LATE EDITOR OF CHICAGO NEWS IS IN FINAL SLEEP

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Victor Fremont Lawson was claimed today from the outstanding position into which a half century of achievements thrust him, despite a disposition naturally modest and retiring, for a last simple tribute from a few surviving relatives and a great host of friends.

From a world figure in journalism, a tremendous force for the public good, a benefactor of the poor, a far sighted business man and a mighty church leader, he was in the solemn rite for the departed permitted to become a mourned relative, counselor and friend.

It was his wish that his funeral service and burial be shorn of all ostentation and display. So it was that they were planned.

In keeping with that wish no service was planned in the great stone mansion he and his bride spent years in devising. There his body has been lying at rest, a repose, after a lifetime devoted of relaxation, after his death there last Wednesday night from overwork.

Despite his demands for simplicity, a great company of mourners, many nationally known in the field of journalism, in which, as proprietor and editor of the Chicago Daily News and co-founder of The Associated Press, Mr. Lawson was a commanding figure for fifty years, was here for the funeral service at 11 o'clock this morning in the little New England Congregational church, preceding burial at Graceland cemetery.

It was entirely fitting that all that remained mortal of Victor Lawson should be borne to the little stone edifice for the church's last rite. It was a milestone that ever recurred in his life.

The rite was in the quiet old fashioned church, in the days of his youth, he lent his voice to the singing from the steep choir loft. There he became acquainted with Miss Jessie Bradley nearly half a century ago; there they were married, and there, 34 years later, Mr. Lawson knelt for comfort when Mrs. Lawson died.

BUSSEY'S MISHAP LEADS TO ACTION $25,000 DAMAGES

Action for $25,533 damages has been filed at Eugene against the Standard Oil company as the result of an accident at Cottage Grove last April, when an employee of the company, Charles H. Bussey, well known in Roseburg, where he formerly worked for the firm, while driving a truck owned by the company, struck and fatally injured Mrs. G. W. Swinehart. The suit was instituted by the woman's husband and Bussey is named as a co-defendant.

It is in the complaint that the driver was negligent and did not exercise the caution when approaching the crossing where the woman was struck. Mrs. Swinehart died an hour after the accident, it is stated.

The general damages are set at $25,000 and special damages of $533.45 alleged due as the result of medical and funeral expenses paid by the estate.

EIGHT DETECTIVES NEEDED TO PROTECT MAN FROM FEMALES

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—As the result of what he regards as attempts by women to lure him and other plots, Max Phillips, wealthy collar manufacturer and polo player, is being closely guarded on his 700-acre estate near Eatontown, N. J.

Eight armed detectives are on guard. Phillips carries a pistol. Watch dogs give warning if a stranger approaches.

Meanwhile three women, presumably detectives, and a male detective are out on bail after being arrested on Phillips' complaint. The purpose of the plots, he says, is to weaken his control of the Phillips-Jones company, which makes Van Roman collars.

The women were arrested on his estate Friday night after detectives in his employ had listened with them by means of a telephone device. He says the women tried to lure him aboard a yacht and take a trip to New England with the intention of having him arrested for the violation of the Mann act.

PAPER COMPANY SOON TO CUT SPRUCE IN DOUGLAS
Logging operations by the Crown-Williams paper company of Oregon City in a large tract of spruce timber in Western Lane and Douglas counties is expected in the near future, according to lumbermen from that district. The paper company owns a large number of tracts between the Siuslaw and the Umpqua rivers and it is said that plans for a mill near Westlake are also being made by the concern although no definite announcement has been made by the firm. The cutting is expected to be on a large scale in the near future when tentative plans are completed, it is said.—Eugene Guard.
