Today's Markets

PORTLAND, Ore., July 29. — Prospects for the cattle-growing industry are brighter than they have been for some time past, according to C. V. Whalin, in charge of the livestock, meats and wool division of the bureau of agricultural economics, department of agriculture.

"This summer finds beef cattle in a somewhat stronger position than in the summer and fall of 1924," said Mr. Whalin.

"This spring, business activity was resumed with on sign of unhealthy inflation, while the reduced supply of hogs, indicated by a small pig crop a year ago, began to be felt in the market, adding some strength to the prices of beef cattle.

"During the early winter of 1924-25, prices for the better grades of steers began to show considerable improvement over the low prices of the fall. Beginning with this spring the supply of the higher grades became relatively large and until summer lower grades sold at less than the usual discount. However, since about June 1, prices of fed steers of the better grades have had a rather marked advance, with the prices of common steers showing the usual seasonal steady to declining movement.

"Fed steers will probobly be somewhat scarce this fall and higher prices are anticipated."

WORK ON HIGHWAY ADVANCED A YEAR; AWARD CONTRACTS

PORTLAND, Ore., July 29. — Work on the Dalles-California highway (Fremont trail) was advanced a year by state and federal road departments today.

This highway will next month have had all the grading contracts let save a four-mile section at the new Crooked river bridge. The government today agreed to at once advertise for bids on the 10-mile section of the road south of Crescent through the National Forest.

The grading of this and an overhead railroad crossing will cost $60,000. When this was put in the record, the state highway commission at once notified Secretary Roy Klein to advertise next month for bids for grading the 10-mile Bend-Lava Butte section of the same road.

Next year surfacing contracts on both will be let.

It was also agreed today between the highway commission and the Benton county court that work on the Newport-Corvallis road and the Alsea highway in Benton county will be hurried ahead. The Benton taxpayers yesterday voted $200,000 road bonds, and this sum will be spent on the two state highways. The state will cooperate 50-50 on the Newport road and will provide 66 2-3 per cent on the Alsea highway.

It was also announced by the commission that work on completing the 32-mile gap between Mitchell and Dayville will be completed as soon as possible, but it cannot be done this year.

Important contracts were awarded today by the commission, four totalling $941,692 on the Roosevelt highway in Curry county.

The contracts awarded follow: Burnt Hill-Chetco river section of Roosevelt highway in Curry county, 23.2 miles of grading and surfacing; unit 1, $289,211; unit 4, $302,168, to Bauers and Bauers of Dayton, Washington; Unit 2, $105,913, Engelhart Paving and Construction Company, Eureka, California; unit 3, J. W. Sweeney, Portland, $244,310.

Siletz Bay-Rocky Creek section of Roosevelt highway in Lincoln county, 8.8 miles of grading, James Crick, Pendleton, $163,635.

Culvertson Shdrman highway in Sherman county, William Endicott, $1972.50.

Crooked river bridge on the Fremont trail in Jefferson county, Kuckenberg and Whitman, of Portland $112,852. This is a saving of some $10,000 over the lowest bid submitted last month.

Kings Valley-Hoskins road for Benton county court, Joslin and McAllister, Spokane, $19,955.

Redwood Junction-Wells ranch road, Earl McNutt, Eugene, $23,671.

Overhead railroad crossing at Meacham, Morrison-Knudtson Company, Boise, $17,905.

Albany-Lebanon section of Santiam highway, by way of Crabtree, corner, to Kibler and Bartree corner, to Kibler and Bartance in office in a secret indictment returned by the grand jury this morning.

The accused attorney was arrested in his office shortly after the noon hour and was in custody of Deputy Sheriff Hilton pending his appearance before Circuit Judge Leavitt this afternoon to arrange bail bond.

The indictment involves the theft and subsequent disposal of approximately 21 sacks of sugar from the Mason Ehrman & Company warehouse here in March, 1924. It is charged that the sugar later was found by certain persons and part of it turned over to Elliott, who at that time was special prohibition prosecutor for Klamath county.

The sugar, it is alleged, subsequently disappeared. It is charged that Elliott disposed of it and made no return as a public official as to what became of the sugar or funds said to have been received for the sale of the sugar.

Elliott declined to make any comment immediately following his arrest.

Following the resignation of District Attorney William Ganong here early this month, Elliott was appointed district attorney by Governor Pierce, effective August 1. For the past few days he has been arranging his business affairs in order to take over his official duties. He had already announced the appointment of W. A. Wiest, former deputy supreme court clerk at Salem, as his deputy.

Elliott served as special prohibition prosecutor for Klamath county for 18 months prior to January 1, under appointment by Governor Pierce. When William Ganong went into office as district attorney, Elliott resigned his special commission. He is known to be a close personal friend of the governor, and at the time George L. Cleaver was dismissed as state prohibition commissioner, Elliott was prominently mentioned for that post.

GOVERNMENT MAKES FORECAST ON YIELD OF FRUIT CROPS

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The July 1 forecast and estimate of the crop reporting board gives some interesting figures about possible yields of fruits and vegetables throughout the country. The total production of apples figured on the July 1 condition will be 156,942,000 bu., compared with a total production in 1924 of 179,101,000 bu. and a five-year average of 181,465,000. The commercial crop is estimated at 29,230,000 bbls., compared with 28,587,000 last year, and a five-year average of 30,386,000. Just why the commercial crop should be greater than last year, while the total production is figured as less, is difficult to understand.

The total production in New York state is figured at 21,537,000 bu., which is about 2,300,000 less than last year, but the commercial crop, it is estimated, will be 210,000 bbls. greater than in 1924. Washington also shows a decided increase. The estimated production there is 30,750,000 bu., which is 7,750,000 greater than last year. The commercial crop is estimated at 9,112,000 bbls., which means practically 27,000,000 boxes. According to these figures the Virginia crop will not be much over half of last year's, while the West Virginia crop wil be over 2,000,000 bu. short of the 1924 production. Michigan and Idaho show a slightly increased production, while the other states promise to be about the same as last year, or a trifle less.

The estimated total production of pears is 17,298,000 bu., which is slightly less than last year, but about the same as the five-year average. California shows an increase, with an estimated production of 6,160,000 bu., which is about 660,000 bu. more than last year. The New York production is estimated at 2,148,000 bu., practically the same as last year. Washington and Oregon show slightly increased production, while there is not much difference in the other states.

PRINCE OF WALES GOES TO S. AMERICA

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, July 29.—The Prince of Wales and his party departed from Simonstown today for South America aboard H. M. S. Repulse.

The last ceremonial act of the Prince of Wales before he left Cape Town was to dedicate a memorial to nurses who were killed during the World war.

Simonstown was gaily decorated when the Prince arrived. The British-African squadron was assembled to escort the Repulse out of the harbor. The blue water of the bay, the assemblage of ships with fluttering flags and the background of hillsides and mountains covered with wild flowers formed a beautiful picture as the prince boarded the ship upon which he will go to South America.

The Repulse will call at St. Helena on August 3, leaving there two days later for Montevideo, Uruguay.

EXPECT 2,000 CARS BROCCOLI TO BE SHIPPED

and the next year there were only a few cars again. Slowly the industry has grown. A few of the braver growers attempted large acreages, and even in a poor season experienced a degree of success sufficient to prove that large tracts of broccoli could be successfully handled.

Last year's loss was the hardest blow ever received by the growers. With a fine showing in the fall, the exceptional freeze of last December completely wiped out the crop, and from prospects of from 1,000 to 1,500 carloads, the industry slumped to 50 carloads.

But the renewed interest shows that growers now realize that broccoli over a period of years is a profit making crop, and they are taking their loss as a matter of course, and are planning on recoping this year or next, as the elements decide.

Broccoli in an average year, or even with a moderate degree of damage, is a money making crop. The average cost of producing the crop is $50 per acre. An acre of land yields around 200 crates. A fair, average price is around $1.25 per crate giving an average return of $250 per acre, or a profit of $200 per acre.

Market conditions, of course, largely vary the amount of profit, but in ordinary years the crop may safely be said to be one of the most profitable of the county.

Although the growing of broccoli may be past the experimental stage as an industry, yet there are many experiments to be made regarding the crop itself.

Various strains are being worked out to extend the season. Earlier and later varieties are being produced in order that the shipping season may be continued as long as possible. Tests are also being made with soils and fertilizers.

One experiment which will be made on a very thorough scale, is that of using acid phosphate to determine the extent of frost resistance occasioned by the use of that material. It was found last year that plans upon which acid phosphate had been used, were uninjured by the cold weather, and if it can be definitely determined that the crop can be brought through hard winters by the use of the chemical, then growers in the future will be saved from great losses.
