BASEBALL BOOMS IN SUBA

More than 1,000 amateur and professional teams easily put baseball in first place as the most popular sport in Cuba. The American national game, however, is not the only one that engages the attention of the youth of Cuba.

ATTENTION! FORD OWNERS

Apparently some confusion has arisen as to whether or not motor vehicles operated during daylight hours only must be equipped with headlight devices in conformity with the provisions of Chapter 325, general laws of Oregon 1925, as follows:

Every motor vehicle, except motorcycles, operated or driven upon the public highways of this state shall exhibit during the period from one half hour after sunset to one half hour before sunrise, and at times when fog or other atmospheric conditions render the operation of said motor vehicles dangerous to traffic or the use of the highways, two headlamps of approximately equal candlepower, not in excess of twenty-one candle power.

From this reading it would appear that such equipment is not necessary unless the motor vehicle is operated under the conditions as set forth.

Numerous inquiries have come to the department relative to magnetic lighting equipment. It is a well established fact that this type of equipment cannot produce the constant candle power necessary to meet the specified maximums and minimums of the main lights required by the law, nor can the required results be obtained with the lights in the dimmed position.

A logical interpretation of the law would imply that motor vehicles now equipped with the magnets as the source of light must be changed to either battery or acetylene as provided by such law. Adjusters cannot adjust motor vehicles equipped with magnets light and issue receipts therefor, unless the equipment of the particular vehicle submitted for adjustment is changed to meet the requirements of the law.

Such equipment as the Kay light roadway light complete, and others of like nature when used as a fog light, and the Brown Universal reflector in the 4 in. and 5 in. sizes, when used in fog lights, will be approved by the department, provided that no portion of the beam of light therefrom shall strike the roadway to the left of the center axis of the vehicle and not to exceed seventy-five feet in front of the motor vehicle.

BROOKHART'S BROTHER IS RECOUNT REPRESENTATIVE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Thomas L. Brookhart, a brother of the Iowa senator, took up his position today before the senate committee recounting ballots from last year's

QUEST FOR THE CONVICT GOES ON AT RANDOM

Captain Paul Hendricks of the Oregon National Guard at 10:30 yesterday morning, that footprints had been found where a man had crossed a small creek, running through the Henry Jaquet place, a half mile east of the Victor Point school house. He declared that the tracks were fresh and that the person who made them had hobnails on the left shoe. A truck was rushed to the district from the prison and national guardsmen who had been scattered over a considerable area were brought together for a concentrated search on this lead.

At three o'clock Captain Hendricks reported the discovery, near the Jaquet place, of a pair of discarded cotton work socks found near a barn in the direction of Union Hill. One of the socks had been patched crudely and by hand with a piece of pillow ticking similar to that used in the prison and the other with a piece of muslin. This evidence was rushed to the prison for identification and inspection by guards.

The socks are not the usual kind worn by prisoners, but were of a type worn by a few convicts who have purchased some articles of clothing outside, it was said.

The patching might easily have been done by the convicts before they left, for such work is permitted of prisoners in their cells and beyond the inspection of guards.

A fact which adds further weight to this discovery is that prison officials believe that each of the escaped men took an extra pair of socks with him. The basis for this belief was the finding in the Zinn taxi of a clean, unused sock which had been left in the machine by the men in their escape.

Sightseers Jam Prison Road. Reports from the hospital this morning indicate that Lute Savage, wounded guard, will recover. He was said to be making very satisfactory progress.

A steady stream of automobiles carrying curious sightseers passed by the prison yesterday in an almost unbroken line. Traffic became so congested outside of the gates that it was necessary to station a guard there throughout the entire day to keep the line moving and to prohibit parking. Reports from Silverton state that hundreds of cars poured into the city yesterday with confetti and restaurant men, reporting a record-breaking business.

Indications of the dozens of "leads" that officials have received, traced, and found worthless was the report yesterday from Sublimity, that a truck driver had encountered a suspicious looking man. The truck driver was three miles east of Sublimity on the Sublimity-Silverton road when he spotted a lone man standing on a hill about a half mile distant looking about him. The truck driver desisted and started in pursuit.

The man saw the driver approaching and broke for the brush on the far side of the ridge. When the truck man arrived at the top of the hill in the position where the man had been he stopped in astonishment. He then heard distinctly a man whistle three times. The incident was reported to the prison by telephone and a special posse rushed to the district.

Hours of effort revealed that the suspicious character was a boy hunting for birds out of season.

Shots have been heard in that district several times.

More shooting was heard last night in the Green River square, which has been stationed on Union Hill the burial place of the pioneer German family.

A tentative plan to search every farm in the wide mountain area is being discussed by leaders of the posse.

It is regarded as possible that the fugitives may have captured some farmer's home, sent him about his work while holding him fast in the house and hostages to give Murray time to recover from his wound.

Murray elected to similar means of hiding after he robbed the bank at Florence, Ore., officers recalled.

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 17.—The clue upon which the posse worked most of Saturday afternoon and Sunday was exploded this morning, when Henry Jaquet, upon whose farm a pair of discarded work socks were found and where tracks of a man were found crossing a creek, this morning, although he explained that the socks were some discarded by a harvest hand employed by him and that the tracks across the creek he made himself when turning his cows out to pasture.

Checks of the report from John Diehl that a cow on his farm had been milked dry during Friday night, and of Joseph L. Kruse, a neighbor of Diehl's, that his children had found a revolver and an empty whiskey flask near a culvert were investigated by Deputy Warden Lilley, this morning.

Lilley reported that the Diehl cow had undoubtedly been milked sometime that night, but said that the finding of the revolver and whiskey flask had nothing to do with the convicts, as the revolver was a .32 calibre gun, a different type from the ones taken by the convicts in their flight.

Four Men Stolen Car. SALEM, Ore., Aug. 17.—A Mitchell touring car, license No. 172,732, was stolen from the streets of Monitor, 7 miles north of Silverton, between 1 and 2:30 o'clock this morning, according to word received shortly after noon at the prison.

The report said that the car had been taken by four men, but no evidence was given to explain how this information was secured. The car was a 1918 model and was owned by Lawrence Jacobson, a farmer living two miles from Monitor.

This clue bears out the theory who had taken the truck driver for a game warden. The lad was hunting despite the fact that warnings have been broadcasted through every possible medium, forbidding people to hunt in that region and advising that they do not appear more than is necessary, and especially while carrying a gun. Had an armed guard witnessed the boy's break for the brush it is possible that another tragedy might have been added to that of the prison break.

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 17.—The theory that the three fugitive convicts who escaped from the penitentiary at Silverton, Ore., last Wednesday evening which resulted in the killing of two guards and one convict and set three other named prisoners free, will be focused upon the causes contributing and making possible the break when its deliberations are resumed this afternoon, according to District Attorney John Carson.

All of the charges of lack of discipline at the prison, inefficiency, cowardice and failure to cope with the situation will be gone into thoroughly, Carson stated.

Among the witnesses summoned will be Charles Christen, recently released as principal keeper at the prison by the warden, who alleges that lack of discipline and control over the prisoners is entirely responsible for the break.

Among the points that have been raised and which the investigation will seek to clear up the officers say are included the following:

How were the convicts able to generate themselves from the roof of the convicts and make their way to the top of the cell tier within reach of the roof?

How were they able to smuggle the instruments used in making their escape into the cell house without being detected?

How were the four or any one of them able to escape the eyes of wardens sufficiently long to bore the hole in the roof?

Why did Warden Dalrymple take the route through the main gate of the prison yard to his home in front of a gun instead of running half the distance across the yard to tower No. 1, where he knew a girl was available?

Why was it that parent was so slow in separating?

Another angle to be investigated is regarding the conduct of Guard Davidson, auxiliary guard, in the convicts' office at the time of the break. According to the statement of the warden he has been posting Davidson in the office during the escape.

It is also possible that at the time the convicts forced their entrance into the turnkey's office, Davidson was wearing or was supposed to be wearing a sash.

This Clue Looks Good. SALEM, Aug. 17.—The report of the car theft at Silverton took on a new angle and added significance in the minds of the prison authorities when the report of Deputy Warden Lilley about 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Lilley corrected the first report that the car was taken by four men, explaining that four boys, all well known and believed reliable in the Monitor neighborhood, were playing cards in a pool room there about 1 o'clock last night, when another of their number left.

Today all four of the boys are missing, and a quantity of canned goods kept in the pool room.

John Wilde, who lives near the pool room, says that he found his roadster backed out of the garage this morning and the wiring had been tampered, indicating that someone had attempted but was unable to start it.

Lilley was of the opinion that of prison authorities that the fugitives would lie in hiding until they had a good opportunity and then steal an automobile and make a dash to get out of the country being scoured by the posse. It also lends weight to the report of John Diehl, the farmer who reported he found one of his cows milked dry Saturday morning, as the Diehl farm is in the logical path the convicts would take on their way to Monitor.

Prison Probe Is Thorough. SALEM, Ore., Aug. 17.—Attention of the coroner's jury hearing the evidence relative to the prison delivery at the penitentiary last Wednesday evening which resulted in the killing of two guards and one convict and set three other named prisoners free, will be focused upon the causes contributing and making possible the break when its deliberations are resumed this afternoon, according to District Attorney John Carson.

All of the charges of lack of discipline at the prison, inefficiency, cowardice and failure to cope with the situation will be gone into thoroughly, Carson stated.

Among the witnesses summoned will be Charles Christen, recently released as principal keeper at the prison by the warden, who alleges that lack of discipline and control over the prisoners is entirely responsible for the break.

John Wilde, who lives near the pool room, says that he found his roadster backed out of the garage this morning and the wiring had been tampered, indicating that someone had attempted but was unable to start it.

Lilley was of the opinion that the clue is the hottest yet found, especially when coupled with the report of John Stanton, a farmer, who says that as he was driving along the road near McKee, two miles west of Monitor, a man stepped out into the road with his hands extended above his head in a signal for Stanton to stop. This was Saturday afternoon. Stanton says that he stepped on the gas and sped by. Stanton, when shown pictures of the fugitives, pointed to Murray as the man who attempted to stop him.

Possemen are of the opinion that one of the convicts, probably Murray, dropped in on the lads playing cards, forced them to accompany him in the stolen car, and commanded the stolen canned goods.

Murray Kidnaps Four? MONITOR, Ore., Aug. 17.—Tom Murray, leader of the escaped convicts, is believed to have kidnaped four young men here last night and forced them to accompany him in getting out of the country.

The missing youths are: Lawrence Jacobsen, Leo Wilde, Joe Lichte and Otto Lucht. The four youths were playing cards in a pool hall here about 2 o'clock this morning. Suddenly they vanished and late today no trace had been found.

The Mitchell touring car of Jacobsen also was missing. Officers think Murray forced the youths to drive him away in Jacobsen's car.

EUGENE, Ore., Aug. 17.—A Mitchell touring car, bearing license plates which should have been on a Mitchell roadster, passed through Creswell this afternoon, according to a telephone message to the sheriff here. A woman was driving. She speeded away when an attempt was made to question her.

Local officers are of the belief that the convicts, if they are the ones who stole the car at Monitor, may have exchanged license plates with the woman's car and then exchanged cars.

WOMAN REPORTED INJURED IN WRECK

An automobile accident in which a woman, supposed to be a resident of a California city, and whose name is given as Mrs. Baker, is reported to have occurred at about 3 o'clock yesterday near Anlauf on the highway. Details of the smash were not obtainable this afternoon, but reports of various people have it that the woman was badly injured, her baby probably fatally injured and the sedan which she was driving demolished. It is claimed that the woman was driving the car when crowded off the-highway as other machines were passing. Other persons were supposed to have been in the damaged car at the time of the wreck and the other machines were not reported to have been damaged. Whether any person other than Mrs. Baker and her baby were injured is not said.

If it should be found that the woman was immediately rushed to a Eugene hospital for treatment by a tourist who witnessed the mishap.

EUGENE, Ore., Aug. 17.—A check up at the three hospitals in Eugene today failed to reveal any details of the accident reported from Roseburg. No accident cases were reported at any of the hospitals, and there was no Mrs. Baker on the hospital lists.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Battling Siki, Senegalese, light heavyweight boxer, came in conflict with the law again today. He was arrested on a complaint of immigration officers for overstaying his six months permit in this country and was released in $1,000 bail pending a hearing Friday.
