Buzukos Blows In.
Pete Buzukos, who wrestled in Roseburg about 14 years ago, blew in to our city yesterday concurrently with the telegraphic announcement that the Greek cabinet had resigned. He announced his intention of seeking a bout with Paul Amort, the local 165-pound grappler, although Pete is only in the welterweight class. Amort was out of the city today and until he returns it will not be known whether the pair will be matched. Pete is a clever mat artist with many years of experience back of him. He is still the possessor of a genial personality and a countenance that qualifies him for "Exhibit A" for the defense in the coming evolution case trial in Tennessee.

Morton Hadley Coming.
C. L. Hadley received a wire this morning from his son Morton, stating that he will leave New York City the first of July to take over the western territory for the Eastman Company, as factory representative. He will be engaged exclusively in inspection work on the company's x-ray and laboratory equipment, and will have the territory of Oregon, Washington, Montana and Idaho. TOMMY MILTON WINS 250-MILE RACE IN VERY CLOSE FINISH.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
ALTOONA, Pa., June 13.—Tommy Milton won the 250-mile spring classic auto race here today.
Milton came in to change both rear tires at 215 miles. His pit men made quick work of it and Cooper regained the lead. After one fast lap, Cooper's left rear tire gave way and he left the track. In a masterful drive against Peter De Paolo, who had slipped into the lead, Milton went to the front by a scant few feet. Harry Hartz was third and Frank Elliott 4th.
Just as the race was finished, Wade Morton's racer crashed into the fence on the back stretch. The crowd cheered when Morton crawled free from under the car, as it hung on the rail and waded his arms.
Milton's time was two hours ten minutes 21.49 seconds.
Morton was taken to the field hospital suffering from a strained back.

SHEPHERD LETTER SHOWING NEED OF MONEY ADMITTED

CHICAGO, June 13.—The defense of William Darling Shepherd, on trial for the murder of Billy McClintock by administering typhoid germs, lost another hard fought battle today. At the opening of court, William Scott Stewart, chief of defense counsel, sought to have erased from the record, the testimony yesterday of Estelle Gehling, Shepherd's "sunshine girl", and a quotation from a letter he had written to her admitting financial insolvency and an intention to "close my office here and drift away from it all."
Judge Thomas J. Lynch agreed with Robert E. Crowe, states attorney, that while the letter was highly prejudicial against Shepherd, it was pertinent in that it confessed, in his own handwriting, that he was bankrupt and his outlook was hopeless one month before young McClintock died and left him an estate of more than a million. It was agreed that only a portion of the letter should be permitted to go into the records, and that the parts of the letter which identified it as a "love letter" should not be read.
The jury then was brought in and the prosecutor drove ahead, building up Shepherd's alleged motive, relegating establishing his "corpus delicti" to later sessions.
Louis Sbarbaro, Chicago civil service employe, former restaurateur and uncle of John Sbarbaro, assistant states attorney, testified that nine or ten years ago Shepherd frequently visited his place and that he displayed an interest even then in learning the part of an oyster that contained poison. Sbarbaro testified that Shepherd frequently had him open oysters for him, fasten them with a rubber band and that Shepherd then would take them home.
Once Shepherd told him, Sbarbaro said, that he was the guardian for a "rich youth, got $7,500 a year for it," and added: "Some day I'll have a barrel of money."
Sbarbaro admitted that he first talked with Judge Harry Olson, chief figure in the investigation in the death of young McClintock, about the Shepherd matter early this year, although his nephew, the assistant states attorney, then was working on the case.
The defense won a point when the testimony of Stella Carson of Linton, Iowa, a former maid in the McClintock-Shepherd home, limited.
The prosecution asked "At the time of Mrs. McClintock's death did you see Mrs. Shepherd remove a diamond ring from her finger?" Stewart was on his feet instantly with an objection but the witness replied: "Yes."
The court then instructed the jury to disregard any testimony against Mrs. Shepherd as prejudicial and the question and answer were expunged from the record.
Upon cross-examination, the defense sought to show that Stella Carson was a disgruntled, discharged servant of the Shepherds, as it did with Anna Beckford, the next witness.
Miss Shepherd testified that Shepherd had a secret laboratory in his room, but upon cross-examination she admitted that Shepherd's room adjoined that of Mrs. McClintock, and that the mother of "Billy," who preceded him to the grave by 16 years, had access to Shepherd's at any moment through a connecting door.
In appealing to Judge Lynch yesterday for the right to present his case in his own manner, Prosecutor Crowe said great stress upon that private laboratory as a cog in the wheel of circumstantial "corpus delicti." The will of Billy McClintock, by which Shepherd leaped overnight from confessed poverty to the figurative status of a millionaire, was brought into the case by testimony of Miss Eva Peterson, secretary for the law firm of which Shepherd is a member.
A clerk of the probate court testified the will as a formal court document and Prosecutor Crowe read it to the jury, whereupon Miss Peterson was recalled and testified as to the major portion of the will.
Dr. Amante Rongetti testified that Shepherd visited him about a course in bacteriology, and his cross-examination produced objections by Prosecutor Crowe, with Stewart of defense counsel indulging in some harsh personalities.
Finally the lawyers and Judge retired to chambers to debate the matter. Stewart in cross-examination had sought to show that Rongetti was incensed at Charles C. Falman, jointly indicted with Shepherd, and had come into the case after he read about Falman's incarceration by visiting the office of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, and announcing to the newspaper that he had knowledge of value as evidence against Falman and Shepherd.

MEDFORD CHEERS OREGON GUARD ON OPENING PARADE

MEDFORD, Ore., June 13.—Hundreds of Medford citizens gathered at Camp Jackson today, cheered the troops of the Oregon National Guard as they marched in perfect formation across the parade ground headed by their bands, and submitted to inspection by Brigadier-General White, his staff and the regular army officers on duty at the camp.
This was the only military feature for the day, and this afternoon most of the soldiers are to attend the automobile races given in their honor at the local fair grounds.
With settlement of the camp over, the 2500 officers and men have settled down to the daily routine which they will follow closely for the next two weeks.
Sunday will be a quiet day for rest and divine worship with Monday marking the opening of intensive training.

STRIKING MINERS IN FULL CONTROL; TROOPS ARE SENT

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
SYDNEY, N. S., June 13.—Striking miners of the British Empire Steel Corporation in the Cape Breton coal fields have taken the law into their own hands and today are in control of the situation throughout the colliery districts of the island. At night under cover of darkness the stores of the company were raided and looted and in some cases destroyed.
By day the colliery centers are for the most part peaceful. Estimates of the damage done by strikers run as high as $300,000.

TORONTO, June 13.—Troops, 300 strong, left Toronto by special train for the strike area in Cape Breton this afternoon fully equipped for active service.
