ROSEBURG—OAKLAND

ROSEBURG OVER TOP IN DEFENSE DAY ENLISTMENTS

Roseburg went over its quota for National Defense Day by a wide margin. It is reported by those engaged in securing enlistments. Owing to the fact that each unit reported its enlisted strength direct to state headquarters, without the totals being secured in a central organization here, exact figures on enlistments were not available, but each unit was filled to full strength and hundreds were enlisted in groups. The Rotary and Kiwanis clubs enlisted at their regular meetings, and on Friday afternoon W. H. L. Osborne secured the enlistment of the ladies of the Woman's Club in the army nursing corps. The purpose of National Defense Day is to draw attention to the defense policy of the United States. This country has a great phantom army supplementing its National Guard and regular army. There is an organization known as the Officers Reserve Corps, these officers being experienced and trained men. Each officer is assigned to a certain distinct unit in the defense army, and in the event of war he would be prepared to take his place, while the ranks of his unit would be filled with volunteers or conscripted soldiers. By maintaining an established "paper" army, the government is able to raise a defense force almost overnight.

At the present time one-day enlistments are being used to fill the ranks of the skeleton army once each year, but eventually it is hoped that this system will grow to a point where each unit will be made up of reserve soldiers, who can be called out in event of a national need and be placed in the field at any time. National Defense Day would then provide for a review of these soldiers, and the organization of them into units for parade.

PREPARE FORMAL DISMISSAL PAPER IN TEAPOT SUIT

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 6.—Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy, today set 2 o'clock as the time for hearing counsel on the court's decree dismissing the government's suit in equity for cancellation of the Mammoth Oil Company's lease on the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve. Before the question of the decree is taken up, however, Owen J. Roberts and Arlow Pomeroy, government counsel, will present a petition to rescind the trial to permit the presentation of additional testimony relating to the Continental Trading Company, Ltd., and transactions through which, it is alleged, certain liberty bonds found their way from Harry F. Sinclair to former Secretary of the Interior Fall.

Mr. Pomeroy intimated that should the petition be granted the government would be able to present testimony of Canadian witnesses not available during the trial here last March. Commander H. A. Stuart, U. S. N., the government's representative in the Teapot Dome receivership and W. L. Connolly, general manager of the Mammoth Oil Company, are here for the hearing.

YANKEE SAILOR SHOTS CHINAMAN TO AVOID MOBBIING

(Associated Press Local Wire.) SHANGHAI, July 6.—A Chinese, about to attack a municipal constable from behind, was shot and killed here Saturday evening by a sailor from the United States destroyer Maclach, who came to the rescue of the constable.

The shooting occurred during trouble at one of the cotton mills involved in the present strike. Hundreds of Chinese assembled outside the mill had threatened to burn it unless some of their comrades who had been arrested were released. A constable then arrested one of the leaders of the mob who was urging the coalition to advance on the mill. A companion of the arrested leader, was about to spring on the back of the constable when he was shot by an American sailor whose name was given as Dizik.

The foreigners in the mill who witnessed the entire affair said the action of the American sailor averted what promised to be a most serious situation.

Letters Like This Prove the Reliability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Turtle Lake, Wisconsin.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness, backache and nervousness. I had these troubles for years and had tried many other medicines for them but I have found no medicine so good as the Vegetable Compound and I recommend it to my friends who have troubles similar to mine. I saw it advertised and thought I would try it and it has helped me in all my troubles. I have had six children and I have taken the Lydia E. Pinkham Vegetable Compound before each one was born, for weakness, vomiting, poor appetite and backache, and again after childbirth because of dizzy headaches. It is a good medicine for it always helps me. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for the last eight years for constipation. —Mrs. M. H. L. La Point, R. F. D. A BRIDE'S DIARY

A Love Story of Today
By Idaho McGlone Gibson

Cleo Madison, entertaining friends, reads from her grand-mother's quaint, modest diary. The diary friends are thunderstruck at its quaintness and suppressed desires. When the girl leaves, Cleo plans her elopement with Paul Armstrong, U. S. A., a boyhood sweetheart. None the less, she includes in a getting party with Chick Adams that evening. Chick is wealthy and Cleo's parents wish her to marry him; so does Chick. Paul's parents, also social climbers who have lost their money, wish Paul to marry Connie Terhune, a very rich and in love with Paul. Despite these desires of the parents and Cleo's wonderings as to whether she really does love Paul, the two are married. Almost immediately Cleo begins to learn that marriage is not altogether a path of roses. However, the parents are reconciled to the marriage and the young couple depart for the army camp to which Paul is assigned. The train Cleo has an allegorical dream which indicates the problems she will have to face. When the newlyweds arrive at the post, Paul is assigned to duty at once and leaves Cleo, who knows nothing of housekeeping, to shift for herself during the day. Johnson, a "stricker" detailed to Paul's quarters, helps out enormously so Cleo is able to serve tea when Col. Belton, the commanding officer, comes to pay his respects. The colonel, a "lady killer", has become involved in compromising circumstances with Rita Thordike, whom Cleo likes immediately. Rita is absolutely innocent but is having a hard time of it, especially as her husband is a good fellow and things rapidly draw toward a crisis. Such a crisis that Rita leaves the post, secretly to join a vaudeville troupe, a job which Cleo gets for her. Rita assumes the name of Rhoda Thordike. The post is agog with gossip and wondering. Paul comes home from an all-night poker party, drunk and all-around agreeable. He has lost $500, mostly to the colonel. Cleo is furious, especially as he starts picking on Rita's good name to the westward.

Paul hears of Rita's disappearance and rushes to tell Cleo. Cleo suggests that Rita may have committed suicide. Paul is aghast. The colonel calls to whom the information from Cleo—but it's none.

My fingers trembled with excitement as I tore open the envelope. "Did she?" "I don't think she did." "And you have asked every one?" Mrs. Ralston did not deign to answer my question. She thought she had found out everything that I could tell her and she bade me goodbye.

After Johnson had closed the door on the old cat, he came back and handed me a telegram. "I got this, Mrs. Armstrong, just as I turned the corner just as the Colonel left, but I could not give it to you while Mrs. Ralston was here."

My fingers trembled with excitement as I tore open the envelope. "Did she?" "I don't think she did." "And you have asked every one?" Mrs. Ralston did not deign to answer my question. She thought she had found out everything that I could tell her and she bade me goodbye.

The West is the Mecca of men of vision

THEY FELL in love with the West... can you blame them?

Akron tire engineers with records of success running back a quarter century, knew the future held much in the East. Yet when the West won them, they gladly transferred their training, skill and resources to the Pacific Coast.

Today C-T-C tires bear testimony to this pioneer move. Thousands of motorists in nine Western states have discovered that C-T-C engineers have put something into these tires that makes them outrun others. Some call it "stamina"; some "quality". Others declare that the very training and skill of the engineers is embodied in every tread and ply.

We shall be glad to give you expert information about your tires, and—if you need them—put on C-T-C's—either balloons, semi-balloons, heavy-duty cords or oversize cords!
