WEATHER FORECASTING IS TAUGHT IN SERV. ICE SCHOOLS OF ARMY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—(A. P.)—Army service schools at the Presidio of San Francisco and elsewhere have begun to turn weather prophets.

The military importance of the subject has led army men to a deep study of atmospheric conditions. Graduates of the meteorological section of the signal school are placed on duty along the numerous war department airways, where weather forecasts must be supplied to aviators before they start on extended flights. Not only temperatures and storms must be predicted, but upper air currents, the direction and duration of winds, are of great importance to pilots.

In planning the erection of new airdromes and flying fields the weather experts are given careful hearings.

A BRIDE'S DIARY

A Love Story of Today

By Idah McGlone Gibson

PAUL RECEIVES HIS TELEGRAM

The Story So Far:—Cleo Madison elopes with Lieutenant Paul Armstrong, U. S. A. It does not take Cleo long to discover marriage is not a path of roses. On the train, going to the army post, she has an allegorical dream indicating her future problems. The colonel, Arthur Blakely Beldon, of the post, is a "lady killer" and his actions have compromised Rita Thorndike, wife of a reprobate lieutenant. Rita is innocent and Cleo forms an immediate and deep friendship for her. Rita, at Cleo's instigation, decides to leave the post and joins a vaudeville troupe under the name Rheda Thorwaldsen. Paul has been having his troubles, chiefly liquor and gambling. Cleo refuses to be gushingly sympathetic. The post is agog with gossip and suspicion when Rita leaves and the colonel implores Cleo to give him information—unsuccessfully. Climaxing a series of domestic troubles between Cleo and Paul, Cleo puts Paul in the hospital by hitting him on the head with a vase.

Paul receives a telegram from Connie Terhune, forwarding the money he has asked to borrow.

A HOSPITAL WAR.

"How stupid, how perfectly stupid you are, Paul Armstrong! You should not have made that asinine remark until you had opened the envelope yourself, and then you would have found that no person, not even your wife, could have told who sent the message. It shows me you are expecting a wire from Connie."

This disconcerted my husband very much. He knew he had made a great mistake.

He hastily tore open the envelope, not waiting to take the message out of the opening I had previously made. When he saw the printed slip, he exclaimed:

"Why, this is not a wire from Connie! It is from some one who has sent me some money!"

"Evidently," I returned, sarcastically. "But if you ask me, I would say, it really looks as if it was from some one to whom you had applied for money; consequently this telegram should be no surprise to you."

Paul seemed to sense how ridiculous it was for him to plead not guilty. He looked up with a propitiating smile. I did not allow my face to relax the slightest bit. This seemed to make all the more absurd his tired and troubled face. It was so funny one could not feel sorry for him. Finally he determined upon a course of action, for he said:

"Well, if you must knew, Cleo, I did ask Connie for a small loan. You made such a hullabaloo about your damned old car, that my only anxiety in life was to get money enough to pay those gamblers and pry the old beat away from them back into my hands so I could stop your palaver. I thought about every one I knew, and of course Chick and Connie were the first friends who came into my mind. Both of them have money to burn. Both of them, I knew, would be perfectly willing to lend it to me.

"I must confess I was a little reluctant to call on Chick. I was his successful rival for you and I did not want him to think that I had to call on my friends for a loan so early in the game. Connie, on the other hand, would be only too glad to help me out of any tight place, and I think it probably made her happier to wire me this money than anything she has done in a long while.

"Don't you realize, my dear, that I was very unhappy? You were ragging me all the while about that little game. I hadn't a cent to get your old car back, and there I was, between the devil and the deep blue sea. What would be more natural than that I would wire the best friend I have on earth, male or female, that I was awfully hard up and asked if she would send me the $500?

"I expect this is the money—in fact, I'm sure of it. I am tied to this bed so I'll just give you a note, Cleo, and you can go over to the telegraph office and get it. We'll be sitting pretty."

"Pardon me?"

"Oh, I say, dear, haven't you been listening? I said I would give you a note authorizing you to get that money, and you could put it in the bank to your own account if you wanted."

"Paul Armstrong, you are still delirious.'

"Oh don't talk nonsense, Cleo. I'm perfectly all right. Listen here, don't you see that five hundred will come in very nicely? Since you were a foolish as to insist on giving a check for the other five hundred to the Colonel, I know we are almost down to hardpan. I haven't got a cent in the bank, and you told me this morning that you had very little. Now it's 50-50."

"I confess, Paul, I don't see what you are driving at. It never entered my head that my husband would take a large sum of money from a woman he knew he could never repay, especially a woman who had openly said, "No matter whom you thought you loved, or whom you married, you will at last come into your own by marrying me."

"Paul, I don't understand what you mean by 50-50. Where are your principles? And if you have none of those useful commodities in your makeup, where is your pride? I have been told even a man without principle always has pride.

"Do not—not think for one moment I will go and get that money. I will not be a partner in holding up any woman, and if you had an idea I would, I want you to know now you are mistaken."

CANYONVILLE PRUNE MEN FORM A POOL OF 750,000 POUNDS

A pool of 750,000 pounds of prunes has been arranged by the Prune Growers Mutual association of Canyonville. A meeting of the organization was held on Tuesday, at which time practically all of the members were present. It was decided to pool the crops of all members, this action establishing a pool of three-quarters of a million pounds. The fruit will be sold at a price satisfactory to the growers. Bids are to be received by D. S. Beals of the Riddle State bank, and the price deemed best by the growers will be accepted. It was decided that the average price per box for picking will be 7 cents, with a bonus of one cent on the season.

An apple picker will get those high pears that you cannot reach with a ladder. They work like a pruning shears and do not harm the fruit. See one at Wharton Bros..

AUTO LIGHTING LAW EFFECTIVE ON SEPTEMBER 1

Motor Vehicle Lights Must Be Made Legal Before That Time.

OLD TYPE OBSOLETE

Magneto Type of Light Must Be Replaced by Modern System Under Law.

September 1, 1925, chapter 323 of the laws of 1925, regulating the adjustment of motor vehicle lights in Oregon goes into effect, and, inasmuch as the law assumes that all motor vehicles within the state will have been provided with approved lighting equipment, properly adjusted according to legal standard, enforcement of the provisions of the law will begin upon that date by the traffic division of the department of secretary of state.

No lighting station can legally adjust lights until it has on display, in a conspicuous place, a certificate of authorization, issued by the secretary of state and no mechanic can legally adjust lights until he has been examined and licensed so to do, and his certificate of authorization must also be made available upon demand. To date 44 light adjusting stations have been approved throughout the state and licenses have been issued to 118 qualified adjusters.

Applications for appointment as authorized light adjusting stations are being received daily, and, as rapidly as they are equipped with facilities for testing and adjusting they are inspected by an officer of the state traffic department, and if approved, a certificate of authority is issued. Applications are also being received for appointment as authorized light adjusters and licenses are being issued as rapidly as compliance with legal requirements is established.

The old magneto type of headlights will not meet with the requirements of the law and all cars operating under this type of illumination must be reequipped with electric or acetylene systems before they can operate on the public highways on and after September 1. The change can be made at nominal cost.

Adjustment receipts cannot be issued by the adjuster for any device which has not been tested by the United States Bureau of Standards and approved by the secretary of state. To date 17 different head lamps, reflectors and control devices have passed the test and been approved by the secretary of state and this list is furnished each authorized light adjusting station and must be posted conspicuously upon a bulletin board provided for that purpose. As tests are completed additions will be made to the authorized lists.

A maximum charge of 75 cents is allowed by law for light adjusting service, exclusive of equipment to conform to legal requirements.

We have an electric light plant in stock on which we can save you some money. Wharton Bros.

NOW DOES ALL HER WORK

Has No Backache, No Bad Feelings Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Drove Her Illness Away

Milwaukee, Wisconsin.—"I was in a badly run-down condition and I would get weak spells and terrible headaches. I felt so badly last year that I could not do any housecleaning. The minute I would lift or stoop it seemed as if I was going to fall to pieces. I told a neighbor how I felt and she said that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was surely the right thing for me. I took four bottles then and in the fall of the year I took three. I had been treated by a doctor but he gave me an iron tonic and that did not help me. It seemed that the tonic did not have in it what the Vegetable Compound did. That gave me the strength and ambition I needed and I have gained in weight. This year before I started to clean house I got four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and am taking it right along. I tell all my friends about it and how much good it does me. They can notice it because I have gained in weight. I weigh 118 now and do all my work myself again."—Mrs. Emil G. Brandenburg, 651 37th Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.
