FIFTEEN WILL TAKE TRIP UP NORTH UMPQUA

Fifteen men will make up the party taking the trip over the North Umpqua route, it is expected. The cars will leave the Chamber of Commerce office on Saturday morning, July 15, and will go to the end of the new road, and from there horses will be taken to take for the first night's stop. There will be three members of the Chamber of Commerce road committee, a member of the county court and the county roadmaster, a photographer, newspaper representative, an engineer from the California Oregon Power Company, two forest service officials, one member from the state highway department and delegates from Bandon, Marshfield and Redport. Marshfield Chamber of Commerce has wired for further particulars and promises to have their representative here on Friday night. Joseph Lyons of Redport, will represent that city, the Chamber of Commerce has been informed. The names of the Bandon delegate has not been given as yet.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RETIRES 16 MEN

After serving 45 years and 11 months, Coby Lorenzen, locomotive engineer of Oakland, California, has just been retired on pension by the Southern Pacific company, according to an announcement in the current issue of the Southern Pacific Bulletin, the company employees' magazine.

Lorenzen heads a list of 15 veterans of the rails whose names have just been placed on the railroad's "Honor Roll." He began his railroad career in 1870 as an engine wiper at Santa Cruz.

Other "old timers" pensioned at the last meeting of the Pension Board include: Peter Croom, captain, San Francisco, 42 years 11 months; William H. Whitney, 43 months; Albert W. Dutton, agent, St. George, 41 years; Thomas Lister, coach builder, San Francisco, 40 years; Joan F. Gill, tunnel inspector, Summit, 38 years 9 months; Andrew J. McDonough, station master, Sacramento, 35 years 3 months; John Kearney, machinist, Stockton, 37 years 4 months; George B. Taylor, locomotive fireman, Portland, 37 years 4 months; August Krenke, painter, Sacramento, 36 years, 9 months; Holly Cleveland, passenger brakeman, Portland, 42 years 10 months; Frank W. Hoppe, helper, M. P. Sacramento, 31 years 6 months; Walter H. Hammarley, locomotive engineer, San Francisco, 25 years 11 months; Edwin T. Dumble, consulting geologist, San Francisco, 28 years 3 months; Wallingford Snyder, conductor, Ashland, Oregon, 27 years; Lauritz Pedersen, deckhand, San Francisco, 25 years; Owen L-yden, night station master, New York, 22 years 11 months; Henry H. Murphy, brakeman, San Francisco, 22 years one month.

FAMILY SEPARATED FOR 26 YEARS ENJOY REUNION

Two brothers and a sister have had a very enjoyable reunion after a period of 26 years during which time they had not seen each other. Orphaned in childhood they were widely separated. In 1900 J. W. Lichtsberger, of Kirkfield, Oregon, one of the brothers, came to Oregon, and his sister, Mrs. W. O. Watson, of Ten Mile, came to this state in 1919. D. A. Lichtsberger, the other member of the family, came to Roseburg last month for a visit. The three went on an outing trip visiting various streams and lakes, where a number of fine fish were caught. They secured a 9 lb. steelhead in Rock Creek, and a 26 pound steelhead in Rogue river, together with many trout in the rivers and lakes of Klamath county. D. A. Lichtsberger, whose home is in Altoona, Pa., will return to Roseburg next year to stay.

A BRIDE'S DIARY

A Love Story of Today
By Idah McGlone Gibson

Cleo Madison, entertaining friends, reads from her grandmother's diary. The flapper friends are thunderstruck by its quaintness and suppressed desires. Soon after Cleo opens with her boyfriend sweetheart Llett. Paul Armstrong, U. S. A. Cleo's parents advised her to marry wealthy Chick Adams; so did Chick. Paul's parents wished him to marry the rich and willing Connie Terhune. Cleo begins to learn that marriage is not a path of roses almost at once. The young couple departs for the army post. On the train Cleo has an allegorical dream indicating the problems she will have to face. On arriving, undomestic Cleo is able to serve tea to the "staid" couple, through the help of Johnson, a striker. Col. Beldon has become involved in compromising circumstances with Rita Thordike. Rita is innocent; her husband is a crook. Rita secretly leaves the post to join a vaudeville troupe, a job which Cleo gets for her. Rita assumes the name of Rhoda Thordike. Finally, after the colonel has frantically bounced in and out to inquire about Rita, Cleo receives a telegram that is from Rita, or Rhoda.

Cleo decides to keep everything about Rita secret.

A Telegram from Connie Terhune to Paul about Rita stirs up fireworks. Paul and Cleo fight over every thing from Rita to gambling debts. Cleo sends a few telegrams of her own—and the colonel calls again.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE

The Lion was perfectly able to keep his countenance, but he could not keep out of his voice a little rasp as he said: "You know, this morning when I came over here it was to find out if you knew my name about Rita and you tried in every way to put me off the track. I must say that you were so successful that I went back feeling that you knew nothing. Do you think that's treating me right, Mrs. Armstrong?"

"You are a woman who senses things quickly and you must have seen from the first that I am very fond of Rita Thordike. In fact I did not mind telling you that I have really cared more for her than for any other woman I have ever known. Surely you must know that I was greatly worried about her."

"You did not care enough for her to protect her from the terrible gossip of the post."

"That was not for me to do. Surely you know that her husband should have done that. Anything that I would have said would have probably made matters much worse and so I kept silent."

"Yes, you kept still, but between you and Rita's husband, by your acquiescence, you contributed to drive a wedge between them almost insane. You know very well what a bad William Thordike is. You know very well how sensitive Rita is. You played upon that sensitiveness while all the while pretending to sympathize with her."

"These are harsh words, Mrs. Armstrong. Only your youth and lack of knowledge could give you the courage to say them to the colonel of a regiment in which your husband is a lieutenant."

"I fairly trembled with anger. Was this man threatening me? In a second, however, I managed to gain control of myself."

"Only the fact that these harsh words, as you call them, are true, gives me the courage to say them. I am afraid, my dear sir, that you have not quite gotten an understanding of the young women of this generation."

"I have met many so-called flappers, Mrs. Armstrong."

"So I have heard, Colonel. I could not forbear saying: 'You have danced with them, you have heard their slang, and squirmed perhaps at their frankness, but you have not realized that underneath that slang and frankness there is an absolute quality of loyalty to that which each of them has conceived as her duty to herself and others. I may be mistaken as you say, but it is there always.'"

"Rita Thordike had the misfortune to have been shoved off on the end of a husband who was perfectly willing to sell his wife's reputation to anyone who could be made to pay for it. You know this and by your actions you not only told him but all the rest you were willing to pay."

"The colonel rose. 'Wait a minute, Mrs. Armstrong. Surely you are not intimating that there was anything—'"

COMMISSION URGES SELECTION IMMIGRATION FOR QUEENSLAND

BRISBANE, July 15.—(P.)—The need for the selection of immigrants, deportation of convicted aliens and the keeping of a record of all aliens in the commonwealth is stressed in a report by T. A. Perry, under-chief secretary and commissioner of prices, who was recently appointed head of a Royal Commission to inquire into the social and economic effect of the increase in number of aliens in North Queensland.

Mr. Perry suggests a stricter medical examination and expresses the view that the excellence of foreign clubs is undesirable. The present alien influx is largely from Sicily and Northern Italy, the emigrants going into the sugar industry.
