

ELKS TO AID IN UPKEEP OF FAMOUS OLD BATTLESHIP

(Associated Press Lead Wire.)
PORTLAND, July 15.—The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks grand lodge in session here today in the sixty-first annual reunion, decided to get behind a movement to raise a fund for reconditioning the historic Frigate Constitution and agreed to cooperate with the navy department in promoting "Old Ironsides" week in the public schools October 15 to 24.
 A resolution offered by James R. Nicholson of Boston, past grand exalted ruler, pledging the order's support in the movement was adopted. Judge William Hawley Atwell of Dallas, Texas, newly elected grand exalted ruler, will deliver a radio address on "Old Ironsides" from the station WEAP at New York, October 15. Nicholson announced.
 Close cooperation of state associations of the order, participation of subsidiary lodges in a definite program of activity, and formation of speakers bureaus for flag day exercises throughout the country were urged in a report by Dr. Howard B. Kirtland, of San Luis Obispo, Calif., lodge and adopted.
 Changes in grand lodge statutes were considered today, including one providing that a plurality only should be necessary to elect an officer of any lodge, instead of a majority as heretofore.
 In the memorial services held this morning, past grand exalted ruler Raymond Benjamin paid tributes to Robert W. Brown, grand exalted ruler of the order in 1905, who died last November in San Diego.

UMATILLA OFFICERS CAPTURE LARGE STILL

(Associated Press Lead Wire.)
PENDLETON, July 15.—What the sheriff's office of Umatilla county declares to be the largest still ever taken in this county, was seized last night near the Washington state line northeast of Firewater by members of the sheriff's forces of Umatilla county in Oregon and Walla Walla county in Washington. The still had a capacity of about 250 gallons of moonshine every 24 hours. It was seized on the James Frazer ranch near the state line. James Frazer, and a son, Earl, were arrested. Both were charged with operation of a still and bonds for the elder Frazer were set at $5,000 and for the younger $2,500. Neither bond was posted.

DEFENSE PLANS IN SCOPES CASE OUTLINED TODAY

 public school funds of the state," he said.
 Malone then read the first section of the act, making it unlawful to teach in state schools "any theory that denies the story of divine creation of man as taught in the Bible, and to teach instead that man descended from lower order of animals."
 After reading the second section providing a penalty of $500 for each violation of the act, he declared that before the prosecution could convict Scopes of a violation of the act, the prosecution must prove first that Scopes taught a theory that denies the story of the divine creation of man as taught in the Bible and, second, that instead and in place of this story he taught that man is descended from a lower order of animals.
 "The defense contends that to convict Scopes the prosecution must prove that Scopes not only taught the theory of evolution, but that he also and at the same time, denied the story of creation as set forth in the Bible," he asserted.
 "The defense contends the prosecution must prove that the defendant Scopes did these two things and that what he taught was a violation of the statute."
 "We will prove that whether this statute be constitutional or unconstitutional the defendant Scopes did these two things and could not violate it. We maintain that since the defendant Scopes has been indicted under a statute which prohibits the teaching of the evolutionary theory, the prosecution must prove as part of its case what evolution is."
 "So that there shall be no misunderstanding and that no one shall be able to misinterpret or misrepresent our position, we wish to state at the beginning of this case, that the defense believes there is a direct conflict between the theory of evolution and the theory of creation as set forth in the book of Genesis."

COURT ROOM, Dayton, Tenn., July 15.—The Rev. Charles Francis Potter, pastor of the West Side Unitarian church, New York today opened the John T. Scopes trial with prayer. Dr. Potter was called to the platform by the court after President Strubbing of the Dayton Pastors' association had announced the name of the visiting minister as the choice of the association.
 Judge Raulston yesterday announced that he would ask the Dayton Pastors' Association to nominate a minister to make the opening prayer each day. This followed a protest from the defense at the custom of having a daily prayer.
 Just after the brief prayer John R. Neal, of defense counsel, gained the floor to make his attitude clear upon the question of the prayer in court. He objected, he said, to any religious atmosphere in the court room during trial of the case. S. K. Hicks, of state counsel, announced the state denies that there is a religious controversy in the case and objected in behalf of the prosecution to "this heckling every morning on the subject of prayer." He asked that the court stop the daily protest and place it in the record.
 Judge Raulston said he had had no regard for denominational lines in selecting ministers for the morning prayer. He hoped, he said, that "these prayers would do some good." "They will not hurt anyone and may help," he said.
 Clarence Darrow noted an exception to the remarks of the court. Attorney General Stewart was recognized to say that he had made a remark in court yesterday that he wished to withdraw. He had expressed himself in a discourteous manner to Mr. Hays of defense counsel, he said. "I felt very much ashamed that I have not been courteous to Mr. Hays, and there was nothing back of it but a little ruffled temper," he declared.
 Mr. Hays rose to say that he was happy to accept the apology of the attorney-general. Hays asked that the state's attorney avoid reference to the states from which the defense attorneys come, and their religious beliefs.
 John R. Neal asked the attorney-general to then remove from the record a "sneering remark" alleged to have been made toward defense counsel.
 Richard Beamish, chairman of the reportorial committee appointed to inquire into the premature publication yesterday of what purported to be the judge's decision upon the motion to quash, reported that the correspondent did not get the decision from the court's stenographer, and believed that the correspondent had received it from the court. Judge Raulston asked the sources of information and was told it came from the court through dictation. Judge Raulston asked who the correspondent was and Mr. Beamish reported that it was William K. Hutchinson of the International News Service. Mr. Hutchinson was asked to come before the court and Judge Raulston asked if he had a statement to make, explaining he need not fear to make a statement.
 Mr. Hutchinson said that he would prefer to make a statement to the court in chambers. Mr. Beamish spoke up to say that Mr. Hutchinson was "thoroughly ethical."
 The court announced that the newspapermen would be given a private audience. The committee report was signed by four of the five members, Richard Beamish, Philadelphia Esquire; Earl Schaub, Universal Service; Forrest Davis, New York Herald-Tribune; and Tony Muto, New York Evening Bulletin.
 Phillip Kinsey, Chicago Tribune, the fifth member, did not sign the report.
 Mr. Darrow addressed the court in reference to the attorney-general's al's remarks about religious beliefs of members of defense counsel. He said he had no objection to anyone referring to him as an agnostic, "for I'm an agnostic." Mr. Darrow objected, however, to references to creeds and religious beliefs.

 Mr. Stewart responded that he was ready to proceed without further reference to religious beliefs of attorneys.

LECTURE BY AUTO FACTORY EXPERT GREATLY ENJOYED
 The lecture given by Lee R. Bryant, Willys-Overland factory expert at the Wells-Chase agency last night, was a decided success. Over 100 interested automobile owners were present and followed the speaker very closely throughout his interesting talk, which was of much benefit to the owner of any auto.
 Mr. Bryant took up the general construction of internal combustion motors, showing the principles general to all and giving a great deal of advice concerning the care and operation of an automobile engine to insure the greatest efficiency and the least depreciation. He then spoke more specifically upon the sleeve valve type of engine explaining the many advantages and increased efficiency claimed for that type of engine.
 His lecture throughout was illustrated with large pictures, which allowed his audience to obtain graphic information as well as oral.
 Following the address a large number of the listeners remained to investigate the cut-away models which Mr. Bryant had with him for demonstration purposes. Much interest was shown in the Willys-Knight and Overland models on display in the Wells and Chase showroom and two sales were made as a direct result of the lecture, while others are in prospect. The firm served lemonade and wafers following the talk.
 Earlier in the evening a long and noisy parade of Willys-Knight and Overland cars was held.
 Mr. Bryant left this morning for Marshfield to speak tonight, and B. L. Hyland, wholesale factory representative, who has been aiding Mr. Bryant in arranging for these series of talks, left for Eugene.
