NUMBER OF DEAD IN BUILDING OF CLUB INCREASES

Over Forty Die When Gay Resort Collapses During Holiday Revel.

SEARCH FOR BODIES

More Thought Buried Under Mass of Debris—Fervid Struggle Made to Find Corpses of Missing.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

BOSTON, July 6.—The list of dead in the collapse of the Pickwick club building Saturday will probably remain at 43. Fire Chief Daniel Sennott said this afternoon after firemen had removed the debris from that part of the dance floor which was still standing. This work was ordered by Mayor Corley after he visited the ruins early today and found contractors laboring working only in the excavated part of the building site.

BOSTON, July 6.—The forty-fourth body was taken from the wreck of the Pickwick Club, once again night resort, early today, just fifty hours after the throng of "night before the fourth" revelers were flung down and buried with the collapse of the building.

All night long the search had gone forward. Under the concentrated glare of dozens of arc lights an army of men had patiently brick by brick, stick after stick, worked their way down through the mass of debris, pausing now and again to lift another unfortunate.

By this morning, they had found them nearly all—nearly all of those about whom this early morning life had centered. The body of Miss Ella Cauley was brought out, pitifully bruised. In her dress, they found the money which she had snatched away from the bandstand of the guests that she might realize her hope of marriage and a home. Frank Tilo and Neddio Flanagan, who had won many local ring battles, were found. Inspector Benjamin Alexander of the Boston police, who had thought to add another arrest to the several made at the club, died in the wreck. Some of the bodies found were of persons paying their first visit to the club, others were those of habitués.

Two Kidnaped and Held in Mountains of Tennessee for Ten Days as Result of Feudist and Moonshiners' Activities

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

CHATANOOGA, Tenn., July 6.—Sheriff Tom Selman this morning began an investigation into the story by Dr. W. D. Mason, local veterinarian, and Lawrence Bowman, alleged feudist and aide of the federal prohibition officers, that they had been kidnaped on Signal mountain and kept captive for 10 days. The two men, who disappeared on June 23 without trace, were found yesterday morning by Jim Thomas, mountaineer, who was hunting stray hogs, handcuffed and tied to a tree in the wilds about 15 miles from Chattanooga.

SLEEP ON RUNNING BOARD OF MOVING CAR

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

SPOKANE, July 6.—Reul Le Doux, aged 5, and his 3-year-old sister Ruth, are safe at the home of their grandmother, Mrs. A. L. Wood, here today after their choice of the running board of their uncle's automobile as a place for a nap yesterday evening had caused no end of anxiety. Reul rolled off after his uncle, Elman Wood, had gone half a mile on his way home to Bovill, Idaho, and passing motorists took him home. He told them his sister also had been on the machine, and police sent frenzied calls ahead to stop it.

DEFENSE ATTORNEY IN EVOLUTION CASE FILES A PETITION

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

COOKEVILLE, Tenn., July 6.—John R. Neal, representing John T. Scopes, charged with violating the Tennessee law against the teaching of evolution theories in the public schools, presented a petition to Federal Judge John J. Gore, here this afternoon, asking that the Tennessee state courts be restrained from continuing the prosecution.

The petition was based mainly on grounds that property rights of the University of Tennessee are involved, this university participating in land grant federal funds. Judge Gore retired to study the petition and prepare his decision. Scopes appeared in the petition as the plaintiff suing "on behalf of himself and all others similarly situated."

The defendants were named: Austin Peay, governor of Tennessee; Frank Thompson, state attorney-general and A. T. Stewart, attorney-general for the eighteenth judicial circuit in which Dayton and Rhea county are situated.

Veniremen Drawn

DAYTON, Tenn., July 6.—Twenty-nine veniremen were drawn today by the Rhea county court in regular session, for the trial of John T. Scopes, charged with violation of the state statute prohibiting the teaching of theories of evolution.

Fourteen of the prospective jurymen are farmers. One is like Scopes, a teacher. Others include a preacher, a physician, a garage worker and the president of a canning company. The remainder are merchants.

Sunday Backs Bryan

PORTLAND, July 6.—In a telegram to The Associated Press today the Rev. William "Billy" Sunday announced that he would be unable to go east in connection with the Scopes evolution trial, but that he endorsed any views expressed by William Bryan, who is on his way to Dayton, Tenn., for the hearing.

JULY FOURTH AT OAKLAND DRAWS CROWD OF 3500

Oration by Justice Brown, Program of Sports at Celebration.

RACING IS A FEATURE

Coos County Horse Again Star Performer—Amort Holds Jack Woods to One Fall.

With a program of patriotic exercises and various forms of amusement, the latter featured by a card of horse racing that extended over from the previous day, Oakland observed the nation's birthday in a rousing manner. A throng estimated at 3,500 participated in the celebration, which was carried out under the able direction of the live-wire organization of Goblbers without a serious accident or any disorder to mar its pleasure.

Mid-summer warmth prevailed, but a southeast breeze throughout the day kept the temperature from causing any discomfort. The spacious oak-studded grove bordering the Calapooia in the western portion of the celebration grounds afforded ample shade and rest for all who sought its shelter and hundreds of meals were enjoyed in picnic fashion on its grassy carpet. It was in this grove that the exercises were held following a parade of floats in the city prepared by the popular Douglas County Concert Band, which furnished the music during the day. The program was opened with invocation pronounced by Rev. J. K. Howard. "America" was sung community fashion, Mayor Ralston D. Bridges delivered a brief speech of welcome and Mrs. Fred L. Strang sang "My Own United States," with band accompaniment, a special arrangement by Gordon V. Cook, of this city.

The oration of the day came from the eloquent lips of Justice George M. Brown, of the Oregon supreme court, a native son of Douglas county. It was an inspiring eulogy of the founders of the republic and of the pioneers of the west, combined with a brief historical review of the nation's progress since its "birth certificate," as he characterized the immortal Declaration of Independence. Justice Brown injected an interesting and humorous note into his speech when he remarked that he delivered his first 4th of July address at Elkton 20 years ago and that he had responded to so many invitations to give the address that he almost regarded such speeches as an annual patriotic duty. His address was accorded the closest attention and at its close he was rewarded with a generous salvo of applause.

Speed Events

The horse racing program, continued from July 3rd, was held in the afternoon on a track enlarged during the past year from its original length of three-eighths mile to a distance lacking about 155 feet of being one-half mile. The races were listed, however, on the assumed designation of a complete circuit as a half-mile race, and those of the spectators who were familiar with world turf records but did not know that the Oakland track was regarded such as the announcement of time marks that came through the megaphone from the judges' stand.

As at past speed cards at the Oakland track, the outstanding horse of the two-day meet was Joey G, the Coos county stallion owned by Hobson and McCaslin, whose victories in the past three years have been registered on tracks stretching from the furthest point on the northwest circuit to Tin Juana, Mexico. Joey G captured all three races in which he was entered; the $200 Goblbers' one mile special of Friday and the half-mile and five-eighths open events on Saturday. To give other horses a chance McCaslin refrained from entering the speedy stallion in the one mile derby on the 4th, but his generosity was wasted. He had to go through the formality of a "race" with two slower nags of his own string, but thereby acquired without competition the star prize of $250.

NEW STEP TAKEN TOWARD BUILDING OF HUGE TERMINAL

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

CHICAGO, July 6.—A new step toward erection of a $300,000,000 railroad passenger terminal was reported today in the announcement of the 14 railroads now using three scattered stations had reached an agreement after 13 years of street extensions.

YOUTHFUL ROBBERS GET HUGE SUM IN DAYLIGHT ROBBERY

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

DETROIT, July 6.—Four youths shortly before noon today held up and robbed Joseph Jasinski, cashier of the Hamtrack National Bank of $14,500 he had obtained a few minutes earlier from the People's State Bank of Hamtramck, Jasinski, afoot, was stopped at the curb and before he could make an outcry, the robbers had escaped in an auto.

'POLLY' CELEBRATES THE FOURTH IN AN UNUSUAL MANNER

A female parrot in the household of Ray Troxel, local finery for over twenty years past began refusing food about a week ago, grow thin and apathetic and refused to indulge in her wonted chatter. The family resented themselves to an anticipated funeral. They got a big surprise instead, when on last Saturday morning they found, not the lifeless body of the feathered pet, but a broken, sterile egg on the base of her perch and "Polly" registering elation over her ovate feat with lively antics and ceaseless loquacity. Incidentally she made up for her long abstinence from food by taking on a sizeable meal. As "Polly" has lived like a convent inmate ever since she became a member of the Troxel household, her wholly unexpected attempt at contribution to posterity amazed her owners and sent them rushing to the encyclopedia for an explanation. Ray is exhibiting the broken egg today and accepting information from all who volunteer it.

CHURCH TREASURY AT ROME ROBBED OF VAST TREASURE

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

ROME, July 6.—The Pope is taking the keenest interest in the investigation of the robbery of the treasury of St. Peter's Friday night, when thieves escaped with precious objects valued at more than a million lire, but irreplaceable, because of their significance to the church.

BIG CONTRACT IN FILMS FOR WIFE OF JACK DEMPSEY

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 6.—Jack Dempsey, champion pugilist, and Estelle Taylor, his wife, who is a film actress, will return soon from Europe to California in response to a cablegram from R. R. Benton, newspaperman, notifying them that a high figure screen contract in Los Angeles waited. Dempsey's signature, Benton announced today.

Benton quoted a cablegram to refute rumors that the champion heavyweight fighter was returning to America to get into the ring, but his generosity was wasted. He had to go through the formality of a "race" with two slower nags of his own string, but thereby acquired without competition the star prize of $250.

HOLIDAY DEATHS REACH 250 OVER WHOLE COUNTRY

Auto Accidents Lead List of Fatalities—Fire Works Kill Very Few.

FOUR HUNDRED HURT

Ten Lose Lives on Pacific Highway and Cities of Coast—Illinois at Top of Casualties.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

CHICAGO, July 6.—The toll of holiday fatalities throughout the country mounted today to the 250 mark, with auto accidents and drownings at the head of the list, without the Boston tragedy in which 43 perished.

While the Fourth of July passed with remarkably few deaths from fire works and explosions, the abnormal traffic in the suburban country led to an unusually long list of dead and injured. Twenty-seven automobile casualties were reported in Chicago and vicinity. More than 400 were injured in the states which reported the heaviest death tolls. Illinois reported 57 dead and more than 400 injured.

MAN HURT IN AUTO WRECK NEAR MYRTLE POINT ON SUNDAY

Ed Porterfield of Myrtle Point, was quite seriously injured, and four others were slightly hurt yesterday in an auto accident in Coos county, near Myrtle Point. Mr. Porterfield and a young lady friend were on their way to Roseburg, and in rounding a curve collided head on with a Chevrolet touring car occupied by a man and two boys from Marshfield. The Ford coupe in which Porterfield and the young lady were riding was being driven by the girl, and the man was thrown from his seat, through the windshield, suffering serious cuts and bruises. The girl's knees were cut by glass and she was bruised also. Both were taken to the hospital at Myrtle Point. The occupants of the touring car sustained only minor injuries. Both cars were completely demolished, the front ends being locked together and the running gear wrecked.

HOT DOG VENDOR SELLS HOT BOOZE AT RODEO STAND

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., July 6.—Hot dogs and hot moonshine proved to be an unucky combination here Saturday for Van Fowler, confessed bootlegger. Fowler was purveying the hot dogs openly during the rodeo events. Secretly he was selling the hot moonshine to those who gave the proper wink. Tom Tracy court house janitor, noted the look of inebriate contentment which spread over the features of Fowler's patrons and purchased a hot dog and a drink too.

He stopped the car and looked at her with a twinkle in his eye. "I wonder," he began and hesitated. "Yes?" she suggested encouragingly. "I wonder if you will hold my straw hat while I drive. I'd like to get this wonderful breeze."

SANTA BARBARA HAS SEVERAL NEW TREMOIRS

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., July 6.—Santa Barbara experienced a recurrence of the earth tremors today. Four or five distinct quivers were felt between 11 a. m. and 2 p. m., the most pronounced coming about 1:45 p. m. Two quick sharp jolts caused occupants of buildings to take notice, but no damage or excitement followed.

TIMBER SALE IS HELD BY LOCAL LAND OFFICE

The Roseburg land office today conducted a sale of approximately 2,940 acres of timber land, located in Lane, Douglas, Coos, Josephine and Jackson counties, the sale netting the government $117,233.49. The lands offered were Coos Bay, Wagon road and Oregon and California railroad grant lands, and were sold in keeping with the government's policy of disposing of the timber remaining within the grant lands, at the earliest possible date.

Approximately 640 acres offered for sale were not disposed of, owing to the fact that there were no bidders present desiring these tracts. They will probably be re-advertised at some future date. There was no competition on any of the tracts included in the sale.

The sale was well attended, there being a large number of timber buyers from various parts of the state present to bid in the timber desired for their own particular operations.

Under the terms of the sale the timber must be removed from the land within a specified period, after which title to the property reverts to the government to be disposed of under the homestead laws.

Other sales were as follows: Smalltrout Brothers, Notf, 49 acres O. and C. lands in Lane county $1,570.

P. W. Laird and Roy Garrett, Myrtle Point, 160 acres wagon road and O. and C. grant lands in Coos county, $9,985.

NEW 3 MILLION DOLLAR PLANT CALIFORNIA OREGON POWER CO. DEDICATED SUNDAY AT COPCO

Visitors Taken on Trip Through Long Underground Tunnels and to Diversion Dam and Power House—Hospitality of Company Unequaled—Plant Has 40,000 Horse Power.

The California Oregon Power Company's new three-million dollar hydro-electric project, Copco No. 2, on the Klamath river, was dedicated yesterday and thousands of spectators stood with bared heads as the Douglas County Concert Band played the Star Spangled Banner during the unfurling of the Stars and Stripes over the beautiful new power plant.

Appropriate ceremonies marked the dedication of the new plant, which was attended by people from all parts of southern Oregon and northern California. The dedicatory exercises started promptly at 11:30 o'clock, preceded by a short concert from the Roseburg band. W. F. Quisenberry, a member of the Copco organization, presided at the ceremonies. Twelve of the spectators were invited to the platform to occupy places of honor, representing the various sections served by the company. Eight little lassies then ascended the platform, carrying banners typifying "Broad Vision," "Abiding Faith," "Unfaltering Devotion," "Steadfast Courage," "Consummate Skill," "Masterful Leadership," "Faithful Toil" and the aggregate of all "Copco No. 2," "Faithful Toil" represented by a little youngster attired in blue denim was given a seat of honor in the center of the group. Mr. Quisenberry remarking that without faithful toil of the 1200 workers the dreams of the electrical dreamers could never have been realized.

Donald McKee one of the officers of the company and Joseph D. Grant, chairman of the board of directors, made short talks and it was easy to discern the pride on their countenances as they turned with outstretched arms to dedicate their new plant, made possible by the earnest cooperation of hundreds of Pacific coast citizens.

Dr. Harrie J. "Paddy" Ryan, former instructor in electrical engineering at the Stanford University, and past president of the National Electric Light association, was the average layman who has inspected the job it seems almost an impossibility. But to these men of broad vision who first gazed upon those mountains of stone towering over the rushing waters of the Klamath. It was only another "job" they assembled a force of 1200 workers, erected mess shacks, sleeping quarters, homes for the construction engineers and their families and started digging. And especially marvelous was their work of "digging."

The only feasible way to divert the waters of the Klamath, after they had already been harnessed further upstream by Copco No. 1, was to tunnel through a mountain or rock. An epistol would have thrown up his hands in dismay at the gigantic job staring him in the face. Two tunnels through two sections of the mountain were necessary. Tunnel No. 1 is 2440 feet in length. Tunnel No. 2 is 1105 feet long. These two mammoth gaps are connected with a wood-pipe line, the largest wood stave pipe line in the world, the inside diameter of which is 16 feet and the length 1318 feet. The pipe line is set in 148 steel cradles and the staves are bound together by steel bands, set 4 inches apart. The diameter size of the two main tunnels is 16 feet. Two steel penstocks jut from the side of the mountain, connecting the tunnel with the new power house. These penstocks are each 13 feet, 6 inches in diameter and extend from the outlet of the tunnel, approximately 400 feet down the hill into the plant. They are set in huge cement caissons, reinforced with steel.

All of those who visited Copco No. 2 yesterday had an opportunity to take a trip through these tunnels up to the diversion dam. It was a trip long to be remembered. Walking through huge cement and wooden pipes in the bowels of the earth is a novel experience and old and young, women and children formed a line and started "Faithful Toil" and walked along the tunnel you could not help but marvel at man's skill in producing such a masterpiece of engineering. Each foot of the way represented hard toil. Emerging from the upper end of the tunnel you find yourself at the bottom of the mammoth diversion dam, constructed of cement. The height of the dam above the original stream bed is 34 feet. The maximum quantity of cubic feet of water to be diverted per second is 3000. The dam at its crest is 134 feet long and the thickness at the base is 31 feet.

The same waters you see pouring through the dam have already supplied thousands of people with hydro-electric power, having been harnessed at Copco No. 1 a short distance up the stream.
