HEAT RECORDS SET FOR STATE; 101 HERE AT 3

reach the 100 mark before night, according to the report of the local weather observer. Yesterday the maximum temperature late in the afternoon was 99. The low mark for last night was 63, the hottest Eugene night since June 6, 1921. Yesterday was the hottest day in 14 years records here show. With dry wind blowing, forest officials are taking precautions against timber fire. The relative humidity at noon was 55.

The temperature at 1 p. m. here today was 97, with indications of going higher, the weather observer reported.

At 2:45 the thermometer had mounted to 101 degrees.

109 Medford's Hottest—MEDFORD, Ore., June 25.—Yesterday, with a maximum temperature of 108.8, was the hottest June day in 14 years records here show. With dry wind blowing, forest officials are taking precautions against timber fire. The relative humidity at noon was 55.

The temperature at 1 p. m. here today was 97, with indications of going higher, the weather observer reported.

At 2:45 the thermometer had mounted to 101 degrees.

92 At Bend—BEND, Ore., June 25.—The temperature yesterday reached 92 degrees, dropping to 53 during the night, according to the government weather observer. This equaled the record made Monday, but the temperature remained high for a long period yesterday, which made the day seem much warmer than the temperature readings indicated.

The temperature at 1:30 was 94 according to unofficial reports. A slight breeze made it seem less warm than earlier in the day. The relative humidity at the same time stood at 21.

Hot At Klamath—KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., June 25.—June heat records were expected to be shattered here today with the mercury slowly mounting as early as 9 o'clock this morning. It was 82 at 9 o'clock. The maximum yesterday was 91, which was attained late in the afternoon. Weather officials expected it to exceed 95 before today is over.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the mercury had mounted to 96 and was still ascending, indications were that it would near the centure mark.

Heat records for this year in Klamath county were broken this afternoon when the mercury reached 94.5 shortly after one o'clock this afternoon. According to the reclamation service hydrographer the temperature was still mounting and probably would reach 97 by late this afternoon.

99 in Pendleton—PENDLETON, Ore., June 25.—The temperature in Pendleton at 1:30 today was 99, compared with yesterday's maximum of 94. Farmers in some sections of the county are apprehensive about possible damage to wheat, but reports show little if any damage so far inflicted.

SMASH FOLLOWS CHASE OF SPEEDER

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
BEND, Ore., June 25.—Traveling 55 miles an hour in an effort to catch a speeder on The Dalles-California highway this morning, Sergeant Earl Houston, state traffic officer, had barely caught up with the speeder and had not yet had time to signal him, when Darwin Jenkins of San Francisco ran into the rear of Houston's car, the state officer reported.

Jenkins' car went into the ditch and in going over tore a wheel off the rear of Houston's car, damaging the rear of the car to some extent and tore a wheel off his own car. The San Francisco man was on his way to the American Legion convention at Prineville.

TAXIMETERS TRACED BACK TO EARLY DAYS OF ATHENS

OXFORD, Eng., June 25.—(A. P.)—Modern research has disclosed that the chariots which plied their trade about the Acropolis in the days of Pericles were fitted with ingenious and highly industrious taximeters.

In the grey dawn of Attic history distances were measured by professional pacers called bematists, who followed the kings on campaigns and processions, but with the introduction of horses chariots the bematist's lot in that hot and dusty land became an active and unenviable one. Then the taximeter of those days was, it is said, invented out of sympathy for this industrious order of men. The profitable little instrument survived wars and invasions, and clicked on through all the darkest ages. They are recorded to have been in use in Spain in the days of Columbus, and John Evelyn, the seventeenth century diarist, speaks of them as "waywisers," very "pretty and useful."

Of these "waywisers" or "perambulators" a number have now been collected and are on display in the newly-reopened Oxford museum of scientific instruments.

Strike now! Those who are succeeding today were readers and advertisers of yesterday's classified columns in the News-Review.

DREAD CHINESE FESTIVAL IS QUIET

extended his armed forces to Shanghai, invaded a recreation ground on Chinese territory and broke up a meeting of students and radicals.

The Dragon boat festival at which an outbreak was expected, passed without a flare-up from the Chinese spectators. All volunteer foreign defense units were mustered ready to put down any disturbance, but their services were not needed.

At sundown tonight, it was expected that the general strike, which has paralyzed Shanghai business for the past month would be terminated tomorrow. The strike, will continue to apply to British and Japanese owned mills, however. The status of the shipping strike remained unchanged.

The American Association of China today cabled to the state department urging co-operation of the United States with other powers in adopting a strong attitude of insistence towards China in the observance of treaty regulations.

The message said the Chinese government should be charged with responsibility for the loss of lives and property.

Defense forces were unrelaxed tonight.

SHANGHAI, June 25.—The police yesterday obtained information of a widespread student plot to hire motor cars and dash around the international settlement here throwing bombs and shooting. The police therefore ordered that no cars be let to hire, except to well known customers. Volunteers and special constables have been mobilized in the foreign settlement and have been posted at strategic points. Chinese are being searched for arms and other precautions are being taken.

The shipping situation is growing worse. British liners are avoiding Shanghai.

HONG KONG, June 25.—The Chinese civil governor of Canton today received a reply to his protest to the British consul-general in which the latter places all responsibility for the deaths of Chinese while they were parading opposite Shamen, the foreign settlement upon the Chinese authorities.

In his note the Chinese governor asserts that soldiers and police at the British concession, suddenly opened fire with machine guns and rifles after the parade had passed almost entirely up Shake Street. The fire, the Chinese official contends, was directed at the crowds and was participated in by police and soldiers of the French concession who followed the British lead.

A Portuguese gunboat fired a big gun with the result that the killed and wounded totaled more than 100. This brutal killing was premeditated and secretly planned, the civil governor asserts. When he heard the particulars, the Chinese official said, he was exceedingly amazed and in duty bound to enter the most serious protest and he added that the entire responsibility for the affair rested upon the civil and military officials at the French and British concessions and the Portuguese soldiers and gunboats concerned.

The British consul-general, replying, points out that the Portuguese gunboat took no part in the unfortunate affair. It was the defense forces of the British and French concessions alone who replied to an attack made on them by Chinese troops or military students on their side of the canal. "I can, from the evidence of my own eyes, make the statement on oath," he says, "that the firing was first started by Chinese. The senior British naval officer and myself were standing unarmed by the bridge for the special purpose of guarding against any precipitate or nervous action on the part of the defenders and only escaped with our lives out of a hail of bullets directed at us. It was only then that in self defense fire was opened from Shamen and by French forces, which were similarly attacked. The firing from Shamen ceased even before the sniping from the tops of houses opposite by Chinese soldiers was discontinued.

"You state that the action taken by the British and French authorities was premeditated. This I absolutely deny."

The consul-general points out that the premeditation was upon the part of the Chinese troops or military students who as well known before hand and pointed out to Chao-Wu in the consul general's letter of June 22, had determined to create an incident with a view of posing as martyrs afterward.

NEW YORK, June 25.—The anti-foreign sentiment in China is continuing to run high, with little prospect of early subsidence. Amoy and Canton seem to be the principal trouble points at present, but the agitation carried on by students and workers is so widespread that there is no indication where new outbreaks may occur.

The movement is especially strong at Canton, scene of an outbreak on Tuesday in which shots were exchanged by Chinese firing from the bund and the British and French marines guarding Shamen, the foreign settlement. The Chinese losses in this affair are authoritatively placed at thirty killed and seventy wounded.

Shamen has assumed the appearance of an armed camp. The women and children have been transported by sea to Hong Kong and the British and Japanese are strengthening their fortifications.

Washington officials are concerned over the attitude of the Peking government as expressed in the latest Chinese note to the diplomatic body. They fear the provisional government's stand will only serve to encourage the agitators seeking to provoke a concerted violent movement against all the foreigners in China.

SHANGHAI, June 25.—Telegrams from various storm centers in the anti-foreign movement depict the situation as follows:

At Wuhu near Nanjing the food boycott of foreign warships continues, but the Chinese authorities are maintaining order. The American destroyer McCormick has arrived at Ningpo, in Chekiang province, south on Shanghai and order has been restored there. Chinese soldiers are guarding the foreign quarter.

The Chinese authorities at Swatow on the coast between Amoy and Canton have given assurance that foreigners will be protected, but these are not considered convincing because of the absence of control over the agitators. At Amoy, the Chinese and foreign authorities are co-operating and the situation is described as serious.

At Hoihow on the island of Hainan, southwest of Canton, the situation continues disturbed and there is much uneasiness.

No change is reported from the other centers, but a generally tense atmosphere prevails.

LEGION PREPARES FOR CONVENTION

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
PRINEVILLE, Ore., June 25.—Central Oregon today became host to the American Legion of Oregon, assembling here for its annual convention. Delegates arrived today from all parts of the state for the three-day meeting. Mayor Bechtel of Prineville welcomed the convention on behalf of the city and Senator J. H. Upton of Bend, was on the program to extend the welcome on behalf of the interior empire.

Following the opening meeting this morning the days program provided for a barbecue at city park at noon, the first performance of a three day rodeo at the fair grounds this afternoon, an open house at 5 p. m., grand promenade of the society of 40 honorees at 8 o'clock at 8 p. m., and a dance in the open air pavilion at 9 p. m.

George P. Griffith of Salem is state commander. Officers will be elected and installed Saturday.

SEC. JARDINE TO VISIT ROSEBURG THIS EVENING

The entire trip will be there, and he will have a few hours going out to Portland for a series of conferences and hearings.

MEDFORD, Ore., June 25.—Secretary of Agriculture W. M. Jardine and party arrived in a special car on the Shasta shortly after eleven o'clock this morning. He was met by a delegation of Medford citizens headed by Mayor O. O. Alenderfer, taken on a short tour of the orchard district and then whisked to Camas Jackson, where after a salute of 19 guns, he was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by Brigadier-General George A. White.

Secretary Jardine on his arrival was accompanied by his brother, J. T. Jardine, director of the experiment station at Oregon Agricultural College; Professor W. A. Jensen, executive secretary. O. A. C.; Dean Bexell of O. A. C., and Robert Kerr, son of President Kerr of O. A. C.

The secretary of agriculture is making a tour of the coast to inspect agricultural conditions and after a conference with leading business men and ranchers in Medford, will leave for a motor trip to Roseburg this evening.

That the United States faces an era of continued and increasing agricultural prosperity, which will be made more and more permanent as practical business methods particularly in the way of co-operative marketing are applied, was the prediction of Secretary Jardine made this afternoon at a luncheon given him at Camp Jackson as the guest of Brigadier-General George A. White and Staff, of the Oregon National Guard.

Mr. Jardine said he had excellent reports from nearly all the agricultural regions of the country, with the exception of some of the Rocky mountain states, and that he believed that the agricultural depression through which the United States had passed had served as a needed lesson of the danger of over-expansion and the special need of improving the methods of merchandising agricultural products.

The farmer needs, he said, not special privileges, not subsidies, but equal opportunities with other business men and that, he said, is what he intends, as Secretary of Agriculture, to give him, if it lies within his power. The government does not intend to give the farmer money, but hopes to put the farmer where he can make it.

MORE MEN PUT ON NATRON ROAD WORK

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
BEND, Ore., June 25.—The Big labor turnover on the Natron cut-off construction work, which was predicted for July 4, has already started, according to information from employers here. Thirty men were needed this morning for work on the cut-off to fill the places of men who quit last night. It is expected to be greatly increased within the next few days. Bad road conditions have delayed the big spring turnover according to local information, but now the men can move easily from one place to another.

Calls for hay hands are being received at local employment offices.

On Way to Prineville—Portland Oregonian: "Prineville or bust," wrote Bert G. Bates, after his name on the Multnomah register, so if the Roseburg newspaper man fails to go the American Legion convention his readers can rest assured that he has burst, or is "busted," or possibly both. Anyway, Mr. Bates and some buddies from the land of prunes got as far as Portland, headed for central Oregon, and if the intense heat doesn't cause them tire trouble they will be looking at the Ochoco reservoir as per schedule.
