MRS. LARAUT, WELL KNOWN HERE, IS ILL

Mrs. A. B. La Raut of Eugene, mother of Mrs. R. A. Booth of that city, was taken critically ill at the home of her son, Stephen La Raut, at about four o'clock yesterday afternoon. Heart trouble is said to be the cause of her illness, says the Salem Capital Journal.

She is the grandmother of Miss Kathleen La Raut, who was queen of the May at Willamette university during the May festival in 1924, the year she graduated from the university.

Mrs. La Raut had come to Salem to attend a family reunion held at Stephen La Raut's home, located in Polk county about a mile west of Salem. It has been indicated that she will probably be brought to Roseburg today or tomorrow.

KLEIST EXHIBITS SOME FINE PEACHES

R. D. Kleist, well known fruit grower of the valley, brought two fine boxes of peaches to the News-Review office yesterday afternoon which were placed on display. Mr. Kleist is growing some of the finest Elberta variety peaches ever to be exhibited in this section of the state and his product proves conclusively that no other portion of the Pacific coast can raise fruit exceeding the quality grown in the Umpqua Valley. The boxes are very attractively packed and would be a credit to any exhibition. His Valley View brand peaches are certainly wonderful advertisers for the valley and those fortunate enough to secure several boxes of the fruit will have no regrets. Mr. Kleist's ranch, located in the Brockway district, is already the mecca for purchasers and his fruit stand at the Coos Bay Junction is constantly besieged for the large juicy peaches.

Many Roseburg Folks Have Felt That Way.

Feel all out of sorts? Tired, achy, blue, irritable? Back lame and stiff? It may be the story of weak kidneys.

Of toxic poisons circulating about upsetting blood and nerves. There's a way to feel right again.

Doan's are recommended by many Roseburg people:

A BRIDE'S DIARY

A Love Story of Today
By Idah McGlone Gibson

Cleo Madison, after eloping with her boyhood sweetheart, Lieutenant Paul Armstrong, goes to his army post and she finds out almost immediately that married life is not too rosy.

"That's a nice explanation of a woman's sanity," I answered. "I had begun to think I was a very materialistic sort of a person, after all. You know that nothing mental or spiritual has changed for me since you came in. My husband is just as ill as he was an hour or two ago. But because you have made my body comfortable, I have taken on new courage, and again I feel that I am almost at peace, if not with the world, at least with myself."

"I'll ask Major Stetter to come in now, Mrs. Armstrong," volunteered my nurse, "and he will finish what I have begun. He will give you something that will further calm you and quiet your twitching nerves, and you will sleep."

"I hardly think I need it; you have done so much already toward making me comfortable and complacent."

"The nurse said nothing. I could see she had been taught not to regard the whims of any of her patients. She went out of the room and brought in Major Stetter."

"You're looking much better," he said. "Here, take your capsule and now goodnight."

"How is Paul?" I asked as he was leaving the room.

M'ILLAN FORCED TO ABANDON POLE DASH FOR PRESENT

(Associated Press Local Wire.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The MacMillan Arctic expedition has abandoned hope of carrying out its full exploration program over the Polar sea this year.

Curtailed of the expedition's activities was forced by adverse weather which has locked the northland in ice and fog well ahead of the usual winter season. MacMillan and his explorers will proceed, however, to carry out other objects of the expedition including scientific investigations from the present base at Etah, Greenland.

The change in plans was announced today by the national geographic society after it had advised by MacMillan that the project of establishing an advanced base on Cape Hubbard and flying from there over the frozen northern sea was not feasible because of this year's unusual weather conditions.

The veteran explorer advised society authorities that in view of all the circumstances to go ahead with the original plan would be to attempt the "impossible."

CROPS OF OREGON FOR PAST WEEK IN VERY GOOD SHAPE

(Associated Press Local Wire.)

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 19.—The crop report for Oregon issued by the United States department of agriculture for the week ending August 18, follows:

Moderately warm weather prevailed at the beginning of the week, but toward the close it was much cooler, with light frost in some central elevated sections. The change in temperature was accompanied by considerable cloudiness, with heavy showers in a few eastern localities, and light rain over a large part of the state. Rain and higher humidity checked the spread of forest fires, and the heavy smoke which covered a large part of the state last week was cleared away.

Cereals: Most small grain is mature, harvest is over in many places, and threshing is making good progress, though it was delayed by rain in places. Irrigated corn is doing well, but unirrigated corn generally needs rain. Plowing for fall seeding will make little progress until more rain falls.

Fruit: Some apples are dropping somewhat because of lack of moisture. Early winter apples are beginning to show color. Picking of Bartlett pears continues.

Canning of evergreen blackberries is under way. Some fresh berries are being shipped.

Pastures: Pastures and ranges are somewhat refreshed by rain in localities, but are mostly dry. Irrigated alfalfa is doing well, but most second crop clover in unirrigated districts is suffering from drought. Some local delay in haying was caused by showers.

Livestock: Range stock is generally in good condition. Some domestic stock is being fed, and there is complaint of decreasing weight and diminishing flow of milk.

Miscellaneous: Some early hops are being picked; the main crop is generally doing well. Late potatoes, where not irrigated, have suffered considerably from drought. Broccoli is doing well.

Cook with gas.
