

STORKS will live ONLY in REPUBLICS

—Or so people used to think in the 16th century.

This is the 20th century. But we are still superstitious; for example, when we pay fancy prices for eastern lubricants in spite of the fact that the best crudes so far discovered for the manufacture of a motor oil are obtained from wells on the Pacific Coast.

Experience explodes the anti-western oil superstition

Zerolene actually lubricates better—and because it does it lubricates more cars in the Pacific Coast states than any other oil made—low and high priced cars alike. The most advanced refining process is this Company's patented high-vacuum process, during the use of which Zerolene is submitted to 15 positive checks for quality. Zerolene's special filtration through 40 tons of Florida Fuller's Earth gives you an oil that's absolutely pure and safe.

A longer working life for your motor

Zerolene will increase the gasoline mileage of your car, reduce carbon accumulation and lengthen its working life.

Why pay tribute to a superstition? Insist on Zerolene—ask for it by name.

Get the Facts!

A series of independent and impartial reports showing the experience of large users with Zerolene has been collected in our booklet, "Why Pay Tribute to a Superstition?" Ask any Standard Oil Company representative or Zerolene dealer for a copy.

Insist on ZEROLENE even if it does COST LESS

FOREST AIRPLANE PATROL IS STARTED

EUGENE, Ore., July 1.—Eugene will be headquarters for forest airplane patrol of the entire Pacific Coast, from Missoula, Mont., to Los Angeles, Cal., reports Lieutenant Lloyd Barnett, who arrived by airplane from San Francisco this morning at the Municipal Aviation Field. Lieutenant Barnett who was commander of the airplane patrol from Eugene last year, has been put in charge of the five patrol bases established this year at Spokane, Vancouver, Eugene, Sacramento and Los Angeles. Two planes will be in operation at each of the bases, giving Eugene three, with the addition of Lieutenant Barnett's plane, which he will use in making trips between the various cities.

"My trip from Crissey Field, San Francisco took exactly four hours and 15 minutes," the pilot said. "Plots of the other two airplanes working on the Eugene base will be First Lieutenant A. R. De Garmo of Los Angeles, who will arrive with his ship tomorrow, and Lieutenant Loomis of Eugene, a reserve officer. The department of agriculture which includes the forest service, has appropriated $50,000 for the forest air patrol this year, to be made co-operative by the war department, which is lending the planes. The department of agriculture is furnishing reserve officers and will pay a certain proportion of maintenance costs.

"We expect to operate the same as last year, making flights on call. The Spokane base will patrol Northeastern Washington, and Northern Oregon; Eugene base, all of Oregon and part of Northern California, in the Siskiyou mountains; Sacramento, from Shasta to Fresno; and Los Angeles from Fresno south."

COURT FAILS TO GIVE DECISION AS EXPECTED

Issue Sidestepped in McDaniels Case and Attorneys Are at Loss.

OTHERS INVOLVED

Admissibility of Evidence Illegally Procured Is the Question in Cases Now in Court.

The action of the supreme court in the McDaniels case, a decision which has been eagerly awaited throughout the state, failed to give the desired information, according to District Attorney Guy Gordon, and the issues involved are as far from settlement as ever, he states. There is a question now before the courts of the state, which has been carefully sidestepped, and it had been hoped that the decision in the McDaniels case would settle the issue. The matter involved bears upon admissibility of evidence illegally obtained, and there are a great number of cases throughout the state in which this question must be decided.

In several cases arrests have been made in which it is maintained that the evidence upon which the cases have been tried was not legally obtained. The defense in such cases has maintained that such evidence is not admissible and should not be used against the defendant. The state has contended that regardless of how evidence is obtained that it is admissible in the trial of a case, and that the defendant has recourse to civil action against the officer to determine whether or not the evidence was obtained illegally, and if so to collect damages, or secure a criminal trial on a charge of assault and battery.

Douglas county has one outstanding case in this connection, in which the issues are perhaps more sharply drawn than in the McDaniels case. Lawton Hayes of Camas Valley, while attending a dance at Olalla, was searched by officers and a bottle of moonshine found in his possession. He was tried for having liquor and was convicted and fined. He appealed to the circuit court where the verdict of the lower court was upheld, and an appeal is being taken to the supreme court.

In this case, according to the evidence brought out at the trial, Hayes was in company with another young man whose car was searched for liquor. Hayes was standing nearby, and it appears made some remarks to the officers which caused them to seize and search him, finding the liquor upon his person.

The defense contended in the trial that the officers had no right to search his person without a search warrant as provided by law, and that the evidence, having been obtained illegally, was not admissible and should not have been allowed to enter into the trial.

The state contended that Hayes made remarks which caused the officers to arrest him for disorderly conduct, and that following his arrest upon such a charge that they had a right to proceed with

The search, and that the evidence so procured was obtained in a legal manner. The state's contentions were upheld in the lower court and in the circuit court, but according to the first decision of the supreme court, in the McDaniels case, the defense appeared to be favored.

IMMIGRATION LAW PROVES TO BE A SUCCESS

effect noted by Mr. Curran in the flow through Ellis Island, which handles half of the 1,000 a day admittances authorized under the existing quota. Not only are the individuals of a higher type, but they are generally younger, than in the old open door days and therefore, of greater assimilability and larger economic value to the country.

Mr. Curran said the present net quota of 200,000 should be ample for a period of years while the business of "becoming acquainted" was in progress throughout the nation. A visitor making a return trip to Ellis Island today after a lapse of several years would have difficulty in recognizing it as the principal receiving point for alien disembarkations. The long corridors between the screened stalls were practically empty and in the visiting "pens" only a small group indicated the business of examining applicants for admission still was in progress. In contrast with the past daily average of several thousands of temporarily detained, there were about 200 on the books of the bureau and long rows of cots were empty in the white corridor of marine hospital.

JAPAN STILL AROUSED

TOKYO, July 1.—Two patriotic meetings were scheduled for today, the first anniversary of the enforcement of the United States Immigration law barring Japanese, but the Pacific Civilization Society cancelled its session out of sympathy for the Santa Barbara earthquake.

At another meeting held by the Taikooka Society for the purpose of providing a new point against the United States immigration law, the speaker emphasized the promotion of existing friendship between Japan and the United States, but urged America to make a change in the immigration laws affecting Japanese.

The meeting was attended by 200 persons and a heavy police guard. The vernacular press deplores efforts on the part of radicals to revive resentment, declaring the best elements in Japan believe the United States will remedy the immigration laws sooner or later.
