

BRYAN FUNERAL TRAIN REACHES WASHINGTON

Funeral Services Will Be Held Friday—Pall Bearer Named. HAS MILITARY GUARD Veterans of World War Guard Casket—Charles Bryan, Brother, Arrives for Services.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—At the chance where many times he sought God's guidance in his public service, William Jennings Bryan today from the people of the national capitol.

Brought here from Tennessee, where he died Sunday, his body was taken just before noon to the New York Avenue Presbyterian church to lie in state until noon tomorrow, then after a short religious service, it will be entombed at Arlington with military honors.

Long before the bronze casket reached the little red brick place of worship nestled in a triangle where New York Avenue meets H Street in the heart of the downtown district, reverent crowds had gathered to pay tribute to the commoner.

While they waited, another group had filed before his bier and looked upon his serene features as he lay for a little time in an undulating parlor in another part of the city.

Special details of police were placed about the church to divert traffic and to guide the continued slow procession that tramped in at the door and past the silent figure at the altar. Half of the top of the casket had been removed, and an American flag draped the remainder.

Until after the church services tomorrow this flag was to be the only emblem of his service to his country, but plans approved by his widow during the morning insured that a military touch would be given to his actual burial, in remembrance of the days when he wore the uniform as a colonel of volunteers during the Spanish war.

TRAIN HITS AND KILLS AGED MAN NEAR GLENDALE

Old Prospector Misjudges Speed of Engine as He Crosses Tracks. BODY IS MANGLED Coroner Finds Inquest Is Not Necessary—Body Will Be Shipped to Eugene.

William H. Paisley, aged 89 years, was instantly killed last night at 5:20 o'clock, when he was struck by the second section of northbound passenger train number 11, at a point about two miles north of Glendale.

Paisley was an old time prospector, and in spite of his advanced age insisted on staying out in the hills, refusing the offers of his daughter, Mrs. D. C. Harris, to live at her home. He and an aged companion had been staying in a cabin about two miles north of Glendale, near the S. P. tracks.

Last night, just after 5 o'clock, Paisley took four buckets and started across the tracks to the spring on the opposite side, where they obtained their water for use in their cabin. The second section of train number 11 was approaching, and the aged man apparently misjudged its speed, and tried to cross ahead of it. He was struck by the pilot of the locomotive, and was rolled for about three rail lengths before he was thrown to one side. His body was terribly broken and mangled, both legs and one arm being broken, the abdomen crushed, and the skull broken, and the entire body bruised and cut. Death was evidently instantaneous.

WIDOW OF BRYAN PLANS TO WRITE LIFE'S HISTORY

Memoirs of Celebrated Statesman to Be Published by Mrs. Bryan. IS PARTLY WRITTEN Bryan Had Made Rough Drafts of Autobiography and This Will Be Embodied in Works.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 30.—The Chattanooga News in a story published today says the memoirs of William Jennings Bryan will be written by his widow.

"At the time of his death Mr. Bryan had started on the framework of his recollections. He had intended to devote to the writing of this chronicle of American life for the past half century, in fact for the summer and fall, and in fact all the time up to his leaving for the Holy Land in February of 1926.

"He had dictated in the rough to his secretary, W. E. Thompson, the first drafts of six or seven chapters of the memoirs. Thompson has these on yellow typewriter sheets.

"The headlines include such titles as 'The commoner's childhood and youth,' the Chicago convention of 1896, the Baltimore convention of 1912, his work with peace treaties while he was secretary of state and on one or two other incidents in his busy life.

"These guide posts for his memoirs, for according to Thompson, they were more of a framework, giving the general trend of events, rather than the detailed particularized account the commoner had intended to make by amplifying the first draft, were among the material which Mrs. Bryan will have at her disposal for her task.

"When the widow of the great commoner passed through Chattanooga Wednesday morning enroute to Arlington with the bier of her husband, she told friends that she intended to give her attention to these memoirs as soon as conditions permitted. She said she would be added in the writing by her daughter Mrs. Ruth Owen and the latter's husband, Major Reginald Owen.

CRITICISM OF COUNTY COURT IS RESENTED

County Favors Roosevelt Highway But Is Lacking in Funds. MONEY IS GONE Court Would Be Glad to Cooperate With State on Basis Named; Means Not Available.

County Judge George K. Quine returned this morning from Portland after meeting with the state highway commission and bureau of public roads in an effort to secure funds to improve the Reedsport and the Umpqua highway. A delegation appeared before the commission asking that the road be placed on the state highway map, and also that the government place the $35,000 remaining from the $90,000 appropriated for graveling on the improvement of the section from the Lower Gap to the slaughter house. The county offered to cooperate in this work to the extent of $20,000.

Little encouragement was received, however, as the commission apparently is endeavoring to force the county's hand and compel cooperation in the Roosevelt highway commission. The county court was accused by Commissioner Duhay of not being favorable to the Roosevelt highway, and it is apparently the intention of the commission to refuse all recognition to the county, until $100,000 is provided for the construction of the 9 miles of road between Reedsport and the Coos county line.

"The criticism of the Douglas county court is entirely unfair and unwarranted," Judge Quine stated this morning. "The court is not unfavorable to the Roosevelt highway, and nothing would suit us better than to see the road constructed, but we do not feel that under present conditions we can obligate the taxpayers of Douglas county to pay $100,000, when there is no prospect of being able to pay the amount.

EARTH TREMORS FELT IN FOUR STATES TODAY

Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas Report Quakes; No Damage. EARLY THIS MORNING Denver Colorado Also Reports Shocks Registered—Southern California Town Is Shaken.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., July 30.—Santa Barbara and vicinity experienced a sharp earthquake at 1:50 o'clock this morning, followed by a lighter one a few hours later. There was no damage and most persons slept through the jolts.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 30.—Earth tremors of moderate intensity were felt in Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas today, but no property damage has been reported. The quakes occurred between 6 and 6:15 a. m. Reports from Kansas stated that the shocks were felt in five cities. Leavenworth experienced two distinct tremors, about 15 minutes apart. Wichita, Medicine Lodge and Ashland also felt the shock. Enid, Oklahoma, citizens were awakened by the tremor. Cities in Northwestern Oklahoma reported an earth disturbance.

Amarillo and surrounding towns in the panhandle of Texas reported tremors lasting 20 seconds. Buildings were swayed noticeably but no damage was reported. At Leavenworth, Mrs. Dacotha Ryan, who recently returned from California, declared the second shock had the effect of rattling the bed in her room. The seismograph at the University of Kansas at Lawrence recorded the shocks were tremors of low intensity beginning at 6:09:20 o'clock and lasting three minutes and ten seconds. Professor C. J. Posey, the observer, said the intensity was greatest in an east-west direction and estimated that the center of disturbance was more west than south of here. The seismograph record was less distinct than that made by the recent Montana earthquake.

DENVER, July 30.—A heavy earthquake shock lasting three minutes was recorded on the seismograph at Regis college here early today. Father Armand Forstall in charge estimated the center of the disturbance to be about 300 miles south of Denver. "A severe shock is indicated," declared Father Forstall; "the needle of the instrument jumped half an inch, showing the disturbance was of great intensity."

LIBERAL, Kans., July 30.—A slight earthquake tremor occurred here at 6:15 o'clock this morning. The tremor lasted about three minutes and was sufficiently strong to rattle windows and dishes and move heavy furniture slightly.

AMARILLO, Tex., July 29.—An earth tremor of nearly 30 seconds duration shook Amarillo and surrounding towns early today. The shock was registered here at 6:12 a. m. Buildings swayed noticeably, but no damage had been reported. Reports from New Mexico and Oklahoma towns near the Texas line indicated the tremor extended into those states.

Only 5 Survive Out of Roseburg Company of 104 That Built Klamath Fort

Judge G. W. Riddle, commandant of the Oregon Soldiers' Home, was stirred to reminiscence today upon reading a Goldendale, Wash., news item of recent date, telling of the meeting there, after a period of nearly 60 years, of James C. Hartley of that city, and William M. Colvig of Medford, Oregon, two of the surviving members of Company C, 1st Oregon Cavalry. This company was mustered into service in Roseburg during the first year of the Civil War. Though officially designated as a unit of the federal army, its service was confined exclusively to state patrol against possible depredations by Indians, and for that reason its personnel was commonly referred to as "Indian war veterans."

in number and considered very prosperous, as prosperity was reckoned in those days. There was too outbreak on their part against the whites during the three-year period that the company was in commission, but we did not idle our time away by any means. We built several buildings that comprised the original Fort Klamath, situated a mile and a half from the site of the present habitation that bears that name. Those buildings were constructed of lumber produced by a portable sawmill, brought from Jacksonville, then the chief town and trading center of southern Oregon. To transport the sawmill, we built 40 miles of road from Ranchero Prairie, in the Big Butte district, to the site of the fort, routing by way of Pelican Bay. At Ranchero Prairie, the road connected with the existing link extending 20 miles to Jacksonville.
