EVOLUTION TRIAL RUMORS HINT OF DROPPING CHARGE

(Associated Press Local Wire.)
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 15.—With the dawn of each day bringing nearer what promises to be Tennessee's greatest legal battle, namely the case of Professor J. T. Scopes, Dayton teacher, accused of violating the state anti-evolution law, rumors are spreading over the country as to the various methods of attack to be used.

Reports alleged to have originated in Nashville, although not confirmed there, say that the Tennessee State Bar Association will take a hand in the proceedings. It was rumored that a resolution would be presented at the next meeting of the association asking that Frank M. Thompson, state's attorney, refuse to prosecute the case should it go to the supreme court.

Mr. Thompson said he had heard nothing of the project and would not say what action he would take should the request be made.

The possibility that District Attorney General Stewart will move for the quashing of the indictment against Scopes on grounds that the calling of the grand jury was illegal is also heard here. Should such action be taken it is said the attorney general will seek a new indictment.

You'll take to Granger right from the start

Granger has that full, rich "rounded-out" mellowness that every experienced pipe-smoker looks for in tobacco.

For Granger is fine, ripe old Burley tobacco mellowed by Wellman's fa-

BLANKETS RENEWED

Always before storing blankets or comforts for the summer, have them thoroughly cleaned and steamed. This is especially desirable if there has been sickness as all germs are entirely removed. An additional appropriation of $5,000 has been granted for work on the Skyline highway, and this will permit the clearing of the road for a distance of about 8 miles, and the construction of about 4 miles of grade. A crew of 25 men is already at work, and the others will be sent in later. It is expected to establish two camps, one on the Big Camas job and the other on the Skyline road, which is to be continued north from the junction with the road branching off to Big Camas. The two projects will be under one head, C. C. Hon, a former forest ranger at Stevenson, Washington, and an experienced road building, having been assigned to take charge.
