ACTUAL VALUES, NOT STOCK, BASE FOR POWER RATE

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 18.—Financial conditions of the Pacific Power & Light company, as interpreted by Henry F. Moore, certified public accountant, were aired today on resumption of the department of public works hearing of the rate case brought against the company by the municipalities of the Walla Walla-Yakima district.

Moore's objections to virtually all of Mr. Moore's testimony were based upon the grounds that it is a matter of law that stocks and bonds of a utility are not related to the rate base and that they are not to be computed in reaching a fair rate of return for the amount of the depreciation to be set up on the books of the company; that his findings are based upon assumptions over which the department of public works has no jurisdiction and that "at no time is the rate payer being required to pay on anything other than actual values as set from time to time by the commission."

every effort to locate the convicts but so much time elapsed between the arrival in Portland of Newman's car and the moment when the authorities were notified of the convicts' presence that the officers are experiencing difficulty in starting the chase. Police marvel at the audacity of the fugitives in picking out the busiest street of Portland in which to start the latest phase of their flight.

Death Before Capture. PORTLAND, Aug. 18.—"This is my poison and I'm going to take it if I'm cornered or knocked over by some bull's gun," said Ellsworth Kelly, the morose member of the bandit trio, who invaded Portland last night.

He made this assertion to Charles Newman, whom they yesterday forced to act as host to them in his home near New Era. He exhibited a small worn bit of newspaper containing a deadly drug. He carried it in his shirt.

"Blackie (James Willos) and I have agreed to reserve our last shots for ourselves," volunteered Tom Murray, leader of the desperado gang.

Murray's Arm O.K. While at the Newman place yesterday the escaped convicts received a Portland paper which told of Murray being badly wounded and that officers regarded as a ruse the fact that buzzards were hovering over the area in which the outlaws were believed to be hiding.

Murray was hugely amused as he read the account. "Best joke I ever read," he chuckled. "Gee, I wasn't badly wounded. Just got shot in the arm, but there's nothing the matter with it. I have full use of it and if anybody doesn't think so let them try to run up against it," he told Newman. "It does beat the Dutch, what stuff the papers or some of them. get about us. They have us here and there when we haven't been in the vicinity at all."

In talking about eluding the posse, the convicts told of having come out of the woods near Silverton and stealthily passing some guards, who they said were asleep alongside the road. The fugitive trio said that they made their way about a mile down this road and after reaching the railroad then proceeded to Monitor. Police, knowing that the three men are reckless and apt to do almost anything, fear violence if any citizen, recognizing them, communicates that recognition to the trio. They doubt, however, that the fugitives will attempt any more sensational escapes. "There's considerable method in their apparent madness," said Lieutenant Fred Graves. "They show their keenness by capitalizing the dread in which they are held, and it is that very dread of the three men which will make our hunt difficult."

Murray and Willos Quarrel. "We understand from the Newman's that there is strife in the gang. Murray and Willos are constantly at sword points, and down to their homes and posts of duty came to the special officers in uniform and national guardsmen as they were awaiting dawn at the A. T. Kline farm, two miles west of Mount Angel, where a 15-year-old son of the Klines had reported that two roughly clad and heavily armed men had come out of the brush, asked him for and received food and disappeared yesterday afternoon.

Dog had been rushed to the scene and everything was set for the posse to take the trail. Then came the word from Portland and the hunt ended. Today the normal routine has been resumed at the prison, the guards are all back at their posts and Warden Dalrymple announces that from now on he will have to rely upon the work of the police officers of Portland and other points to capture the criminals.

Scott at Murray's Story. Those who led the posse are today principally puzzled as to how the convicts lay for at least three days within the posse lines and left no trace of their presence. Among prison officials the alleged statement is generally dismissed with a wave of the hand as a "repeated 'convict' story but neither they nor any of the former prison heads here are in any manner inclined to scoff at the nerve and the daring of the trio.

Murray, they agree, has established his claim to being one of the cleverest and nerviest convicts ever to escape here, and they predict that he will never be taken alive and without a battle unless captured by surprise.

SEATTLE, Aug. 18.—A policeman reported that he saw in Seattle today three rough-looking dressed men answering descriptions of a trio that escaped Wednesday from the Oregon penitentiary at Salem. They were traveling in a car with an Oregon license. This car sped south on one of the principal streets.

GRANTS PASS BALL STAR IN HOSPITAL FOLLOWING INJURY.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 18.—Kenneth Williams, slugger of St. Louis Browns' outfielder, today was sent to a hospital, where an x-ray examination will be made in an effort to ascertain whether his skull was fractured when he was struck on the head by a pitched ball in a game in Cleveland last Saturday.

Dr. Robert Hyland, club physician, sent the home run hitter to the hospital after a preliminary examination. Williams will be out of the game indefinitely.

In the woods near Pratum they were going to shoot it out, but Kelly stopped them.

"They quarreled incessantly yesterday in Newman's home, over trivial matters. It seems to be a battle for supremacy. Murray thinks he is entitled to the leadership of the gang, but Willos, a surly and morose fellow, wants it.

"I wouldn't be surprised if they shoot it out just as Tracey and Merrill did back in 1902."

When the three men left Newman and Leo Wilde, who had been kidnapped from Monitor early yesterday, Murray was still wearing the prison garb in which he escaped—a blue denim coat, inscribed on the lower left hand side with the letters O. S. P.—Oregon state penitentiary—a faded blue shirt, regulation prison overalls and prison shoes.

Hood River on Watch. HOOD RIVER, Ore., Aug. 18.—Sheriff W. H. Edick and Chief of Police William, hurriedly organized posses today to guard roads between Hood River and Portland, following receipt of a message from Chief of Police Jenkins of Portland that Tom Murray, escaped convict, was recognized while traveling eastward over the Columbia river highway with two other men in a Ford coupe. All available men and arms were gathered for a possible battle with Murray, Kelly and Willos.

Revolvers Only Carried. SALEM, Ore., Aug. 18.—The three escaped convicts from the Oregon state prison last seen in Portland last night are no longer armed with rifles but carry only revolvers, says Warden Dalrymple. One of the rifles was returned to the prison this morning. The second is at Monitor where the car was stolen in which they made their way to Portland.

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 18.—The manhunt for Tom Murray, Ellsworth Kelly and James Willos, escaped convicts, came to a dramatic close in this vicinity early this morning, just as the possemen were standing ready to go over the top in the first real live clue of their 120-hour search.

The word to disband and return to their homes and posts of duty came to the special officers in uniform and national guardsmen as they were awaiting dawn at the A. T. Kline farm, two miles west of Mount Angel, where a 15-year-old son of the Klines had reported that two roughly clad and heavily armed men had come out of the brush, asked him for and received food and disappeared yesterday afternoon.

ESCAPED MAN IS CAPTURED LAST NIGHT AT DRAIN

Shamrock and Deputy W. C. Grubbe of Reedport, were immediately notified and made the trip to Drain, bringing the man back here last night and lodging him in the county jail.

The captured man informed officers that he spent the forenoon in Roseburg yesterday, before catching the train on which he made his escape. Officers are at a loss to explain why he could not be located, as the town was scoured in an effort to find him.

The man has little to say either about the death of his brother or his attempted escape. He appears to be considerably wrought up about the death of his brother, however.

Sheriff Starmer said this morning that upon searching Goforth after his arrest in Drain he found only $255 of the $1860 with which he was claimed to have made his getaway. The man claims, says the sheriff, that his brother had the remainder of the money, but the officer is not inclined to believe this statement is true.

Goforth told officers that he had started for his home in Kelso, Washington, to tell his mother all about the tragedy.

Informing that a man by the name of Walter Wright had wired that he would claim the body of his dead brother, he told officers that the man was his brother-in-law.

After a deliberation of only fifteen minutes last night, the coroner's jury which investigated the case of Dave Goforth's death returned a verdict which virtually absolves Deputy Ed Grubbe of blame for the death of the man.

Following the investigation conducted by Coroner Ritter and District Attorney Guy Gordon, the jury returned a verdict in part as follows:

We find that W. D. Goforth came to his death on the sixteenth of August near Elkton, by a gunshot wound inflicted by Deputy Sheriff Ed Grubbe, who fired said shot in pursuance of his duty. We believe that no crime was committed as W. D. Goforth was a fugitive from justice at the time his death occurred.

(Signed) H. O. PARGETER, S. L. KIDDER, C. W. WHARTON, HENRY HARTH, VICTOR SICELLI, A. WEAVER

Coroner Ritter received word last night that relatives in Washington had been notified of the death and that a brother-in-law was to arrive this morning to take charge of the body. It is thought that burial will take place in the dead man's home town.

S. P. R. R. SELECTS 16 STATION NAMES FOR NATRON LINE

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) PORTLAND, Aug. 18.—Names of 16 new stations which will be established on the Natron cut-off when the railroad is finished between Kirk and Oakridge were announced today by the Southern Pacific.

The new stations will be located at advantageous points along the line where patronage best can be served and their names were selected by the company in conjunction with the United States forest service, as the line for much of the distance is through the forest reserve. Forest service officials have delved into the history of the various points and they recommended names of Indians and some early settlers for many of the stations.

Beginning at Kirk and proceeding north the names of the stations will be: Moyana, Lomroth, Chemut, Paulina, Tonkin, Kotan, Umli, Simax, Royce, Planton, Abernethy, Cruzatte, Frazier, Fields, McCreeide Springs and Phlor, the latter being the first station out of Oakridge.

Royce takes the place of Odell at the lower end of Odell Lake where a hotel will be located and a large settlement already has been started. The station at the upper

AMERICANS CONSUME MUCH SUGAR, REPORT

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

CROCKETT, Aug. 17.—More sugar has been eaten by the American people in the first half of 1925 than ever before in the history of the country, according to figures just received by officials of the California and Hawaiian Sugar Refining corporation, here.

The total quantity distributed between January 1 and June 30 of this year was 6,696,289,000 pounds, or an average of 58.5 pounds for every one of the 114,000,000 population of the country.

This is an increase of more than 12,000,000 pounds, or about two and a half pounds per capita over the record for the first six months of 1924, and is more than twice the country's consumption no longer than 1900.

The showing to date, it is announced by the sugar men, indicates that the total consumption of the United States during 1925 will be more than 12,000,000,000 pounds, or more than 100 pounds per person for the whole population.

WOULD PROTECT U. S. FROM HIGHER PRICED IMPORTS (Associated Press Leased Wire.) WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Counter action in America against the high prices resulting from foreign monopoly of rubber, coffee, potato, nitrate and other products was urged today by Secretary Hoover. The most logical step at the moment, he said, would be the enactment of legislation permitting American importers of such commodities to combine to control the market in the buyers' interest. This permission would be similar to the authority extended to American exporters in 1914. "I am not wedded to this method of meeting the situation," Secretary Hoover said, "and if anybody has a better program, I should like to know about it. But certainly the price trend demonstrates that the American consumer is in need of protection. "While we have the Sherman law, which operates in the United States to prevent combination of producers from restraining trade, there is nothing which prevents foreign producers from combining to exact high prices for their products in the United States. "A very simple extension of the Webb Pomerene law, which now allows communication of American exporters in foreign trade will allow combinations of American importers. The combination should be made subject to the regulation of the federal trade commission as is now the fact with reference to export combinations. "The commerce department yesterday issued a calculation indicating that the United States was paying about $82,000,000 more for coffee this year as a result of Brazilian valorization schemes.
