LITTLE CHANGE MADE BY BOARD HIGH CURRICULA

Squabble Between University and College Decided by Report Today.

SOME SHIFTS MADE

Music Eliminated at O. A. C., but Most Requests of University Denied—Swap Course.

PORTLAND, July 14.—Decision of the board of higher curricula affecting the future division of work at the University of Oregon and Oregon Agricultural College was made public today by Dr. C. J. Smith, chairman of the board. It shows little drastic change in either institution, although numerous adjustments were made in order to define the work.

Major demands made by the University of Oregon in its original brief were denied by the board, the work at the college practically remaining the same except that pre-medical work was eliminated in exchange for the elimination of pre-engineering at the university.

The school of commerce at the college remains the same as before, and no material change was made in the school of business administration at the university. All courses asked for by the college and protested by the university were granted. The board's order says:

"The departments of business administration in the University of Oregon and commerce in the Agricultural College are sufficiently differentiated and there are no unnecessary duplications therein, as shown by the catalogs of 1925 and 1926 of the two institutions, and the request of the Oregon Agricultural College of March 14th, 1925, for certain new courses supplementing the existing courses is granted."

"The name 'school of music' has been eliminated at the college though the courses given, shown to be self-supporting, were allowed to remain. Conservatory of music will probably be used instead, it was said, the change being in accordance with practice where no degree is granted. Music is a special subject, as a major course, leading to a degree shall be confined to the state university."

"The department of physical education is confined to the University of Oregon, except that the Oregon Agricultural College may offer physical education as a service course only to the regular courses of that institution, but no degrees shall be offered in physical education by said Oregon Agricultural College."

"Journalism as a major course or department is confined to the University of Oregon, but Oregon Agricultural College may offer industrial journalism as a service course only to the regular courses of that institution to students majoring in other subjects."

"The board of higher curricula recognizes the necessity of the department of household arts in the University of Oregon, and recommends the re-organization of their present courses in household arts at that institution, as suggested in an outline submitted by the board."

Final decision of the work in the school of vocational education was deferred in view of a tentative (Continued on page 6.)

London Doctor Perfects Cancer Finding Microscope Lens; Makes Ultra-Microscopic Germ Visible

NEW YORK, July 14.—A London hatter by day with an all-absorbing hobby for microscopes by night has made possible the perception of the infectious agent for cancer. But New York authorities are inclined to doubt that any great step toward a cure for the disease has been taken.

Dr. J. E. Barnard of King College, London, divided his time between his hat shop in the west end and his collection of microscopes at night. He went to the aid of Dr. William E. Cope, a member of the British Institute of Medical Research, who was engaged in the study of cancer.

Through the powerful lens of one of Dr. Barnard's specially constructed microscopes they saw and photographed the cancer virus.

PRINCE OF WALES PLAYS FIREMAN AND SAVES LIVES OF TOTS

KAFUCU, Rhodesia, July 14.—The Prince of Wales played the part of a heroic fireman today when he assisted settlers in extinguishing a fire in a native wood and grass children's house at the Kafucu agricultural show. All of the children were rescued.

The blaze started during a luncheon given in the Prince's honor. The children's house was destroyed in five minutes. Wales joined in the work of preventing the fire from spreading.

COURT DECISION INVOLVES BIG SUM

SALEM, Ore., July 14.—In what is considered one of the most important decisions handed down in the state as far as the amount of money involved is concerned at least, came down today when Circuit Judge L. H. McMahon and Percy R. Kelly of this district, dissolved the injunction against the Public Service Commission section by the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation Company and other carriers of Oregon in which the commission was restrained from reducing rates 15 per cent on grain, grain products, potatoes, onions and straw.

The sweeping order of the commission involved rates on all carriers. In addition was involved an order that the Heppner, Pilot Rock, Shaniko and Condon branches of the O. W. R. & N. a differential would be permitted on whole grain not to exceed the maximum rates prescribed plus 10 per cent.

In February 1924 a temporary injunction was granted by the circuit court from attempting to enforce orders of the commission which reduced the rates on the commodities mentioned 25 per cent. Under a decision of the court at that time the reduction was changed from 25 per cent to 15 per cent differential on the O. W. R. & N. eastern Oregon branches was eliminated and the public declared that the rates prescribed are maximum rates only and the carriers are expected to establish point-to-point rates as occasion requires.

The public service commission issued orders in compliance with the order of the court at that time and the railroad companies secured another temporary injunction restraining the commission from enforcing such orders. It was such temporary injunction the court set aside today. It is considered likely that because of its importance, this case will go through the United States Supreme Court.

FOREST FIRES IN COUNTY ARE UNDER CONTROL

Two Fires Burning on National Forest and One on State Land.

MORE ARE EXPECTED

Blazes Started by Lightning Sometimes Do Not Show Up for Four or Five Days, Ranger Says.

The forest fire situation in Douglas county today was reported to be considerably improved. Thirty-five lightning fires have been turned in altogether, and it is expected that there will be a few more show up. With the exception of two fires on the Umpqua national forest, all of the fires on the government reserve are extinguished or under control. The county patrol this afternoon received the report of a new fire near West Fork, probably another of the fires started by the storm, just showing up.

Altogether there were 24 lightning fires on the national forest, and 11 in outside territory, according to the reports made today. It is expected that other fires will show up, as it is usually the case that lightning fires continue to show up for a period of four or five days after the storm.

C. Houser, central dispatcher on the Umpqua forest, reported this afternoon that government crews have extinguished, or have put under control, all but two of the storm fires so far discovered. One of these fires is located on Grassy Ranch, about 8 miles northeast of Caps Illabe, and the other is on Black Creek, a tributary of Little River. The first is in Ranger Fred Assam's district and the second in Ranger Hugh Ritter's district. Both are expected to be brought under control by night.

Harvey Brown, supervising warden of the county patrol reports all of the 11 fires handled by his organization to be extinguished, with the exception of the new blaze reported this afternoon from West Fork. This is a small fire and will soon be under control. A crew is on the way to handle the fire, it is stated.

MEDFORD, Ore., July 14.—Two more forest fires were reported to the local forest service this morning, both on state timber land, one small fire in the northern part of Jackson county, and the other a large fire covering 100 acres on Scalp mountain, 12 miles north of Gold Hill. The latter fire is regarded as rather serious, and a large force of fire fighters has been sent out to combat it.

There are now 15 forest fires burning in Jackson county, with the exception of the Scalp mountain blaze, all of them are now under control, and none is regarded as serious.

BEND, Ore., July 14.—Paulina Prairie, bearing south-southwest from Bend, 35 miles, reported a new fire at 10:30 o'clock this morning. The blaze is being attended by state forces, according to a report received at the Deschutes National Forest headquarters here. Humidity at noon registered 50 degrees, rated high and favorable for the fire fighters, say officials reports.

EUGENE, Ore., July 14.—Two class A forest fires in the Siuslaw National Forest were reported to the local office of the forest service today by M. Hobart Durbin, ranger in the Gardner and Umpqua river district.

The fires are small, though potentially great, according to forest officials.

NEWSIES IN DENVER RESTRICTED BY 'DADS'

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) DENVER, Colo., July 14.—The shadow of an official list of "don'ts" hung over the newsboys of Denver today, as the result of the passage last night by the city council of an ordinance opposing shouting in selling papers; requiring each youth to obtain a city license and specifying the corner on which he may operate.

The ordinance requires that all newsboys must sell from stands on designated street corners and each stand must offer for sale editions of every Denver daily newspaper. Licenses would be issued without charge. The ordinance now goes to Mayor Stapleton for signature or veto.

SCOPES LAWYERS OBJECT TO PRAYER IN OPENING COURT; CLAIM IT HARMS THEIR CASE

Judge Raulston Overrules Motion of Clarence Darrow to Dispense With Prayer—Says Custom of Court Will Continue—Takes Time to Consider Motion to Quash Indictment.

COURT HOUSE, Dayton, Tenn., July 14.—The decision of Judge Raulston on the defense motion to quash the indictment against John T. Scopes, on trial for violating the anti-evolution law of Tennessee, has not been delivered. At 3:30 central standard time, the judge still was preparing the decision.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 14.—A petition calling on Judge Raulston to discontinue his practice of opening morning sessions of the court with prayer was presented by defense counsel immediately after Judge Raulston returned to the court room after preparing his decision on the defense motion to quash.

Ben T. McKenzie suggested that the matter had been passed on by the supreme court.

Denies Darrow's Charge. Attorney-General A. T. Stewart followed with an announcement that he would place the state's position in the record.

"The state makes no contention," he said, "as stated by counsel, that this is a conflict between science and religion insofar as the merits are concerned. It is a case involving the fact as to whether or not a school teacher has taught a doctrine prohibited by statute and we, for the state, think it is quite proper to open this court with prayer if the court sees fit to do it, and such an idea extended by the agnostic counsel for the defense is foreign to the thoughts and ideas of the people who do not know anything about infidelity and care less."

Arthur G. Hays, noted an exception to the statement, "agnostic counsel," which brought Dudley Field Malone to the floor to state that he respected his colleague's right to believe or not as long as he was as honest in his belief as the speaker was in his belief.

Speaking of prayers in court, Mr. Malone said: "They help to increase the atmosphere of hostility to our point of view which already exists in this community by widespread propaganda. After the discussion had been in full tilt for some minutes, Judge Raulston suggested, 'Gentlemen, do not turn this into an argument.'"

"This statute says, no doctrine shall be taught which is contrary to the divine account contained in the Bible," persisted Darrow. "So there is no question about the religious character of these proceedings."

"This court has no purpose except to find the truth and do justice to all the issues involved in this case," said Judge Raulston, closing the discussion.

Judge Overrules Motion. "In answer to counsel for the defendant as to my custom, I will say, the several years I have been on the bench, I have used my discretion in opening the court with prayer."

"At times, when there was a minister present and it was convenient to do so and other times, when there was no minister present and no large assemblage of people, I have not always followed this custom, but I think it is a matter wholly within the discretion of the court."

"I have instructed the ministers who have been invited to my rostrum to open the court with prayer to make no reference to the issues involved in this case. I see nothing that might influence the court or the jury as to the issues. I believe in prayer myself; I constantly invoke divine guidance myself when I am on the bench and off the bench. I see no reason why I should not continue to do this. It is not the purpose of this court to bias or prejudice the mind of any individual, but to do right in all matters under investigation, therefore, I am pleased to overrule the objection of counsel and invite Dr. Stripling to open the court with prayer."

The minister's prayer occupied less than two minutes. Judge Raulston told Mr. Darrow that he would have the record show his motion made and (Continued on page 6.)
