FOREST FIRES ARE REPORTED TO BE SERIOUS

fully guarded and should not be left unattended, even for a moment. Pipe ashes are frequent cause of fires and should be emptied out only in a safe place. The greatest danger is from matches, carelessly thrown aside, and everyone should see that matches are completely out before they are cast down.

Persons going inside the national forests are advised that they must procure a camp fire permit at one of the ranger stations before they may build a fire inside the boundaries. These stations are located at all roads and trails leading into the forest.

Montana Forests Ablaze.

MISSOULA, Mont., Aug. 5.—More than 700 men are now engaged in fighting fires in the Kankai, Clearwater and Coeur d'Alene forests in northern Idaho and western Montana. A labor shortage in this region is proving an obstacle to the recruiting of more fighters who are badly needed.

High winds also are hampering the work of those who are fighting.

Some of the fires have been checked but others have spread in the last 24 hours so that the situation is virtually unchanged from yesterday.

Forty more men were sent to the fire at Pamarack creek near St. Regis, Mont., where the fire broke through the line yesterday. The Falcon fire, one of the worst, is expected now to be checked at the Idaho-Montana line with crews rushing to that section from three directions.

FOREST FIRE IN MARION COUNTY NEARS MILL CITY

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 5.—Fire burning in the property of the Silver Falls Timber company, near Silver Creek, about 25 miles from here, has cut a swath through the heavy fir timber for a distance of ten miles since Monday, according to County Commissioner Porter of Silverton who was in Salem today.

The fire, he states, has virtually destroyed Camp No. 11 of the company, including destruction of three donkey engines. The entire logging force of the company has been called out to fight the fire, which is still burning fiercely under a heavy wind.

The wind is carrying the flames in the direction of Mill City, but 10 miles from where the fire is burning its fiercest now. Between the fire and Mill City is a solid timbered section with the Santiam river the only break.
