INDIAN HISTORY TRACED TO FIND NAME FOR COOS COUNTY BOY SCOUT CAMP

MARSHFIELD, Aug. 15.—Harris Ricksecker, Boy Scout executive, has selected the name for the new Scout camp on Cherry creek, east of McKinley, near the Dr. Straw ranch. With the aid of Mrs. Sengstacken, who is an expert on the early Coos Indian lore, he was able to find a suitable title among the old Indian names.

The camp is to be named Kusan, which was the family name of the Coos tribe of Indians. The Coos tribe were the first native Indians in this section. Kusan is found on the old maps used in schools and colleges in ethnology classes. A selection from the lovely book of Indian lore, "A Legend of the Coos," by Mrs. Agnes Sengstacken, reveals the tribe's name.

"For the Umpqua and the Kusans Once had sworn a solemn oath, That all who fled to them for refuge Believed should be by them both."

Many other names were debated upon before Kusan was chosen. Na-so-mah, the Indian who dwelt at the mouth of the Coquille river was thought to be a good name if the camp had been located on that river. Another name was Kloseha, meaning happy place. Neska was also suggested, which means you or yours.

So Kusan, with a wealth of background from the original Coos natives, will prove a very satisfactory name for the new camp.

KEEPER OF UMPQUA LIGHTHOUSE FOUND AFTER BECOMING LOST

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Aug. 15.—Owing to Lighthouse Keeper Werring of the Umpqua lighthouse falling to reach home promptly in his motor boat from Goose Bay, the Coos Bay coast guard crew made a trip to the Umpqua. They found Mr. Werring anchored outside, not being able to find his way in through the fog. Captain Jensen and crew were greatly relieved when they located his craft which is a small, open power launch.

OLD ROSE COMPANY CERTIFICATE IS A RELIC OF PAST DAYS

A certificate of membership in Rose Hose Company No. 2 was found by Lou Knight of Canyonville, while looking through the papers of the late Ralph Knight. The certificate was issued in 1896. At that time Frank Mitchell was president of the company and George Petrequin was secretary. The fire department of which Mr. Knight was also made a member by the certificate, was headed by W. H. Carroll with George Carpy as secretary. Mrs. Knight comments on the old paper as follows: "Looking over and sorting out some old papers, I found the inclosed certificate of membership, tucked away in the corner of an old leather pocket-book, and it brought visions of other days; when Roseburg was a village of broken board walks and muddy streets, and this little cart, pulled by a few husky lads was the city's only protection from fire.

The Roseburg of today might well be proud of its progress, for as the editor of the News-Review in today's paper says "there is no boom and never has been," just a sane and safe substantial growth and who would return to those other days. Even when the buyers did sell you full measure and weight, then throw in the big piece of boulogna, that Prune Pickens often lamented, for every tax payer can feel justly proud, that he has—in his little way—help to make the present beautiful and progressive city the ideal spot for so many happy and contented homes, which is after all the true wealth of any country.

Wonderful highway, good schools, ideal climate, crops that never fail and a true western hand-shake of welcome; what more need we offer the sun-baked, snow-bound, tornado-shocked eastern traveler.

FIRST NIGHT AT REVIVAL SERVICE WELL ATTENDED

Good attendance marked the tented revival that opened last night on Rose street between Oak and Washington streets. The tent is beautifully located in the Maple trees, comfortably seated and beautifully decorated.

The evangelist took for her text last night "And Phillip Preached Christ Unto Them." The evangelist said that if Christ was preached more and ideas less that there would be many more "Happy Christians." That the question was not are you a church member but are you a church member in heaven. The church today is surrounded by enemies who would take away the power which comes with the word of God. A number of old time successful evangelists, including Evans Roberts, Finney, and Knox were mentioned and their success was traced to the presence of the supernatural.

The evangelist asked that every one pray for a heaven born revival in Roseburg, but warned the people they they first must get a real revival in their own hearts.

She said that regardless of what churches the people belonged to if they were not doing all that they could to bring about a real revival, they should turn to the Lord and get the way clear to heaven.

She complimented Roseburg as a beautiful little city but said there is sin which can only be removed by the blood of Jesus Christ.

A goodly number responded to the altar call, and the services of the next two weeks are expected to be the best Roseburg has seen.

At the afternoon service tomorrow the subject will be "Dry Bones," and the subject for the evening service will be "What Seek Ye?"

It was announced last evening that delegations are expected from Eugene, Corvallis, Powers, Glenary, Looking Glass and many other places.

A BRIDE'S DIARY

A Love Story of Today

By Idah McGlone Gibson

Cleo Madison, after eloping with her boyhood sweetheart, Lieutenant Paul Armstrong, goes to his army post and she finds out almost immediately that married life is not too rosy. There is much intrigue at the post. Rita Thorndike, wife of a no-good lieutenant, flees from the post after much gossip about her and Col. Haskely Helson. Cleo helps Rita and resolves not to let her own name become the subject of gossip. Paul exhibits a passion for gambling; loses $500 to the Colonel one night, pays, and loses $500 to a pair of cheap gamblers the next night. He is broke and gives the gamblers his wife's car in settlement of the debt. Cleo is furious; the Colonel wants to help and Paul is somewhat sulky. The quarrels between Cleo and her husband increase, culminating when Cleo throws a vase and cuts Paul so badly, he has to take to the hospital. "Do I love Paul?" Cleo wonders.

A HYSTERICAL FOOL.

In his best professional manner, Maj. Stetter came forward and took both my hands in his.

"Your husband is seriously, but I hope, not dangerously, ill. For a while it looked as though he was going to die, in spite of all we could do, but we succeeded in stopping the flow of blood, and unless it starts again he will probably be all right in a week or two.

"He is too weak to see anyone, my dear, even you."

At this moment another orderly came in and whispered something to the Major.

"Excuse me a moment, Mrs. Armstrong," he exclaimed, and slid out of the door.

"Is Mr. Armstrong worse?" I asked the orderly, who had stopped behind.

"He does not seem to be able to react properly," the man answered. "They are giving him a saline solution. I think the Major will probably recommend blood transfusion."

"Go to the Major at once and tell him, if he decides on such a measure, that I will be only too glad to give as much of my blood as Paul will need. I'm perfectly healthy, and very strong. Tell the Major I insist upon doing it."

The orderly hesitated.

"Go, go!" I almost shouted. "In another minute or two it may be too late. Someone else may be called in. Don't you understand that I want to give my blood to my husband for his recovery?"

Truly, dear diary, I felt if I could give my blood to save Paul's life it might in some way help to wipe out my impulsive crime against him. However, I was not even allowed to do that, although I fairly stormed the doctor, who came back shortly and said that they were going to have a blood transfusion as soon as possible, as Lieut. Armstrong seemed steadily sinking.

"You must let me give my blood, doctor. Don't you see that I must do it? Please, please let me. I won't be comfortable unless you take the blood from me," I said. "I think I became quite hysterical, for Major Stetter put me into a big overstuffed chair and said:

"You must let me give my blood, doctor. Don't you see that I must do it? Please, please let me. I won't be comfortable unless you take the blood from me," I said.

CHAS. McELHINNY HITS UPON A CLEVER PLAN

Charles McElhinny, local representative of the Oregon Life, has hit upon the plan of keeping a pictorial record of the children who are carrying educational policies in the company.

In this at hand are the photos of many of the youngsters, and they range in ages from a few months up to well grown boys and girls of nine to twelve years.

The educational policy as issued by the Oregon Life is intended to provide a college course for the child, of course all premiums are paid by the parents, and the arrangement is such that at the death of the father the policy matures, so to speak, and the amount paid up becomes a trust fund until the child becomes of college age.

When it is available for use, many people are taking hold of this means of providing for the education of their children.

Speaking of this feature of the Oregon Life activities, Mr. McElhinny said:

"The policy is taken on the father's life so that if the death of the father occurs all premiums cease and the child is paid interest on the amount held in trust until the age of 18, or the time to enter college. It is then paid on a monthly basis, beginning September 1st, and payable for the same months school year, ceasing during vacation periods, and beginning again the next year, and so on until 36 months college education is taken care of. Interest is guaranteed at the rate of 3 1/2 per cent, but the prevailing rate has been 4 1/2 per cent for the last two years. We can, of course, guarantee that the child will want to go to college but the monthly payments are made irrespective of whether he goes or not. The ordinary monthly payment taken can be larger or smaller, but the average runs $4.00 to $6.00 per month.

The advantage of the policy is that although the Mother may be left considerably at the death of the father, yet it may all be gone before the time for the child's education. It is a well known fact that the best thing to equip a child with is an education, and then the price of an education is not so great as with someone, and they can turn their knowledge and they can go out into the world and make many times the cost of the four-year course."

BINGER HERMANN EXPECTED HOME FIRST OF WEEK

Friends of the Hon. Binger Hermann, who has been ill at a Portland sanitarium suffering from a distal, will be glad to learn that his condition has improved, and such an extent that he is able to return home, probably tomorrow. He has been greatly benefited by the treatments received, and although he will be required to return to Portland several times in the future for additional treatments, it is believed that his condition has been permanently improved.

CHICAGO MAY TRAIN DELINQUENTS IN INDUSTRIAL COLONY

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—A speeding effort to rid a city of more than 5,000,000 population, of a crime by permanently segregating 3,000 mental delinquents who are marked offenders in their own right, is the next session of the Illinois Legislature.

The effort is from Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal Court of Chicago, and Dr. William J. Hickson, director of the Court's Psychopathic Laboratory, in which delinquents in more than 40,000 criminal cases have been examined during the last eleven years.

The experience of the laboratory has brought Judge Olson and Dr. Hickson to the conclusion that crime prevention is more a problem in psychology than in police administration, and that the root of the problem is the mental delinquent whose debility renders him incapable of interpreting punishment as retribution.

Instead of committing offenders to prisons and reformatories for short sentences, and then throwing them on society again, to commit a greater crime, Dr. Hickson proposes a permanent industrial farm colony where the delinquents could live lives adjusted to their peculiarities.

He would make the colony largely self-sustaining, and in addition would save upwards of $7,000,000 annually of Chicago's $15,000,000 budget for paying an criminal courts.

The laboratory's records show mental deficiency as the prime factor in Chicago crime, and also, that in a large majority of the delinquents, the criminal bent is manifested in some minor offense during the period of adolescence.

By segregating the offenders of mental debility or emotional instability, the Olson-Hickson program would prevent their later committing more serious crimes.

Many records are cited by Dr. Hickson in support of his theory that feeble-mindedness is major factor in crime.

Of 262 boys arraigned in one term of the Boys' Court, 63 percent were morons, and 37 percent sociopaths. Only 1.5 percent rated average intelligence.

Less than five percent of the boys have been in school until past 14 years of age, 83 percent have not reached seventh grade.

Many personal histories were investigated in this group. A large percentage of the boys were found to have been the offspring of mentally defective parents, some of whom had long criminal records in Chicago.

"At present the law presumes the criminal to be sane until proven insane," said Dr. Hickson. "When recent studies in criminology are incorporated into the criminal code of the United States, every criminal will be presumed insane until he proves himself sane."

"The mentally deficient repeaters are responsible for virtually all vicious crimes, crimes, such as murders, robberies, bank-holdups, and criminal attacks on women."

Legislation to provide such a colony as Dr. Hickson proposes has been prepared by a volunteer committee of civic leaders for the Legislature.

CONTRACT SIGNED BY PORT OF UMPQUA COMMISSIONERS FOR USE OF DREDGE

Signatures of the President and Secretary and the Port Seal were affixed to the contract with the Inland Construction company for use of the dredge "Umpqua" for a period of not to exceed one year, Friday at the regular meeting, says the Port Umpqua Courier.

A report of the committee on dredging Smith river shoals and removing snags was to the effect that some 40 or 50 snags had been taken from the channel up to Otter slough. Dredging necessary for removal of the snags was done. The work went as far up the river as Peck's landing. A bill for some $600.00 for that work was ordered paid.

It was decided to suspend operations in that work as no appreciable improvement in the channel has been noted.

The commission decided to insure the port dredge for $20,000 through the Cosgrove company of San Francisco. This insurance is placed through the Chapin Investment company, J. C. Dichi and J. W. Ford, the latter of Gardiner.

The matter of appointment of a dredge superintendent during the time the Inland Construction company has use of the craft, was discussed. It was the sentiment of the members that Joe Butler, one of the commissioners, now port manager, act in that capacity. According to the terms of the lease with the Inland Construction company, that company

WAS NOT FIT TO DO HER WORK

Dreadful Condition of Mrs. Fullerton's Health Remedied by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Clearfield, Pa.—"I cannot begin to tell you how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me in every way. Before taking it I could not stand on my feet without pains running all through my whole body from my waist down, just like threads pulling. I was not fit to do any work. My mother got me to try the Vegetable Compound and I have found great benefit, and I not only recommend it for such troubles, but to build up the whole system, have used it for most everything that gets wrong with me. When I begin to feel nervous and irritable I don't stop long in getting a bottle of the Vegetable Compound if I haven't got one in the house. It gives a fine appetite and makes a new woman of me. You may use this testimonial in my own town or anywhere else, and I will answer any letters I receive."
