DE MOLAY CONTEST WINNERS ANNOUNCED

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 20.—One hundred and twenty-five young men qualified in the second annual DeMolay contest, which has just ended. Announcement of the winners' names was made from national headquarters of the organization in this city, by Frank S. Land, Grand Scribe. Last year eighty-eight DeMolays qualified.

Some of the qualifications considered in selecting the successful contestants were religious activities, scholastic attainments, athletics and craftsmanship. Thirty-four states, the District of Columbia and the Panama Canal Zone supplied the young men who were chosen by the judges. These judges were Frank H. Cheley, president of the Father and Son League of America; David C. Hayless, secretary of the Humphries' Foundation, both men residents of Denver, Colorado; and W. R. Boorman, dean of boys' work, Association College, Chicago.

Several hundred DeMolays, among the many of those who were successful in the representative contest, will attend the second annual National Leaders' Camp of the Order at Bear Lake, near Estes Park, Colorado, August 27 to September 5. The program at this camp provides a complete course in citizenship instruction in social hygiene and athletics. A. A. Stagg, Jr., freshman track coach, University of Chicago, and son of A. A. Stagg, the famous football mentor, will be in charge of athletics. Newell W. Edson of the American Social Hygiene Society, New York, will lecture on social hygiene and Dr. E. Dickerson, Director of Program and Activities for the Grand Council, Order of DeMolay, will be in charge of the citizenship itinerary.

Regional DeMolay camps will be held at Spirit Lake, Iowa, August 28 to September 6; Brinkhaven, Ohio, August 12 to 21; and at Holister, Missouri, August 17 to 26.

LOOT FROM JEWELRY HOUSE IS $250,000.

(Associated Press Local Wire.) CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Four robbers late today held up the offices of the Lazarus and Weil company, manufacturing jewelers, herded the proprietor and several employees into a corner, rifled five safes of jewelry valued at $250,000, mostly diamonds and made their escape.

BATH TUB MEDFORD LADY'S CHOICE OF PLACE TO SUICIDE

(Associated Press Local Wire.) MEDFORD, Ore., Aug. 20.—A coroner's jury investigating the death of Miss Edith M. Towne, well known Medford business woman, last night returned a report that she came to her death by drowning. The chief witnesses at the hearing were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McGowan, with whom she had made her home for the last five years. Despondency over ill-health was given as the reason for the act, by the McGowans. She was found in the bath tub about 9:30 o'clock Monday morning. Her death was at first reported as due to heart failure. A farewell note was left. It thanked Mrs. McGowan for "your many kindnesses," closing with the sentence: "I can't explain any more," and was signed: "Edith."

COMMITTEE NAMED STUDY VEGETABLES

The vegetable crops committee of the Douglas county economic conference organized at its first meeting Tuesday night and selected Dr. C. H. Bailey as chairman. Those attending the meeting included Dr. C. H. Bailey, D. N. Busenbark, R. H. C. Wood, Foster Euteneier, Peter Dittel, C. O. Crawford, R. Reade, Cooley, C. E. Marks and G. Cracrott. It was the unanimous vote of those present that such an economic study of the vegetable crop industry in the county will be highly profitable to growers. Both marketing and production problems were taken up. Among other things the committee will make a comprehensive study of the broccoli situation in the United States. Carrot shipments of broccoli with the points of origin for the entire country will be determined as well as prices paid growers here for the crop in comparison to the prices growers receive in other sections. Dr. Bailey and his committee have outlined an ambitious program and plan on holding no less than a half dozen meetings previous to the general conference in November. The session was held in the office of County Agent Cooney, and was participated in by both Mr. Cooney and Wm. L. Teutsch of the extension service. # A BRIDE'S DIARY

A Love Story of Today

By Idah McGlone Gibson

ENTER CHICK ADAMS Major Stetter just turned around in the doorway as I asked him about Paul, with an assuring smile, and waving his hand to me he vanished. "You've had a good sleep, Mrs. Armstrong," she declared. "The doctor came to your room rattle a little while ago but he would not let me wake you."

"I wish he had," I answered. "For I think I had sleep enough long ago. How's Mr. Armstrong?" "He is holding his own, but he is still so weak he does not speak when spoken to," Major Stetter told me to take a transfusion of blood on this morning.

"Has he got the person?" I asked tremulously. "Yes."

"Do you know who it is?" "I think it is a Mr. Adams," was her calm reply. "I sat up in bed with a jerk. 'Not Chick Adams—that cannot be!' I asserted."

"Yes, Mrs. Armstrong, I think that is the man," my nurse replied. "The doctor says he is a young friend of Lieutenant Armstrong from Pasadena."

"But how did he get here, nurse?" I was still doubtful that it was Chick. "Why was I not told he was here?" "Mr. Adams came last night, just before Major Stetter came in to give you your quieting powder. He did not tell you the young man was here because he was afraid it would excite you and counteract the effect of his prescription."

"Nurse, may I see Major Stetter immediately?" "I think so. He told me to tell you that Mr. Adams was here as soon as you awakened, and also notify him the moment you had had your breakfast. I think he is very anxious now to have the operation over."

"Oh, nurse, I can't wait for breakfast. Send the Major here now."

"I'll ask him to come right away." In a few minutes she brought in my breakfast tray with the information that Major Stetter would come to see me as soon as possible. Fitting all the pillows she had brought from my house about me, she made me extremely comfortable. She had already brushed my hair and now she put a vase of gorgeous roses on the table beside me, which she said Mr. Adams had sent.

I sank back among the lacy pillows. I could not eat, but the coffee tasted good. There was a light tapping at the door. I thought it was the Major and called: "Come in!" It was Chick. I looked at him a moment. I could not speak; instead I burst into tears.

"Cleo, Cleo, don't cry!" Chick said unsteadily as he came forward. "If you're as unhappy as that at seeing me, I think I'd better go away again."

"No, don't go, don't leave me. I don't think I ever needed anyone so much in the world as I need you at this present moment, Chick. I'm crying because I'm so happy to see you. Please, please don't go!" I pleaded as I held out both arms to him.

Chick walked forward and took my hands in his warm clasp. "Gee, but I'm glad I came. I've been having a hunch for a week that you and Paul needed me, and when Rheda and the boys accepted a vaudeville engagement which included some cities in Texas, I came a little way with them."

"They're not going to play El Paso are they? I think the boys ought to have thought of that at seeing me. I slowly withdrew my hands, which Chick had been holding all this time.

"No, I don't think they'll play El Paso this season, Cleo, dear. You must tell me what I can do for you right away, for I expect I shall have to go on the table shortly."

"On the table!" I murmured, incomprehensibly. For the moment, in the joy of seeing him, I had forgotten that Chick was going to give his blood to Paul.

"My friend!" I said gratefully. "I think what you are going to do for Paul is enough for one man, isn't it?" "Oh, that's nothing. Any friend would give that. For a long while I've been thinking that I had too much blood, anyway. It would help me a lot to get rid of some of it. Besides, Cleo dear, that is for Paul. What I want to know is what I can do for you."

ROSEBURG PEOPLE INVITED TO ATTEND BILLY SUNDAY MEET

An invitation to the people of Roseburg to attend the evangelistic campaign meetings to be held in Portland from September 6 to October 25, has been extended by Mayor George Baker of Portland, through the office of Mayor George Hoek here.

The letter received by Mayor Hoek, in part, follows: "In behalf of the campaign committee and in behalf of the city of Portland permit me to extend a cordial invitation to your people to attend the meetings not only as individuals but also in delegations. This campaign is not merely one of religious appeal, but is to be a campaign to bring about better conditions and as such should have the wholehearted support of the entire public whether church members or not. You know any other law enforcing official knows that conditions are constantly going from bad to worse and that drastic action is necessary to stem the tide. Personally I have great hope of this campaign making a vast difference in this state by awakening the public to a sense of individual responsibility and by creating in the public mind a stronger feeling of law enforcement and law observance. With this possibility in view I feel that it is my duty and the duty of all other law abiding citizens to back this campaign to the limit. It is by awakening the public to the extent of aiding in publicity and in encouraging attendance at the meetings will be appreciated. Arrangements for reservations for special delegations from your community may be made by application to the campaign headquarters at the Portland Young Men's Christian Association. No reservations on Sundays."

"Very sincerely yours, (Signed) 'GEORGE L. BAKER,' Mayor.

They are operating in an attempt to save his life. His condition is critical.

AMERICAN FRUIT GROWERS GET TIP FROM SPECIALIST

(Associated Press Local Wire.) WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Edwin Smith, market specialist of the department of agriculture, returning today from Europe where he surveyed market possibilities, accentuated the European market for American fresh fruit could be expanded if American growers would produce better quality in adequate quantities and deliver the produce in better condition at reasonable prices.

The taste of the European for fresh fruit is just as great as that of the Americans, he declared, but the lack of development of refrigerated transportation makes fruit available in Europe only a short time compared with the United States.

Present indications, he said, are that Europe will absorb as many American and Canadian apples this year as last, although the English apple crop is better than last year.

A heavy crop of apples in Nova Scotia will somewhat offset Virginia shortage while in boxed apples, British Columbia reduced crop will ease up on the competition of the Pacific coast states.

One of the topics of conversation among members of the fruit trade of Great Britain relates to the tremendous strides made during the past years by grapefruit in the British Isles. It jumped from one of the rare exotic fruits seen only in large centers, to a regular article of trade.

"Were American producers to get behind it, with a continued educational program, it seems certain that grape fruit might be absorbed in European markets in large quantities."

INSANE MAN TAKEN TO STATE HOSPITAL

An attendant from the hospital arrived yesterday afternoon and took the man to Salem last night. Officers were not able to ascertain for certain what the man's true name was and his residence, although he maintained that he was St. Paul, and that his spirit only was here, his body being both in Portland and Minneapolis.
