TOM SHARKEY NEAREST NEAR-CHAMPION WORLD OF FIGHT EVER KNOWN.

"Near-champions are common, but men who come within an ace of winning a title twice are rare," says The Referee in an interesting article in this week's Liberty.

Tom Sharkey, the heavy-weight sailor, is the nearest near-champion we know of. He was a blue-eyed, sandy-haired, bull-throated sailor when he landed in San Francisco after retiring from the navy about 1890.

Jim Corbett heard of Sharkey and his great popularity, and when offered a four-round bout with the sailor, jumped at the chance. The match was made and the pair met. Corbett, thinking he had a set-up, figured all the training he'd need was a haircut and shave. On the other hand, Sharkey worked like a Trojan, and entered the ring bronzed and trained to the minute.

Corbett raised great wells on the sailor's face and body during the first round, jabbing him at will, and dandling out of harm's way. He repeated in the second round. Sharkey got to Corbett in the third, however, and the latter, badly winded and stung, clinched repeatedly. In the fourth and last round, Sharkey, seeing the championship within his grasp, tore at the titleholder like a wild bull.

Corbett jabbed and ran, dodging behind the referee whenever he had the chance, and hugging the sailor for dear life when the latter got close enough to grab him. He was out on his feet, and nothing but his ring generalship saved him. One good punch from the tar would have settled the fight, but he couldn't land it. Corbett never had such a scare in his life before. He was never again caught out of condition.

RETIREMENT ACT NOT SATISFACTORY TO POSTAL MEN

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12.—(A. P.)—The present retirement act for postal employees will be the chief topic of speakers at the meetings of eight organizations that will celebrate "postal week" here August 23 to 29.

At present, clerks and carriers retire at 65 and supervisors at 70 and are paid $60 a month, providing they have spent 20 years in the service. If they have served less than 20 years the pay is pro-rated. Local postal workers say the provisions of the act are "utterly inadequate to meet reasonable service and employment needs. The annuity granted is so small that employees appear to accept it only under pressure and the age for retirement is fixed so high as to practically defeat the very purpose for which the law was intended."

The discussions on the retirement act are expected to take place at the meetings of the national association of postal supervisors, the united national association of post office clerks and the national rural letter carriers' association.

Other subjects to be discussed during the week include the "Effect of the New Postal Rates," and the "Expansion of the Air Mail Service."

More than 6,000 postal officials and employees are expected to attend the conventions. In addition to the organizations mentioned there will be the national association of postal motor vehicle employees and the Ohio postmaster's association. There will also be a general conference of post office inspectors.

Congressman Theodore E. Burton will act as chairman of the general meeting; United States Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the senate committee on post office and post roads; Congressman Charles A. Mooney of Ohio, Congressman Clyde Kelly of Pennsylvania, Senator Simon D. Fess of Ohio, Senator Frank B. Willis of Ohio, Congressman Calvin D. Palace of Massachusetts, John H. Barlett, first assistant postmaster general and Postmaster General Harry S. New, are on the program for addresses.

WILLAMETTE VALLEY PEACH HARVEST IS NOW AT HEIGHT.

SALEM, Aug. 12.—The valley crop of peaches is now getting into full swing and housewives may get theirs for canning purposes by driving most any direction into the country where the peaches are grown. The prevailing price is from $1.50 to $2.00 a bushel, with the advice that the seeker after peaches take his own box.

There is no necessity, local growers point out, for the housewife to secure her canning peaches, or those who wish for the table, now, from any other source than the home orchards.

The supply is sufficient and growers depend almost completely on home consumption, which is considered to include the Portland market. Very few peaches are shipped any great distance from the valley, the home market absorbing practically all of them. However, California peaches have been sent in here in quantities this year being some competition with the home grown brand.

Growers state there are plenty of peaches to go around and now is the time to go after them. It is expected the local market will take them up pretty generally, as there has been a shortage of other kinds of fruit for home canning this year. Apples were taken from the outside in quantity at high prices, and it is believed the peaches, which are considered as low as any sort of canning fruit, will be snapped up quickly.

SKELTONS OF JAPANESE SACRIFICE VICTIMS FOUND

TOKIO, Aug. 12.—(A. P.)—Considerable interest is attached to the recent discovery beneath the corner stones of the Double-Bridge (main entrance to the Imperial Palace) of eight human skeletons. Most of the skeletons were found upright about twelve feet below the bed of the Palace Moat, which is undergoing repair work necessitated by the earthquake of 1923. The theory of some Japanese scientists is that the skeletons are the remains of persons who, several centuries past, offered themselves as "Human Pillars" for the immortalization of the cornerstones used in constructing Edo Castle. The tradition of the "Human Pillars" is an old one in Japan. In the past age it was considered that if human beings were buried alive beneath the corner stones of great structures, the gods would accord permanent strength and solidity to the foundations and, in addition, those who thus sacrificed themselves, would become immortal. It was considered that those chosen as "Human Pillars" were greatly honored. They were buried alive in a standing position.

The first traditional instance of the "Human Pillars" recorded in Japan dates back to the reign of Emperor Ninohu, more than 1,000 years ago. The Yodo river at Osaka, where the emperor had his palace, used to overflow each year, drowning many people and causing much damage. Every time built by the best engineers was unable to withstand the floods. One night the emperor dreamed that the gods had advised him if he would use human bodies as pillars for the construction of the embankment, there would be no more flood troubles. The story has it that the emperor immediately caused human beings to be buried alive beneath the foundation stones of the dike and since then, the embankment has withstood all floods.

GLENDALE RADIO FANS ORGANIZE NEW CLUB

A number of the local radio fans held a meeting last Monday evening at Moloney's garage for the purpose of organizing a Glendale Radio club, says the Glendale News. The need for and the benefits to be derived from such an organization were discussed. A committee was appointed to draw up suitable rules and bylaws and officers were elected as follows: A. Snyder, president; Walter Moloney, vice-president; and Howard Lygall, secretary. Another meeting will be held next Monday evening at Moloney's garage to formulate a definite program for the club, fall and winter activities. Anyone interested in better radio reception is urged to attend and join this club.

UNHAM BROTHERS ADD NEW STORE TO CHAIN IN CITIES ALONG COAST

A business transaction that had been in progress of negotiation for the past few weeks, was successfully concluded yesterday when Fraser Bros' grocery store, 128 South Broadway, was sold to Dunham Bros., through Dr. George W. Bradburn, Roseburg physician and brother-in-law of E. Dunham.

The new store will be added to the chain of eight stores in Coos county, belonging to Dunham Bros., and it will be merged with the Central avenue store of the county, in the Fraser location on Broadway, the new acquisition having more room than the Central avenue store. A five-year lease on the Merceon building causing the Fraser store was made a part of the sale.

Dunham Bros. operate a chain of grocery stores, including establishments at Eureka, North Bend, Marshfield, Empire, Coquille, Junction and Myrtle Point.
