ROSEBURG WILL HAVE A NEW CAMP

R. S. Scofield and G. E. Woodruff, well known local residents, are this week improving the campground site at the south entrance to the city of Roseburg and construction has started on 12 bungalows. A near service station has already been erected and grouped back of it will be the cottages for the convenience of campers. When completed this will be one of the finest campgrounds in this section of the state and should enjoy a liberal patronage. Fine spring water will be piped to all parts of the grounds and the installation of fountains will add to the scenic beauty of the spot.

A new shipment of plain and flowered volles. A nice assortment to pick from. Priced at $3.95. Marksbury Co.

NOTICE TO FORD OWNERS

The regular Ford reflectors and type H Ford lens will meet requirements of the new state law.

A BRIDE'S DIARY

A Love Story of Today

By Idah McGlone Gibson

Cleo Madison, entertaining friends, reads from her grandmother's quaint, modest diary. The flapper friends are thunderstruck at its quaintness and suppressed desires. When the girls leave, Cleo plans her elopement with Paul Armstrong, U. S. A., a boyhood sweetheart. None the less, she indulges in a petting party with Chick Adams that evening. Chick is wealthy and Cleo's parents wish her to marry him; so does Chick. Paul's parents, also social climbers who have lost their money, with Paul to marry Connie Terburne, very rich and in love with Paul. Despite these desires of the parents and Cleo's wonderings as to whether she really does love Paul, the two are married. Almost immediately Cleo begins to learn that marriage is not altogether a path of roses. However, the parents are reconciled to the marriage and the young couple depart for the army post, to which Paul is assigned. On the train Cleo has an allegorical dream which indicates the problems she will have to face. When the newlyweds arrive at the post, Paul is assigned to duty at once and leaves Cleo, who knows nothing of housekeeping, to shift for herself during the day. Johnson, a "retiree" detailed to Paul's mess, helps out enormously so Cleo is able to serve tea when Col. Beldon, the commanding officer, comes to pay his respects. The colonel, a "lady killer", has become involved in compromising circumstances with Rita Thorndike, whom Cleo likes immediately. Rita is absolutely innocent, but is having a hard time of it, especially as her husband is a no-good rotter. Cleo learns all about Rita and things rapidly draw toward a crisis. Such a crisis that Rita leaves the post, secretly to join a vaudeville troupe, a job which Cleo gets for her. Rita assumes the name of Rheda Thorwaldson. The post is agog with gossip and wondering.

Paul comes home from an all-night poker party, drunk and disagreeable.

He has lost $500, mostly to the colonel. Cleo is furious, especially as he starts picking on Rita's good name in the morning.

NEWS, AND A FLAREUP.

"Don't bark out your questions like that. Remember my head. I can't stand it."

"I'm not much concerned about your head, Paul."

"Well, you ought to be."

"You did it yourself, you brought it on yourself."

"Oh, for heaven's sake don't nag."

"Well, what do you mean by telling me who I shall have for friends and who I shall not have?"

"I only mean that you must not make a friend of Rita Thorndike."

"I don't know that word 'must'. Paul, I've been hearing it a good deal lately. More than I ever did before in my life."

"Well, you must hear it again. Personally, I think Mrs. Thorndike a very fascinating woman. There wasn't a man in the crowd last night that did not say she had a 'come thither' eye."

"It is probable that all the women are so much against her because of this."

"How you do love your own sex, Cleo."

"Yes, I love them. I love them better than I do men. I love those that are real and honest and sincere and there are more of them among women than there are among men," I asserted.

"Well, remember, Cleo, that whatever you think of your sex, the man can't buck it on some questions. You will have to consent to be ostracized if you make a friend of Mrs. Thorndike. You can't make a chum of her. That is out of the question."

"Oh, can't I? Well, just let me tell you something, soldier man. Nobody—man or woman—at this post can tell me who I shall or shall not have for friends. As for Rita, I am so tired of hearing about her and of having to stand up for her, that I will not have that poor woman exploited any longer. When she first came here, her young girl, Col. Beldon looked her over and decided that she might help him shatter the monotony of his quiet life. Then he, Lieut. Thorndike, who is a scoundrel, even according to masculine standards, decides that such a girl as Rita is a blessing in his life, and after that every man at the post considered her fair game. I want to tell you that as much as I like Rita, I think she is rather a poor stick. I would get up in the mess hall and tell all of you, the whole regiment, if necessary, what I think of you, if any one of you, man or woman, had done to me what has been done to poor Rita."

"You'd better go and see your precious Colonel and get some more gossip or perhaps make arrangements to lose another $500. That money burned in your pocket, didn't it? When you couldn't buy worthless oil stock with it, you handed it over to some one in a poker game. I'm going to spend the afternoon with Mrs. Melbourne."

Paul had never seen me in such a fury and with his hands frantically clasping his head he went out the door. I know it wouldn't be long before he would be coming back, because I was sure that Col. Beldon had tried to call up Rita before me. I wondered if the plan had worked. I hoped I could trust Johnson, and I was almost sure I could.

I was quite happy as I went about the house arranging things a little. I really intended to go over and see Mrs. Melbourne and talk the matter over with her. I had an idea that she felt sorry for Rita.

The more I thought about the matter, the more I concluded to let them all stew a little while, especially Col. Beldon.

While I was thinking about it, Paul came rushing back. He jumped through the front doorway calling, "Oh Cleo, Cleo."

"What's the matter, Paul? I thought you were out for the afternoon."

"It'll probably fall flat then won't it?"

"But I'm not joking. She has left and no one unless it is you, knows anything about it," he said suspiciously.

"Not even the Colonel?" I asked nonchalantly.

"Say, look here! I thought Mrs. Thorndike was your friend."

"She is. That's the reason why I'm not trying to butt into her business."

"Well I want to tell you that the Colonel is greatly worried. He is almost sure that Mrs. Thorndike has gone to her husband and he says that probably they were both in the game to hold him up."

"The unspeakable cad!"

"Be careful, Cleo. You are talking about the Colonel of the regiment."

"If he were the president of the United States I would say the same thing."

YONCALLA BASEBALL TEAM WINS CLOSE CONTEST FROM REEDSPORT BY SCORE 6 TO 5

Yoncalla defeated Reedspport 6 to 5 in a hotly contested game of baseball at Yoncalla on Sunday. Jack Traylor occupied the mound for Reedspport and Turpin, the veteran Yoncalla hurler, pitched for that team.

Reedspport took the lead with a score of 3 to 1 until the fatal 7th, when Yoncalla staged a rally which gave them the victory. A single and two walks filled the bases in the seventh, and the next batter slammed out a three bagger, scoring three runs, which were followed by two more.

The Reedspport team worked hard in their half of the frame, and succeeded in annexing two more runs, but not enough to win.

IDAHO WILL CELEBRATE DEDICATION OF RESERVOIR

POCATELLO, Idaho, June 30.—A celebration at American Falls, Idaho, on July 13 will mark the dedication of one of the largest storage reservoirs in the world. Constituting one of the most unusual arrangements in the history of irrigation, the reservoir will cause the submergence of an entire townsite, the buildings of which have been moved to a new location. A lake will be formed of water impounded from the Snake river.

The reservoir will contain a floor of more than 61,000 acres, breasted by a dam about 75 feet high and a mile long. The capacity under the original construction, now completed, will be 1,700,000 acre feet, or sufficient water to cover that many acres to the depth of one foot.

While most of this storage water is to be used for supplemental purposes on tracts under cultivation, the government has 120,000 acres, known as the Mafaloka extension, that will be brought under the reservoir. So important is the undertaking, regarded by the people of Idaho in point of stabilizing values and bringing water rights in the great Snake river valley to a parity, its leading men and publications hail the development as overshadowing all previous constructive enterprises in the state.

An elaborate celebration has been planned. The committee in charge anticipates an attendance of 40,000. A monster jubilee has been arranged, starting with the Pageant of Progress, in which hundreds of Indians, cowboys and pioneers will appear. The story of the growth of the country will be depicted.

Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work and Commissioner of Reclamation Elwood Mead will be the principal speakers. Governor Moore of Idaho has invited the governors of several states and other notables.

PORTLAND WILL ENTERTAIN C. E. SOCIETY JULY 4-10

PORTLAND, Ore., July 1.—Sixteen thousand Christian Endeavor leaders from the 48 states of the union and many foreign countries are expected to gather here from July 4 to 10, for the 30th International Christian Endeavor convention.

Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, has been announced as one of the speakers by E. P. Gates of Boston, general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. Other speakers will be: Ernest Chorrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism; Dr. Ira Landrith, Christian Endeavor extension secretary and former candidate for vice president on the prohibition ticket; Rev. Dr. William Hiram Foulkes of Cleveland, Presbyterian clergyman; Rev. Dr. Mark Matthews of Seattle, and John W. Lathrop, Christian Endeavor former moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly.

Dr. Francis E. Clark, founder of the Christian Endeavor movement, will also be in attendance.

A feature of the convention will be an automobile drive of 175 miles over the famous Columbia river highway and then around snow-capped Mount Hood. The loop road around Mount Hood is just being completed by the United States forest service, and the Endeavor caravan of 2500 cars, will be the first group to use it. The government has agreed to throw the road open on July 19 to the Endeavorists, whether it is completed or not.

The largest evening mass meetings of the convention will be held in an athletic club stadium, seating 22,000. The regular convention sessions will be held in Portland's Municipal Auditorium.

Music is to be furnished by a chorus of 500 voices under the direction of Percy Foster of Washington, D. C.

NEW S. P. LOCOMOTIVES OF MORE POWERFUL TYPE, ARRIVING FOR SERVICE

PORTLAND, Ore., July 1.—The first two of 16 new three-cylinder locomotives for the Southern Pacific have been received on the Pacific coast for use on mountain divisions of the system. They are the latest development in construction and the most powerful single unit engines in railroad service. The third cylinder has an effect similar to that obtained by increasing the number of cylinders in an automobile engine from four to six.

The hauling capacity of the new type of locomotive is one-fourth more at a speed of 25 miles an hour on a 2 per cent grade than the most powerful locomotive heretofore operated by the Southern Pacific. They are slightly over 101 feet in length, weigh 682,000 pounds and have a maximum tractive power of 96,250 pounds. All of them will be in service during the peak of traffic the latter part of this year.

SERIOUS LABOR CRISIS THREATENS COAL INDUSTRIES

NEW YORK, July 1.—Serious labor crises threaten the coal-mining industries of both the United States and Great Britain.

John L. Lewis, president of the United States Workers of America, has publicly denounced the "infamous conspiracy" in the bituminous fields to break the miners' union, declaring that unless the existing Jacksonville agreement is carried out, a national shutdown of soft coal mines may be ordered.

In England a big strike threatens following formal notification by the mine owners of their intention to terminate the present agreement—a move which Secretary Cook of the miners' Federation characterizes as a "declaration of war."

Mr. Lewis' statement made in an address yesterday before the anthracite tri-district scale convention at Scranton, was featured by an attack on John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Charles M. Schwab and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon.

"Purporting to draw a 'contrast' between the 'private and business morals' of these men, the miners' chief alleged they had failed to use their influence as stockholders in large soft coal companies to prevent repudiation of the Jacksonville agreement.

"If this situation continues," he said, "I may be necessary later on, to authorize a national shutdown of the mines of this country while the government and the coal operators and the representatives of the mine workers discuss whether the Jacksonville agreement is going to be carried out."

Hay fever, asthma, catarrh. Relief guaranteed within 24 hours or money refunded. Lloyd Crocker.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

CHICAGO, June 30.—Walter Krauser, who a few days ago fatally stabbed Bernard Grant while the two were confined in the county jail, Grant awaiting execution for the murder of a policeman and Krauser awaiting a new trial on the same charge, today attempted to commit suicide in his cell in the jail by setting fire to his clothing. He was seriously burned before prisoners and guards succeeded in smothering the flames.

SUMMER UNDERWEAR

Big new line now in. Women's vests, unions, bloomers, etc. Baby's and children's sizes also. White or colors. Knit, fine lisle or silk styles, crepes and nainsooks. See the big line at Carr's. Priced to save you money.

ATTENTION

Mr. Moss is also past potentate of Tripoli Temple Shrine, president of the aero club and past president of the chamber of commerce, all of Milwaukee. In the business world he is one of the largest manufacturers of interior woodwork, conducting one of the largest plants in the country in Wisconsin.

A total of over six-thousand delegates and visitors attended the convention, this being the largest representation of Kiwanians ever to attend an annual session.

COOLIDGE BACK AT DESK IN THE SUMMER HOME

Associated Press Special Wire

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 1.—Again at the summer White House here, President Coolidge today resumed the vacation routine interrupted by his hurried departure to the bedside of his father in Plymouth, Vt.

Considerable business was laid before him by Secretary Saunders, who remained on duty at the executive office in Lynn during his absence. The executive's next important engagement is for an address Friday in Cambridge at the celebration of the 150th anniversary of Washington taking over command of the Continental army.

It is improbable that the president will accept any invitation to leave the seclusion of the White House until it has been established even more definitely that his aged father is in no danger of a relapse.

On his second cross-country trip the president encountered all the inconveniences of an ordinary tourist. One of the president's limousines was held up at a toll bridge near Charlestown, N. H., by a stern woman gate tender who demanded 15 cents. It was supplied by a secret service man.

In Lowell, a brusque policeman rebuked the president's chauffeur for stopping at a street intersection while he was figuring out which way to go.

The president and Mrs. Coolidge stopped for lunch at the village of Gilsun, N. H., hurriedly eating sandwiches and drinking a cup of coffee in an unpretentious room across the hall from a soft drink parlor.

Backache Is a Warning!

Roseburg Folks Are Learning How to Heed It.

Are you miserable with an aching back? Do you get up lame and stiff; drag through the day feeling tired, weak and depressed? Then you should help your kidneys. Backache is often the first sign of falling kidneys. Urinary troubles quickly follow. Neglected, there's danger of gravel dropsy or fatal Bright's disease. Don't wait for serious kidney sickness! Use Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys, before it is too late. This Roseburg resident tells an experience:

Mrs. W. P. Conley, 219 W. Washington St., says: "My kidneys were weak and I had dull backaches and felt dull and languid. My kidneys acted irregularly, and Doan's Pills relieved the backache and other signs of the trouble." Get a box at all dealers. Roseburg, Ore., Mrs. Conley, N. E. 30c.
