OREGON EXPOSITION BE HELD AT U. OF O. ON OCTOBER 5-10

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Aug. 29.—(Special).—Assurance that some of the best canvases of Oregon artists will be hung in the Portland civic auditorium for the All-Oregon Exposition to be held there from October 5-10, has been given by the warm response of artists to the letters sent them asking for exhibits of their work. The exhibition will be given for the benefit of the proposed Fine Arts building at the University of Oregon.

The field of artistic endeavor covered by the requests includes books, fine photography, needlework, paintings, etchings, drawings, modeling and every other creditable creative work. Artists in all parts of the state intend to send in some of their best canvases. There will be portraits, still life studies, character studies, depictions of action taken from the life of the state, and landscapes. The landscapes promise to be particularly impressive, for there is a kind of beauty found only in Oregon, glimpses of foaming streams, quiet pools in the forest, stark mountains that rise into the sky, a sweep of green forest, rugged bits of coast. There is little for which Oregon is famous that its artists have not essayed to reproduce with brush and pen.

Included in the display will be examples of Oregon's industrial creations, such as cloth from its looms, household and other practical articles from its factories, and the raw products from which they

CONSTRUCTION OF SUTHERLIN PIPE LINE TO START

It is now probable that within a few days notices will be prepared calling for bids on the eight miles of pipe line to be constructed from the city of Sutherlin to the dam on the Calapooia river east of town, for which $9,000 bonds was voted last spring, says the Sutherlin Sun.

Final proceedings in the matter establishing the right of the city to divert water from the Calapooia river at that point for domestic uses, were brought to a close last Saturday when William Mitcham of this city was given title to the seven acres of land on which the dam is located, on a court order.

While the city obtained a water right some months ago to divert approximately a hundred thousand gallons of water daily from the Calapooia river at the dam, this right was in a manner subordinate to a water right held by the J. F. Luse Co., for irrigation purposes. The Luse company issued bonds on the irrigation system, and when the Luse company went into the hands of a receiver the irrigation system was taken over by the bondholders. As the irrigation system has not functioned for several years, the bondholders have been unable to realize anything on the investment. In the meantime the system has become pretty well "shot to pieces" and the city has expended thousands of dollars in order to keep the ditches and portions of the ditch in repair that a supply of water for domestic purposes might be obtained. A year ago the city at considerable expense was obliged to construct a concrete fish ladder at the dam in order to prevent the fish and game commission from blowing out the dam with dynamite.

Some weeks ago Mr. Mitcham paid five years' delinquent taxes on the dam site property and through Rice & Orcutt, well known Roseburg attorneys, instituted foreclosure proceedings. These proceedings, which were concluded last Saturday with the transfer of the property to Mr. Mitcham, have occasioned delay in advertising for bids, as the city did not care to proceed until there was some definite understanding as to ownership of property at the point where it proposed to divert water. In order to forestall further delay in case the bondholders decided to contest the question in the courts, the city some time ago filed on a second water right, approximately two miles above the present concrete dam, and although no definite action has yet been taken in the matter, this second filing may be used instead of the previous filing at the dam. This matter will be settled before bids for the pipe line are called for.

Boas & Cunningham, of Portland, the engineers employed by the city to handle the work, were notified by Mayor Claud Allen the first of the week that the city was ready to proceed, and Mr. Boas telephoned that he would endeavor to come here before the close of the week and discuss some preliminary matters with the council before proceeding with the advertising for bids.

An effort will be made to push the work to completion as early as possible in order to avoid the heavy rains due later in the year. When completed Sutherlin will have an abundant supply of pure water from the Cascade mountain range.

WINNIPEG RENAMES STREET TO HONOR THREE HEROES

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 28.—The bravery of three Winnipeg warriors who fought with the Canadian forces during the world war, will be impressed upon posterity with a permanent and unique memorial. It was recently discovered that three of Winnipeg's sons who car-

Residents of the street, determined upon honoring their memory, petitioned the civic authorities for permission to change the name of the street to "Valor Road." The request was granted and on the initiative of the Women's Canadian club a memorial lamp has been unveiled at the intersection of the newly named street and Portage avenue.

Only one of the three returned at the cessation of hostilities, that being Lieutenant - Colonel Robert Shankland. The other two, F. W. Hall and Leo Clark, paid the supreme sacrifice.

EATING PLACES IN TOKYO TOTAL MORE THAN 23,000

TOKYO, August 29.—The statistics of cafes and restaurants for Tokyo and its environs indicate that hunger should not be among the things suffered by the residents, provided they have the price.

There are 5733 so-called "foreign restaurants," which means places where supposedly foreign food is served in an alleged foreign style. There are 1208 restaurants serving Chinese style food, and 16,114 Japanese style restaurants.

The total for all the public eating places in the city, exclusive of hotels, clubs and semi-private places, is 23,352. In only one ward, Kojimachi, do the foreign restaurants exceed the Japanese in number, the figures being: foreign style, 208; Japanese style, 173.

FRENCH CHALLENGER SEEKS SPEED BOATS GOLD TROPHY

DETROIT, Aug. 29.—With the conclusion of negotiations between T. A. Clarke, French challenger for the British International (Harmsworth) Trophy and the Yachtmen's Association of America, the Detroit Gold Cup Committee has assurance of an international flavor to the speed boat races here September 5-7, in connection with the annual Detroit Regatta.

The trophy race to be run in the Detroit river under the auspices of the Yachtmen's Association and the Detroit Yacht Club will be the 12th contest for the treasured symbol of motor supremacy, originally offered by the late Lord Northcliffe, then known as Sir Alfred Harmsworth.

It marks the second race in American waters for the trophy and the second in fresh water. It has been held five times in English waters, once in French waters, and once off Queenstown, Ireland. Clarke challenged a team to be composed of Gar Wood, who brought the trophy to this country in 1920 and captured it again the following year; his son, Garfield A. Wood, Jr., and H. Alex Johnson of New York City.

The present world's record, held by Wood, is 80.567 miles an hour. During the 18-year period in which the Harmsworth Trophy has been run—twelve times in all—it has been captured by Americans six times.

A BRIDE'S DIARY

A Love Story of Today

By Idah McGlone Gibson

Cleo Madison eloped with Lieutenant Paul Armstrong, U. S. A. It does not take Cleo long to discover marriage is not a path of roses. On the train, going to the army post, she has an allegorical dream indicating her future problems. The colonel, Arthur Blakely Beldon, of the post, is a "lady killer" and his actions have compromised Rita Thordahl, the wife of a reprobate lieutenant. Rita is innocent and Cleo friends an immediate and deep friendship for her. Rita, at Cleo's invitation, decides to leave the post and joins a vaudeville troupe under the name Rheda Thorwaldson. Paul has been having his troubles, chiefly liquor and gambling. Cleo refuses to be gushingly sympathetic. The post is agog with gossip and suspicion when Rita leaves and the colonel implores Cleo to give him information—unsuccessfully. Climaxing a series of domestic troubles between Cleo and Paul, Cleo puts Paul in the hospital by hitting him on the head with a vase. After a serious time Paul passes through due to a blood transfusion from Chick Adams, an old sweetheart of Cleo's. Paul's mother and father have arrived, called to the post because of their son's desperate illness. Cleo's father has also come.

A FATHER LEARNS

When my father asked me what I was talking about, he grasped my shoulder roughly and almost shook me. "I'm talking about the wound in Paul's head," I said softly. "Did you say you did it, Cleo?" The question was asked as though it were against my dear old dad.

GERMAN SCIENTISTS OBTAIN DATA ON DEEP-SEA CURRENTS

HAMBURG, Aug. 29.—A scientific deep-sea expedition which left Hamburg in April recently arrived at Cape Town after a successful cruise. The expedition traversed the Atlantic between America and Africa 14 times and succeeded in studying scientifically submarine currents. The claim is made that this is the first time this has been accomplished. Reports from the expedition declared that its investigation proved that warm currents from the North Atlantic flow at a considerable depth for a distance of about 2,000 miles south of the Equator where they rise to the surface. Similar currents from the southern Polar regions pass northward.

The waters of these currents were found to contain such forms of organic food as is sought by whales and certain other fish. The expedition, financed entirely by private subscription, is in charge of Dr. Merz, director of the Berlin Institute of Oceanography. It will proceed to the southern Polar regions, making Bouvet Island its base and sailing eastward from there.

NEW YORK MAN GIVES TRAVELING SCHOLARSHIPS TO BRITISH TUTORS

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Scholarships which each year will permit three British elementary school teachers to travel about in the United States for six months or more have been established by Irving T. Bush, New York business man. Each scholarship has a value of $1500. The recipients will be selected by the authorities in charge of the city of London vacation course.

The first three holders of these new scholarships probably will leave for America early in 1926. They will tour as much of the country as possible, visiting schools, delivering lectures and keeping their eyes and ears open for American methods and manners that might recommend themselves for transplanting into British educational soil.

NOTICE OF BOARD OF EQUALIZATION

Notice is hereby given that on the second Monday in September being September 14th, the Board of Equalization will attend in the assessor's office in the courthouse in Roseburg, Douglas county, Oregon, for the purpose of examining the assessment rolls and correct all errors in valuations, description and quality of land, lots and other property assessed by the assessor, and it shall be the duty of persons interested to appear at that time and place appointed.

"The telegram came after he had been sent to the hospital. Naturally, being a telegram, I thought there was nothing in the world for me to do except open it. I found it was a telegraphic money order. You know they're not signed, but intuitively I knew she had sent it to him."

"Oh, you women!" said my father indulgently. "How you jump at conclusions. Perhaps it is not Connie at all that sent Paul the money," he soothed. "But Dad, I asked Paul about it, and although he lied at first, he finally owned up."

"Can't you see that the lying made it worse? When I found that out I had to go for a long ride in the dear little roadster to get myself back where I belonged again. I could not forgive Paul for having lied, or rather I could not forgive him but I could not face the years that seemed to stretch out before me—years in which I knew I would never have another day's happiness."

"But, my child, you're taking things too seriously."

"I don't think so, Daddy dear. Perhaps I'm as much to blame as he is. I know that's what you're thinking. Down in your heart you are saying that we both are undisciplined and self-centered. But can't you see there is this difference between us, Dad—I've really been trying to learn, since I found out that marriage was so different from what I expected. I've been trying to accept conditions and make the best of them. But Paul cannot seem to understand that he has any more responsibility than he ever had."

(To be continued.)

Next — Paul's Mother Waives In.

Now tell me what you mean, my child."

"When I heard on his breast I sobbed out my whole story. I told him snatches of my life since I had come to the Post. I told him everything I have told you, dear diary; and as I talked I felt his arms grow tighter and tighter about me. It seemed to me that for the first time since I had come to this horrible place I had reached out for sympathy. I made my tears come faster than ever."

"When I reached the place where Paul sold my car to pay his gambling debts, Dad clinched his fist a little, but he did not say anything except:

"I see you're driving it now—how did you get it back?"

"Then of course it all came off about Rheda, and how as a last resort I sent her to Chick and her return of the five hundred dollars I had lent her just at the right time."

"Colonel Beldon, Dad," I told him, "wanted to pay for the car and get it back. He said that would only be returning the money Paul had lost to him. Paul was perfectly willing to take it, but I wouldn't let him, and I gave my check to the Colonel for the amount."

"Did you tell your husband how you got the money to pay the Colonel? I believe you said that in the morning you had not enough money in the bank to pay the gambling debt."

"No, Dad, I did not," I answered. "That was what we were quarreling about. You see, before Paul found out that the Colonel would pay for the car, he had sent a wire to Connie asking her to lend him the money. In the meantime I had gotten the five hundred from Rheda and had insisted upon paying the Colonel. Paul, knowing I had had no money in the morning, accused me of asking Chick for it, and he did it in such an insulting manner that I threw the vase at him. But I wouldn't let him, and I thought I saw the flicker of a smile on Dad's mouth. Afterward I concluded I was mistaken, for he said very severely:

"Do you know, Cleo, that you might have killed your husband?"

"Yes, sir, but at the time I didn't think of that or anything else, except to get back at him in some way for the terrible thing he had said to me. I intended to have no words that would fit the case."

"Of course at that time, Dad, I didn't know Paul had sent to Connie for the money, and that consequently he might think it was quite as easy for me to ask Chick as it was for him to ask her."

"How did you find out that Paul had asked Connie for the money, Cleo?"

WOMEN HELP RETARD ENLISTMENTS IN TERRITORIAL ARMY, SAYS BRITON

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The Territorial Army is not being kept up to its establishment strength because of "women, trade unions and motor-bicycles," said Lord Raglan in the House of Lords recently. He declared that young men were not joining the Territorials in sufficient numbers and the causes mentioned had been "enemies" of the Territorial Army since the war.

Women, he said, did not want their husbands and sweethearts to join, and while the young men of pre-war days found the Territorial Army one way of getting off into the country, today he uses a motor-bicycle.
