FIRST COFFIN OF CHARLES DARWIN CREAMATED AS WISH OF HIS FAMILY

FARNBOROUGH, Kent, Aug. 11.—Charles Darwin's first coffin, recently discovered in the coach-house of an old inn near his home, has been cremated. It was recently purchased by the scientist's eldest son, Major Leonard Darwin, and cremated at the wishes of the Darwin family.

The coffin was made by a local carpenter from oak on his estate near Farnborough and many years ago was on view at the local inn. Darwin's body is said to have lain in the coffin for some hours after his death, but when it was decided that he should be buried in Westminster Abbey a more elaborate casket was made.
