ROSEBURG, OREGON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 22, 1925.

SAFEGUARDING OUR FORESTS

So far this season, unusually hazardous because of the prolonged spell of extremely dry weather, Douglas county seems to have had its usual quota of forest fires; but none of them were allowed to inflict damage or any consequence, a fact that stands as a tribute to the vigilance and efficiency of the men who guard that immensely valuable area.

Some credit must be given of course to those laws that compel forest visitors to be careful, but as a general rule the public is voluntarily responding to a friendly appeal to its judgment. What the timber means to the state in a commercial way may be clearly realized from the fact that during the past two years the lumber industry in Oregon has paid in wages the enormous sum of $81,768,700.

Appreciation of the great value of the forests will grow apace with time, and their safeguarding will be considered a voluntary duty. Among the citizens of tomorrow who will enjoy the benefits of this great heritage are the boy scouts who are being familiarized with their value and means of care.

IMPROVED BUSINESS PROSPECTS

While business conditions continue in the main a good deal as they were three months ago, yet a distinctly more hopeful feeling is manifest. The improved prospects for the corn crop are a feature that ought to create much confidence. It had a bad setback by frost in May, but has now recovered, and is giving prospects of one of the largest crops ever harvested.

Now let's hit her up strong for the completion of the North Umpqua highway. Every day's delay means a great loss to Douglas county. With a little effort on the part of our wideawake citizens this important project can be realized. Don't go to sleep on the job.

One thing that we are mighty glad of the Scopes' trial was much shorter than a monkey's tail.

Present weather conditions suit most everybody but the ice man.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

THAT every city has business concerns who advertise continuously. They bring much business to the home city.

THAT in the same cities can be found a large number who sit idly by and wait to get some of the business brought to the city by the energy of the continuous advertisers.

THAT continuous advertisers are the ones who are fully aware of the obligation they owe the people they serve. As evidence of this, they couple service and quality with advertising.

THAT the sales of continuous advertisers are always increasing, and they rightly attribute their success to the selling help of advertising.

THAT there is no story more interesting than the story of the great concerns who have become great on the solid foundation of quality and advertising. The story of their growth is inspirational.

CONTINUOUS ADVERTISING INCREASES TURN-OVER WHICH BRINGS MORE PROFITS.

BUSINESS CONCERNS WHO HAVE THE FORESIGHT TO ADVERTISE THEIR WARES ARE THOSE WHO GET THE BIG BUSINESS.

CONTINUOUS ADVERTISING WILL WIN NEW BUSINESS FOR ANY BUSINESS.

PRUNE PICKIN'S

GOOD EVENING FOLKS—

Lather Barnes, local chin-scraper and collector of antique silverware, was among those present at the Rotary picnic yesterday eve at

Mister Hank Booth's ranch and the only thing he didn't get way with were the prune trees which had extra long roots. As per usual

Lather appropriated a complete set of knives and forks which were later found in his inside pocket.

Things have come to a pretty pass

when an alleged respectable citizen can't go out with a bunch of pure-thinkin' fellers and spend an evenin' without glomin' onto the stray spoons and other hardware.

His wife tells us that Lather at ready has more'n enough stuff to eat with and what he needs more is something to eat.

Gawge Quine, the congenial

judge of the county court, appeared on the main stem yesterday in a straw derby of a yellow hue. No body can accuse Gawge of grin'

as long as he wears that grin.

Doc Day, exhausted rooster of the Elliuku, was also among the strollers along the Rue de Jackson yesterday and wore an afternoon froek of mixed breed, the coat of which was from the marching unit of the B. P. O. E. and the pants an extra pair that's been in moth balls durin' the winter.

Minnie, our pet gold fish, is still kickin' and two days before the cool weather, she emitted some bubbles, which prevented the change from the torrid clime.

The bubbles might have been caused because she was hungry as we forgot to leave instructions with the

ROTARIAN PICNIC AT BOOTH RANCH

One of the most delightful evenings coming to local Rotarians was the picnic held at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Booth last evening, when the members and their wives participated in a picnic dinner served on the lawn under the spreading limbs of monster oak and walnut trees. The hosts had provided coffee, lemonade and ice cream, the guests supplying other delicious edibles, all of which went to make a wonderful stimulant to the inner man and was relished by all present.

Motoring to the Booth home shortly after 6 o'clock, a regular caravan of automobiles, the visitors at once set about to have a good, social and this was accomplished with little effort, resulting in a happy and most enjoyable evening for all. So enthusiastic was everybody, that

President Henry was compelled to consider inspirations from club members to make these events of more frequent occurrence.

The jolly party returned to the city shortly after 9 o'clock.

You do not have to go to Atlantic

City or any other beach resort to see good swimmers; come to Alexander's Park, Friday evening.

VICE-PRESIDENT DAWES ANSWERS HIS OPPONENTS IN PROGRAM TO END ALL FILIBUSTERING IN THE UPPER HOUSE

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) DENVER, Colo., July 22—Vice-President Chas. G. Dawes in an address here today answered vigorously the arguments of those opposing his program to end filibustering in the senate.

Referring to the contention that the privilege of unlimited debate accorded with the spirit of American institutions he asserted that on the contrary it was in direct conflict with American institutions.

"Other opponents," he said, "in discussing the question of reform of the senate rules, endeavor to create the impression that they are to be regarded in importance if they were part of our organic law. They are not organic law. The constitution is the instrument through which our forebears designed to limit the rights of the majority and to insure that the ultimate judgment of the people passed in law as distinguished from a passing phase of popular opinion it provided that a bill must pass both houses of congress before it becomes a law, that then the president may veto it, in which event it must be passed over that by a two-thirds vote of both houses of congress. The supreme court then has the power to examine the law in its relation to the preservation of those minority rights and the rights of the states outlined in the constitution and if it finds any of them are overridden, then the supreme court declares the law to be unconstitutional and void.

"It is absurd to maintain that the original rules 8 and 9 of the senate providing for majority closure, which were in effect for the first 17 years of its existence, and which were abandoned only because the small membership of the senate made them unnecessary, did not accord with the spirit of the constitution of American institutions. They did accord with them, and if these rules had continued in force, the system of legislative barter would not have grown up and the will, at times, of an individual senator or a minority of the senate could not be substituted for the will of the people as expressed in the manner and by the method prescribed by the constitution.

"It is not relevant to say that majorities in the United States are temporary. Of course they are. The constitution provided for frequent elections and thus insured that majorities should remain temporary. We are a government of the people under constitutional limitations and neither a free democracy, an oligarchy nor a monarchy. The principle of an oligarchy or a monarchy are, in effect, which are urged against the reform of the senate rules, to wit: That the will of an individual or of a minority in the senate should at times be substituted for that ultimate judgment of the people represented by a readiness to legislate on the part of the two houses of congress in agreement with the president who must sign the bill, as being ready to act under their constitutional rights, subject again to the possible intervention of the supreme court of the United States.

"To re-establish the majority closure provided for in the rules of the senate during the first 17 years of its existence, and thus check the intolerable evils which have arisen because of its absence, would be a return to the first principles of the American government and of American institutions and not a departure from them."

SECRETARY OF NAVY SAYS NO CHANGE TO BE MADE IN POLICY (Associated Press Leased Wire.) SALEM, Ore., July 22—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, during a two-minute stop here today, requested the Associated Press to emphasize strongly the statement that no change is pending in the naval policy relative to the Pacific fleet. Although the Pacific fleet is now enroute to Australia, that voyage, he made plain, does not indicate a change of policy.

"If I gave the impression in Portland," he said, "that any change is pending, I am very sorry. The seven capital ships now in Pacific waters will continue in the Pacific as they have for some years, and the bases will be at San Pedro, San Diego, San Francisco and Puget Sound, as they are now.

THREE AUTOS SOLD UNDER BOOZE LAW (Associated Press Leased Wire.) MEDFORD, Ore., July 22—Decees ordering the sale of three automobiles confiscated in this county under the law prohibiting the transportation of liquor were filed Monday.

One of these is the car formerly owned by Jim Pate, serving a life sentence in the state prison for the Scandinavian hall holdup at Klamath Falls last January, when Gus Erickson was murdered. The car was seized last December, when Pate and John Taylor, were arrested for liquor violations.

A small car belonging to Carl Nelson, and a car belonging to Claude Stevens of this city, were also ordered sold for the same reason.

The decrees direct that the sheriff sell the cars and after the cost of the action have been paid, turn the balance over to the general fund of the county.

CHAMBER DIRECTORS HEAR REPORTS FROM SPECIAL COMMITTEES

The directors of the Roseburg Chamber of Commerce met yesterday afternoon in regular session. The report of the road committee relative to the trip up the North Umpqua was received. The committee attending the agricultural conference at Portland made a preliminary report. A detailed account of the meeting is being prepared and will be submitted later. Immediate steps will be taken, however, to institute a series of surveys, which will become a part of the U. S. Agricultural Survey, and which will give facts of interest and benefit in the agricultural field, and will give market agencies a chance to secure information of kinds and quantities of products, and future prospects.
