RIVAL ARMIES OF CHINA GIRT FOR CIVIL WAR

ities however, are preventing any large demonstrations.

Strike demonstrations by Chinese students were also reported from many cities throughout the country. However, the only destruction of property reported was at Chin-Kiang, where the police station was wrecked. There were no casualities. A foreign warship has been ordered there.

Tuan Chi Jui, president of China has sent from Peking a circular telegram to the provinces saying the Chinese government has protested the action of foreign powers regarding the Shanghai trouble and advising merchants and students to remain quiet awaiting a settlement.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—A battle between General Hsi's Cantonese army, reported to be within forty mile of Canton, and Yunanese forces entrenched in the Eastern suburbs of Canton, is expected within 36 hours.

Americans have been directed by orders of Ferdinand L. Mayer, charge of the Peking legation, to leave the Canton suburbs, where fighting is likely, and many women and children already have removed themselves to safer points.

The Canton authorities have issued proclamations denying that armed movement is of a communistic nature and promising numerous reforms to laborers and peasants.

Canton's civil administration has established itself in the cement works on Honan Island, where it is protected by sand bag barricades. The Yunan troops are reported short of ammunition and artillery and the opinion prevails in Canton that they will be defeated.

The American gunboat Asheville has arrived at Canton and the Pampanga was expected there last night.

Apprehension is felt on the part of the foreign residents in Canton. Serious anti-British manifestations have been avoided, but indications are that they may occur.

Telegraph lines from Canton to Hong Kong have been interrupted. Consul-General Douglas Jenkins at Canton, in reports forwarded to Counsel Meyer, said he had warned commanders of the Cantonese and Yunanese armies that American lives and property were to be protected.

with a temperature of 100.3. Numerous cities exceeded the 100 mark. The government observation station at Keedysville, Md., recorded 104 degrees. Four more died at Baltimore in a temperature of 101. Other high noted in Jersey City 101, Middletown, N. Y., 102, Poughkeepsie 100, Toronto, Canada, registered 94, the hottest June fifth in 85 years.

Cool breezes brought relief to a few sections.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Scanning its reports on atmospheric conditions from all sections, the weather bureau today saw definite signs of a break in the heat wave, but not until next week.

Indications are that the relief will come to the North Atlantic states Monday and in the middle Atlantic states Monday or Tuesday.

The upper Mississippi and lower Missisippi valleys should benefit.

BOSTON, June 6—New England with a total of 22 head and 100 or more prostrations in three days of blistering heat, faced the fourth day of the torrid wave today with no relief in sight. Yesterday's death list reached 13 at midnight, and in many pleaces the collapse of school children and factory workers caused schools to be closed, factories to shut down and general suspension of business.

All Boston heat records for June were broken today when the mercury reached 98.8 degrees at 2:45 p. m. The previous record was 98 degrees on June 3, 1919.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—Twenty persons have died in Philadelphia in the last 24 hours, due directly or indirectly to the heat, making a total of 35 for the week. The torrid wave, which twice sent the mercury to 98 and once to 100 this week, continued today with prospects, the weather bureau said, of the temperature approaching the century mark of yesterday. It was 98 at 3 p. m.

DETROIT, June 6.—Two additional deaths from heat here brought the number of fatalities to ten in Detroit since the start of the heat wave. Deaths from heat for the entire state now number twelve. At 10 a. m. the temperature reached 90.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 6.—The heat wave took three lives here today.

BADLY WOUNDED MAN PRESENTS SELF TO POLICE

Bothell bank robbery City police at Vancouver last night picked him up in an automobile, which he was driving. He first gave his name as George Leonard, aged 22. There was blood on Leonard's clothing, officers said. He was turned over by the police to Sheriff William Thompson, who planned to question him today.

Sheriff James McCulloch of Everett, over the telephone, expressed the opinion that the Portland prisoner was Dick Griffin and the Vancouver one Elvis Kilbourne of Everett. He said that the robbery had been "planned by a gang of twelve of fourteen, but only four were in on it."

VANCOUVER, Wash., June 6.—The young man giving his name as George Leonard, who was picked up here last night by city police as a suspect in connection with the holdup and robbery of the Bothell State Bank, was questioned today by Sheriff William Thompson, and denied any connection with the robbery. Officers said his overalls, underwear and shirt were bloodstained, as if he had been seated in a pool of blood. He was not wounded.

Leonard was taken into custody last night after officers found that the car which he had parked in front of the Empress Hotel on Main Street was registered under the name of A. R. Kilbourne. They connected the name with one sent out by Seattle police as that of a suspect in the Bothell robbery.

Leonard left the car on the street about 11 p. m. after obtaining the permission of officer Abraham to park it there over night. Later in the night Officers Roberts and Miller in checking up cars parked in the fire limits, found Leonard's car which bore the Washington number 183,027.

Leonard told them that the car belonged to his brother, A. R. Leonard. He said he knew nothing of A. R. Kilbourne. He said he had come to Vancouver from Portland.

Immediately following the robbery of the Bothell bank, a pistol battle took place in the streets of the town between citizens and the four bandits who attempted to escape in an automobile with their plunder of $2,500. Two of the bandits were fatally wounded, a third was later apprehended and the fourth escaped. The man arrested here is believed to be the fugitive.

Hay fever, asthma, catarrah. Relief guaranteed within 24 hours or money refunded. Lloyd Crocker.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hill and baby motored from Wilbur today and spent several hours attending to business matters and shopping.

PLAN TO ERECT MONUMENT FOR EARLY MOTHERS

should instill these beliefs into the lives of the students of today, the speaker said. He further maintained that no person should be allowed to teach in the schools of the country, who were not American born, or at least in full sympathy with the principles and ideals which are advanced by the United States as a nation.

In closing he voiced a touching tribute to the pioneer mothers of Oregon.

"The pages of history glow," the speaker said, "with the deeds of our pioneer men, but our pioneer mothers have not received the same homage. "They walked the same weary miles; they followed the same long paths; they endured the same hardships and the same tribulations as our men, and it is due to their refining influence that we have our fine schools and colleges of today."

After unfolding his plan for a monument to the pioneer mothers, he closed with Joaquin Miller's poem, "Mothers of Men."

The Umpqua Academy reunion was attended by one of the largest crowds ever at one of these events.

The program opened at 10 o'clock with a song "America," by the assembly. After the invocation by Rev. A. F. Grissom, Miss Mazie Walker, welcomed the pioneer students, and the other members of the association to Wilbur. Mrs. Lulu Craig Gorrell then sang, after which Mrs. Effie Chapman Shrum responded to the address of welcome with a wonderfully fine address, of a brief but stirring nature.

After a vocal solo by Warren Burt of Roseburg, and the reading of an original poem written by Austen Mires, by Mrs. Emma Bridges Miller, Mr. Rice made the main address of the day.

The morning program was concluded with a short memorial program to those who have gone on before, particularly the early instructors in the old pioneer school.

Among the former members of the old academy who passed away during the year just closed were, Mrs. Nannie Chenoweth Stearns, Mrs. Sarah Thomas, James Grubbe, Mrs. Adella Slocum Hadley, Mrs. Anna Mires Bonham, and Francis M. Harkness.

At 12:30 the meeting was adjourned to the gymnasium building, where a basket dinner was spread upon the long tables, and all present sat down to a delicious repast.

The afternoon was given over to a business session, and tonight there will be a camp fire session, followed by the presentation of a comedy, "The Bashful Mr. Bobbs", by the young people of Wilbur.

The attendance at the reunion today was much larger than had been anticipated, considering the weather. Many of the former students of the school, came from long distances to attend the meeting, some even making the trip from neighboring states to be present and mingle again with their classmates of former days.

COOLIDGE MAY SUMMON GAS-ARMS CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Disclosure of President Coolidge's willingness to call a conference in Washington to draft a protocol prohibiting international traffic in poison gas today brought into renewed discussin the president's plan for calling a second naval disarmament conference.

It was pointed out by high officials that the gas conference could be held jointly with the disarmament discussion if it developed that the Geneva arms traffic conference was unable to agree on gas prohibition.

and a left to the face. Tunney landed his best punch of the fight, a hard right to the chin, but Gibbons came back with a rally as the round ended.

Round 5

Tunney shot over a left and right to the chin. Gibbons backed away and turned, running into the ropes. Tunney rushed at him and landed a volley before the St. Paul man could protect himself. Tunney outboxed Gibbons at long range. Tunney shot stiff lefts at the St. Paul man and compelled the latter to come to close quarters for protection. Gibbns jolted Tunney with short inside lefts and rights. Tunney appeared to be going strong in this round.

Tunney rushed at Gibbons with a stiff left to the body. Another left to Bobby Gibbons face partly closed his left eye. Tunney chopped Gibbons with short jolts to body and head. Tom lashed out wildly with left and missed as Tunney ducked. Tunney landed a left to the body. Gibbons crossed over his right, cutting Gene's lip. Tunney shot a series of hard blows to Toms mouth and Tom was bleeding as the round closed.

Round 7.

Tunney led with a left to the body. The punch was a trifle low. Gibbons merely smiled, shook hands and they continued fighting at a fast clip. Tunney shot a stiff left to the head and brought over his right to the body. Tunney appeared by far the strongest of the two. He made Gibbons head bob back with sharp jabs. The St. Paul man was forced to cover repeatedly as he retreated. Gibbons landed sharp right to the chin at the bell.

Round 8

Tunney opened with a repetition of his jabbing attack. Gibbons crossed over a right to Tunney's face. Tunney landed heavy left hook to the stomach. Gibbons missed a hard left as he backed away from the aggressive New York man. Tunney shot three stiff punches to the body. Tunney kept Gibbons back pedaling throughout the round. Gibbons turned on Tunney and jarred him with two terrific rights to the jaw. Tunney was slightly dazed as he went to his corner.

Round 9

Gibbons followed up his advantage of the previous round, going to the attack, landing two stiff lefts to the face. Gibbons shot over two rights to the face. Tunney came back with a heavy right to the stomach. Gibbons held up his hand and drew to one side indicating that he had been hit low. After a brief rest they continued boxing. Tunney shot over a hard left, cutting Gibbons injured eye as the round ended.

Round 10

Gibbons was boxing cratily to protect his damaged eye. Tunney sent over a sharp left to the chin. Tunney landed a hard left to the chin as Gibbons backed away. Tunney landed short lefts and rights on Gibbons jaw as the latter went back against the ropes. Gibbons chased Tunney about the ring, the latter covering with both hands. Gibbons appeared tired during this round and made little effort to reply to the New York man's attacks.

Round 11

Tunney hooked over left and right to Gibbons face. Gene followed up the advantage with a left hook to the body. Gibbons, appeared content to let Tunney do the leading, and the crowd began to clap for more action. Tunney landed left and right to the body. Tunney forced Gibbons around the ring, landing both hands to the face. He chopped Gibbons with short hooks as they came to close quarters for infighting. There was little real fighting during the round and the crowd booed as the bell rang.

Round 12

Tunney landed two lefts to the body as Gibbons covered. Tunney backed Gibbons around the ring and floored Gibbons with a right to the chin. Gibbons was up at seven and Tunney rushed him, crashing over another right. Gibbons fell in his own corner and was counted out. At the count of seven he strove vainly to raise himself to his feet with the aid of the ropes but was unable to summon enough strength to rise.

The Preliminaries

Johnny Grusso of Mount Vernon, New York, scored a technical knockout over Jack McDonald of New York in the third round of a four round match, the opening preliminary. The referee stopped the match in the third round. The men are heavyweights.

At the start of the second preliminary, it was estimated that a crowd of 40,000 was in the park. The heat was intense, not a breeze blowing and the immense throng sat in its shirt sleeves with collars and neckties discarded.

In the second preliminary, Bud Gorman of Kenosha, Wis., one of Gibbons' sparring partners, decisively defeated Jack De Mast, of New York, in a six round match. Gorman won an unanimous decision.

They are also heavyweights.

Bob Lawson, of Alabama, claimant of the world's negro light-heavyweight title, outpointed Ray Neuman, of Jersey City, in a six-round match, the bout before the semi-final. Lawson forced the fighting all the way and inflicted more damage than his opponent. The unanimous decision of the judges went to Lawson.

King Solomon, sensational Panama heavweight, outpointed Romero Rajas, of Chile, in a thrilling eight-round semi-final match. Solomon made the mistake of mixing it with Romero at the start of the match and in the first round was upset for a count of two when a wild left landed on Solomon's chin. After that, however, Solomon resorted to boxing tactics until the sixth, when Romero's wild left caught Solomon of balance and he sank to his knees again, but got up after the count. Solomon won the judge's verdict, however, on his aggressiveness and his boxing ability.

Godfrey-Renault Bout Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6.—Both bubbling over with confidence, Jack Renault, Canada's outstanding heavyweight, and George Godfrey, husky negro from the vicinity of Philadelphia, were raring to step over the ropes, at Recreation park here today and swap blows for the third match of their fighting careers.

Chiefly by virtue of a knockout and a decision over Godfrey in previous bouts, the Canadian is entering the ring a slight favorite.

With current reports that the winner of the melee will be matched with Gene Tunney, last night's victor of Tom Gibbons, or with Harry Wills, there appears to be much at stake and enthusiasts are expecting a he-man fight from the first gong on.

Spec Woods Draws With Lewis.

SALEM, Ore., June 6. — Spec Woods and Frankie Lewis fought ten rounds to a draw here last night. Their previous bout in this city several weeks ago also ended in a draw.

Sick Wife Worries Gibbons

ST. PAUL, June 6.—Tommy Gibbons still was the "pride of St. Paul" despite his defeat in the ring by Gene Tunney at New York last night. His friends here knew that he was fighting two battles last night—one against Tunney and the other against an opponent that struck down from the inside—fear, not for Tunney, but for the condition of his wife.

Mrs. Gibbons is seriously ill at a local hospital and has been for several weeks. Immediately after the fight was over last night, a long distance call was received at the hospital from Tommy in New York inquiring as to Mrs. Gibbons' condition. Mrs. Gibbons was not informed of the defeat of her husband, but Tommy left word with her nurse that he was "all right" and "don't worry for a minute."

Mrs. Gibbons today insisted on knowing the outcome of the fight but attending physicians feared it would further endanger her condition to tell her the truth and she was told the contest ended in a draw. She received this information calmly.
