ROSEBURG, OREGON, AUGUST 5, 1925.

THE BAGGAGE MAN.

The man who handled the baggage for the summer resorts was formerly not considered much. Many of us have in our attics the old trunks that we used to carry on these outings. Some of them were of enormous size. If we packed them full of our effects now, there is a question if we could get them handled in all places.

Over 33,000 visitors registered at Crater lake during the month of July, the greater number entering by way of Medford, the Klamath Falls route claiming some eight thousand of the grand total. This is a wonderful piece of tourist business for a single month and will quite likely be even greater during August.

Some families who make it their custom to take a vacation in summer, are constantly debating whether to buy or build a little cottage in some pleasant resort, or to depend for their pleasure on trips about the country and visits to hotels and boarding houses.

When the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers went into the banking business about five years ago, it was regarded by many bankers as an experiment in socialism.

Eugene will vote bonds in the sum of $175,000 for the purpose of purchasing a terminal site at that city for the Southern Pacific company.

The New York State Boxing commission has placed its official ban on Jack Dempsey. He should worry. There are 47 other states in the union, and the suckers who contribute to million-dollar purses for bruising exhibitions are to be found in any one of them.

Having purchased 200 scrap-iron ships from Uncle Sam, Henry Ford is now equipped with a goodly supply of material for his future output of capering coupes.

SUCCESS OF PROHIBITION.

Amid the mass of contending opinions as to the success of the prohibition law there are hard facts clearly showing the law to be successful to a very practical degree and increasingly so.

When the law went into effect there was a vast amount of liquor on hand—the working stock of the traffic. This was taken and put into bonded warehouses all about the country.

Much used to be said concerning "house brew." We had heard of it now because little of it is made. It lost its favor by its flavor. It did not taste good.

Among men who respect their physical bodies in any degree, moonshine whiskey is losing ground. It is an unbelievably filthy product.

Since Congress has added about 200 vessels to the Coast guard and has signed a favorable smuggling treaty with many nations, the smuggling of liquor into this country from abroad has been greatly reduced.

The best time of hope for a dry America is that babies do not cry for the brand of dope now defying the prohibition law, and prohibition is and always was, for the coming generations.

The present middle in the state fish commission has been of long standing. For six months or more, little has been done by that body.

The fish commission is an important body. It spends more than $100,000 annually. It is charged with the duty of conserving and propagating salmon, one of the big industries of the state.

The children of Oregon are entitled to school books at the lowest price.

If there is one thing more than another that ought to be the object of combination and price-fixing, it is the books that children need in the schools.

The text-book commission rescued the state before. Can it not successfully meet the present situation? Governor Fierse has called it together for that purpose, and we shall see what we shall see.

Most of the politics and piffing in Oregon is done in the name of game and fish. The legislature meets and spends a large portion of its time revising, rearranging and ransacking our sporting and commercial fishery laws.

BEAR STRUCK BY MOTOR CAR REVIVES AND FIGHTS DRIVER

YAKIMA, Wash., Aug. 5.—Big game hunting by automobile is not so good, L. D. Gaines, driver of an oil truck, is convinced, after an encounter he had with a black bear, while on the Rimrock road, in the Cascade Mountains, east of here, recently.

When first seen, the animal was topping along the highway ahead of him, Gaines related. Speeding up his machine, he forced the creature toward the rocks at one edge of the road.

Suddenly turning, the bear sprang onto the hood of the truck, but skidded off, fell under the wheels, and lay still.

To take home proof of his prowess, Gaines returned and grasped the bear by an ear. The truck message however, had not killed, only dazed him, and the animal sprang up with an angry "woof!"

At this point Gaines decided to allow the bear his life and liberty, and sped back to his machine with out dignity and only a part of his trousers. The bear disappeared up a canyon.

SALEM KIWANIS CLUB MAY INSTALL BROADCASTING SET SALEM, Aug. 5.—Agitation was started at yesterday noon's luncheon of the Salem Kiwanis club to establish a radio broadcasting station at Salem. The proposition was briefly considered, but finally tabled as being a matter not properly the business of a service club. "It would be a good thing for the city as a whole to put over," said C. E. McCullough, president of the Kiwanians. J. H. Hallock, head of a Portland radio corporation, was the chief speaker of the occasion, having been invited from Portland for the express purpose of outlining the methods and cost of building a small broadcasting station at Salem. He declared that the initial cost would be approximately $1500 for a small 50 watt station that could be heard for a maximum distance of 2000 miles on winter nights. His company formerly operated a broadcasting station at Portland of about that capacity, he stated. On summer nights it would carry for some 500 miles. During the day it could be heard for perhaps 50 miles, Hallock stated. Fees derived by charging various business organizations for the privilege of putting their programs on the air would more than pay for the running expenses of the station the speaker claimed. He suggested a price of $15 an hour. The Oregonian received $30 an hour and some stations in the east run as high as $600 an hour, he stated.

Bryan has stirred Democratic leaders to new activity, and important secret conferences are expected to occur in the next few weeks. A renewed struggle for supremacy under more even conditions is seen between Al Smith and William G. McAdoo, with Charles W. Bryan endeavoring to divert to himself some of the prestige of his brother. In the war Smith will have the support of George E. Brennan and Tom Taggart, the party leaders in Illinois and Indiana.
