ASTORIA, Ore., July 21.—Astoria, all dressed to entertain 1,500 Annapolis Academy mid-shipsmen last night and then left entirely middle-less, experienced some revival of spirit this morning, when it was learned that 200 midshipmen would land at Fort Stevens today. Immediate plans were made to have Astoria autos at the fort when the midships land from their three battleships, the New York, Utah and Arkansas, which are anchored just inside the Columbia river mouth. It was understood this morning that the mid-shipsmen's liberty would extend only until 7:30 tonight. If that is the case, arrangements for special trains to Seaside will have to be dropped. Forty-five officers and 700 enlisted men of the navy were ashore and in Astoria Monday night, but Astorians seemed to take slight comfort therein. They wanted midships.

A radio message sent by the Astoria Chamber of Commerce to the Columbia river pilot boat yesterday, stated that the battleship which was to have berthed at the Sanborn dock would have to tie up elsewhere. It had been planned that one of the warships would berth at the Port of Astoria dock, another at the Sanborn and the third would anchor in the stream. Yesterday it was learned that a merchant vessel would be at the Sanborn dock and the radio message was sent accordingly. Word now reaches Astoria that Rear-Admiral C. J. Vogelsang interpreted this message to mean that there would be no berthing space at Astoria and he is said to have believed there would not be enough room in Astoria harbor for the three vessels to anchor in the stream. Rear-Admiral Vogelsang is said to have considered the transportation of the mid-shipsmen from the vessels to the Fort Stevens too dangerous to attempt last

THREE BATTLESHIPS SCHEDULED TO ANCHOR AT ASTORIA FAIL TO PUT IN APPEARANCE; TO LAND AT FORT TODAY

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur gave Astorians some little encouragement last night on prospects for completing the Tongue Point naval base. In his opinion, work on the base has been advanced to the point now, where it could be rushed to completion quickly if needed in case of war. More work would be done on it, he said, were it not for the fact that naval shore construction is being held in temporary abeyance while pressing needs of the floating equipment are receiving attention. Secretary Wilbur, Justice Myers of the California Supreme Court; W. D. B. Dodson, manager of the Portland Chamber of Commerce; Senators McNary and Stanford and Congressman Crum-packer planned to leave here at 12:30 today for Portland, where Secretary Wilbur will be the guest at a chamber of commerce dinner this evening. The secretary planned to visit relatives at Hillsboro this afternoon. When he leaves for the south, he will go by rail. Outing supplies—Visors, colored glasses, bathing caps and shoes, and first aid preparations. Lloyd Crocker.
