rays of the sun, medical scientists designed the machine to copy that method of treatment where outdoor exposure was inadvisable or prohibited by unfavorable weather. The result, established by extensive tests, has been to restore to health thousands of persons of all ages who were afflicted with maladies that had failed to yield to other prescribed treatments.

This artificial sunshine—for such it may properly be termed—was found to be particularly efficacious in the treatment of pyorrhea, the most common enemy of the teeth, and it was for patients thus afflicted that Doctor Bathrick procured the machine. The rays projected from it have the penetrating power to destroy germs that are not affected by chemical germicides such, for instance, as iodine, which sterilizes only the surfaces. The rays of the machine are a colorless, invisible reproduction of sunlight in contradistinction to the commonly known "violet ray," so-called from the color of the light that a high-frequency electric current produces when it is passed through a vacuum. The new improved process has been found to be a cure for rickets, boils, abscesses, tonsillitis and ringworms and a powerful aid in improving the quality of the blood.

LEAKY RADIATOR

BREEDS TROUBLE

Now that the Spring season has arrived, and the call of the open road again comes to the ear of the motorist, it seems that another warning note regarding the over heating of the motor would not be ent that the bearings will melt or the cylinders will become scored, thus causing a great deal of trouble and annoyance to the driver. To assist in keeping the engine cool, the radiator should frequently be inspected in order to be assured that the maximum volume of water is circulating through the passages, for loss of water means heat, and heat means a ruined motor. In order to safeguard against a burned out engine from any source, keep a weather eye on the heat indicator that is placed on the radiator cap of your car. It is there for a very definite purpose: to warn you when trouble is imminent on account of a heated motor.
