VICE-PRESIDENT IS 60 YEARS OLD

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Vice President Charles G. Dawes gave little attention today to his sixtieth birthday. He went to his office and later was host at an informal luncheon to the Japanese Ambassador Tanaka Matsudaira. In the afternoon he attended the funeral of Edgar Addison Hancock, the late United States ambassador to Japan, and was an honorary pallbearer. He spent only a small portion of the day with his family and prepared to leave tonight for Maunton, Wis., where he had been invited to attend the Juneau county fair. A pageant will be shown at the fair representing his father, General Rufus E. Dawes, Wisconsin land owner, who addressed the county folk at the outbreak of the Civil War, raised a company of volunteers and marched away to battle. Vice-President Dawes has accepted an invitation to speak at Elizabeth October 19, under the auspices of civic organizations. Prior to this trip he will visit the Pacific coast. DEER HUNTING AUTHORIZED IN NATIONAL FOREST

Deer hunting on the Kalbab national forest and game reserve, located in southern Utah, will be permitted from October 1 to November 30, according to an agreement made between the state of Arizona and the forest service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, according to word just received in Portland. This is the region where an attempt was made in 1924 to drive the deer across to the south side of the Grand Canyon and which proved a failure. The deer refused to be driven. All hunting will be by federal permit only as the number of deer to be killed is limited. Applications for these permits should be made to the district forester at Ordun, Utah, or to U. S. Forest officers at Kanab, Utah. Forestry officials of the Department of Agriculture for several years have realized the necessity of reducing the size of the deer herd now grazing on the Kalbab forest and game reserve in order to protect the entire herd from starvation and disease. The range itself has been badly overgrazed and needs protection from the excessive number of deer now using it. District Forester Rutledge, located at Ordun, Utah, states that the number of deer in the preserve has been variously estimated from 20,000 to 50,000 with a fawn crop of between 5,000 and 8,000. The hunting will be directed from designated camps on the east and west sides of the national forest and game preserve where they will not interfere with the drifting

STATE DEPARTMENT MAKING EFFORT TO PROTECT INVESTOR

"In the creation of the Corporation Department, and the enactment of the so-called Blue Sky Law, the Legislature intended to protect the interests of the investing public as far as possible. It must be understood, however, that the Department can not in any manner guarantee the security for the sale of which a permit has been granted, but it does ascertain that the security represents a legitimate business enterprise, justly and fairly conceived, and bearing convincing evidence of being honestly conducted," says W. E. Crews, state corporation commissioner. "The applicant for a permit to sell securities is required to answer questions and furnish evidence covering a wide range touching the enterprise in which it proposes to engage. To that end there is furnished to each applicant a preliminary statement blank. The answers to the questions therein contained must show among other things applicant's assets, liabilities, the exact character of its business, and the uses to which all moneys received from the sale of its securities are to be put. There must be attached to this questionnaire a complete trail balance of applicant's present financial status, letters of recommendation, certificates of character and so forth, and all other facts tending to show whether the given security is, or is not, a good investment, an indication of which would show the investors just what they are buying. "This department knows of no infallible method of determining before hand how any security will turn out. Business conditions change very swiftly in this rapidly developing state of ours, and any prophecy regarding the possibility of any security which naturally depends upon so many contingencies would be very uncertain and of little weight. Even the standard gilt edge securities of today may drop from their high standard and become very doubtful and uncertain tomorrow, and some of the ugly and less attractive securities of today may be classed among the soundest and most attractive securities of tomorrow. "No degree of human foresight, no amount of human experience can ever qualify any one to pass absolute judgment on such matters as those. This department makes no attempt to do so, but it does insist that the public must be given the essential facts concerning securities before a permit will be granted to sell the same, which information will afford the investor an adequate opportunity to inform himself as to the investment value of the securities, and when this Department has furnished a record which discloses such information, it has performed its duty. "The permit requirements, however, are not concluded when the security is permitted to be sold; they continue in force as each company to whom a permit is granted is required first to file an annual report showing the true status of the company as it exists at the end of the fiscal year, same being June 30th of each year. It is also required, while the permit is in force, to file each thirty days in the office of the Corporation commissioner what we term a regular statement. This statement shows in detail its assets, liabilities, the use of money received from the sale of its securities, the amount of securities sold, and other essential details, that a complete tab may be kept upon the company operating under the permit. "The corporation regulations requisite for granting permits are being constantly developed and improved. Gradually as this Department discovers practical methods of protecting the investing public, it adds them to its requirements. "It is the desire of the Department that the foregoing facts may be made public that the investors of the state of Oregon may be given to understand that the records thus kept are public records for their use; and the investing public is invited at any time during office hours to look into the records, and advise themselves as to the investment value of any security offered for sale in this state. "Therefore any intending purchaser of securities, authorized to be sold in this state, who entertains any doubt as to the advisability of making such investment, before concluding to do so, should avail himself of the opportunity of examining the records of this Department, and I hope that they may be made to understand that they are perfectly welcome at all times to make such examination."

REVALUATIONS OF EUGENE AND SALEM STREET RAILWAYS

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 31.—The value of the Salem street railway property on December 31, 1923, is set for rate making purposes at $565,000, in an order of the public service commission today. Because, however, the company has since December, 1923, abandoned its lines on Summer and on Seventeenth streets, the order of the commission authorizes a deduction from the $565,000 figure of $43,000 to which is later to be added in capital value to the amount of investment required for the substitution of automobile buses for the street car lines abandoned. In a second order of the commission today the value of the fixed capital of the Eugene street railway property is set at $583,000, including "the double track not necessarily used and useful in the public service." For rate making purposes, the commission set the value of the Eugene system at $541,000. Both the Salem and Eugene lines are owned by the Southern Pacific company, which was a party in the hearing.

LABORITES DEBATE PROPOSED NEW PLAN NAMING OFFICERS

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Aug. 31.—As the fourth day of the annual convention adjourns. Otherwise federation of labor opened here today with delegates expecting to leave for home in a few hours, a resolution to change the present election law of the federation from a referendum precipitated debate that apparently has resulted in a deadlock. The resolution calls for the election of officers directly on the convention floor instead of by referendum as at present. If the deadlock is broken and the resolution adopted, officers will be elected on the floor before the convention adjourns. Otherwise the present law will prevail and the elections will be held on the first of January. Acting President C. O. Taylor announced that all delegates will have a chance to debate the question on the floor. Otto Hartwig, Portland painter, who has been president for the past eight years, is understood not to be seeking reelection. C. O. Taylor, Portland carman, acting president, is mentioned prominently as a candidate for the president's chair. E. J. Stack, secretary, Portland cigar maker, is also a candidate for the presidency. Conventions deadlock was broken on this afternoon when a motion to table the entire resolution was carried 54 to 24. This will hold the question in abeyance for another year.

AMERICAN PRINTERS OF BRAILLE TO HONOR MEMORY OF INVENTOR

PARIS, Aug. 31.—The memory of Louis Braille, the blind Frenchman who invented the system of raised print universally used in the printing of books for the sightless, is to be perpetuated by the permanent Billed Relief War Fund changing its name to the American Braille Press for War and Civilian Blind. This is an American corporation, is supported entirely by American funds, and its officers are all Americans. The printed matter for the blind is produced by the society solely in France, but the output goes to all parts of the world. The fund was organized during the war for the relief of soldiers and sailors who had lost their sight in fighting for the Allies. For two years the work has been entirely confined to printing books for the blind under the personal supervision of its president William Nelson Cromwell, of New York and Paris.

TOURISTS STILL FLOCK TO CRATER LAKE NATIONAL PARK

Although the peak of the tourist season has been passed, there is no appreciable let-up in the stream of visitors into Crater Lake National Park. Up to August 29, a total of 14,480 cars bore 48,329 visitors to the Cascade gem, as compared with 14,691 cars and 48,797 visitors last year. 98.9 per cent entered in private automobiles. 84.3 per cent were first entries, the balance having entered a second or third time, showing how truly national is the character of Crater Lake travel. For the first time in the history of Crater Lake every state in the union has been represented; also British Columbia, Alberta, Panama, South America, South Africa, The Philippines, The British Isles, and Japan have sent in their quota. Road work is well under way. Old timers will be pleasantly surprised to note the disappearance of some of the worst curves, the great improvement of the entire alignment of the two entrance roads and an easing of grades. Both roads being widened to 29 feet and the laying of a 15-foot asphalt surface is being pushed as fast as conditions permit. There is no interference with travel. The mile detour south out of Anna Spring, will remain in use until August 27; on the West Road, travel is being routed over the old Forest Road out of Whiskey Camp, emerging on the new road three miles east. The weather continues clear and cool, the atmosphere entirely free of haze. Camping continues highly popular, an average of some 250 people camping nightly in the rim camp ground alone. The Community House is the scene of informal entertainment and dancing every night. A much appreciated feature has been the tri-weekly scenic lecture given by Mr. Fred H. Kaiser, illustrated with over a hundred choice stereoscopic slides picturing the northwest outdoors. A loud speaker has been added to the Crater Club phonograph for the use of dancers, giving full orchestral effect.

Through the courtesy of the Oregon State Game Commission the Park is being unusually heavily stocked with fish. Silver-sides, which have proved the best in large numbers, and five fine trout streams heretofore sterile, have been stocked with East Brook and Lock Levan. These streams will not be opened, however, for three years. New Lakelet Discovered. A visiting biologist—a son of the Old Sod—has suggested that Crater Lake adopt St. Patrick as its patron saint because of the fact that there are no snakes, poisonous or non-poisonous, in the park. St. Vitus also might be invoked, because it is also a fact that no poison oak or other members of the great "itch" family exist in the park. Sufferers from hay fever also find instant relief in the pollen-free atmosphere.

New Lakelet Discovered. Ranger Taylor has discovered a small lakelet on the plateau south of Anna Spring. Nearly 500 feet long and not very deep, the water is warm and favorable to the propagation of water lilies. The pond teems with frogs and is to be studied as a possible source of food supply for the fish of Crater Lake. Promptly with its discovery the inevitable small boys appeared on the scene, and are using the pond for a swimming hole. Illustration by the staff of the park, showing the responsible Americans are coming to protect the forests which they now realize belong to them and their children's children.

HOMESEEKERS FIND NEW LOCATIONS IN VARIOUS PARTS OF STATE

Home-seekers still continue to call at the land settlement department and two families so far this week have been located out of the Portland office. Frank J. Lamberger, of Syracuse, N. Y., who has been in correspondence with the department for several months, has bought a place near Beaverton, Oregon. Ed Kenney and family of Oakes, N. D., are enjoying their new home near Clatskanie, Columbia county. They purchased 30 acres logged off land. E. E. Pickering and C. M. Randall, of Ballade, Neb., arrived this week, and have also gone into Columbia county to look at some cut over land. The Ontario and Ashland Gateway offices still report home-seekers from various Oregon. Two settlers were located this week by the Ontario office: M. P. Fray, North, Minn., who has located on a farm near Eugene, Lane county, and Frank Pease, of Yakima, Wash., who has settled in Malheur county. A number of California prospectors are now in Oregon looking for farms, according to the latest report from the Ashland office. Richard Stevens, of San Francisco, is interested in Coos Bay and Marshfield; C. A. Shackelford, Garden Grove, California, is looking over the Rogue River Valley; Henry T. King, Atwater, Calif., is interested in Handon; J. N. Pollock, Englewood, Calif., is investigating Marion county and the vicinity of Salem; T. Stacey, Long Beach, in Medford negotiating for a farm; G. A. Boist and brother, Santa Monica, are planning on buying a fruit farm in Jackson county, and Wm. Kanago, Los Angeles, is looking for a good dairy somewhere in the Willamette valley. Mr. Mars comes as a real prospect from Los Angeles branch office. He is now in Lincoln county about to close a deal which will make him a new settler.

TAXES REVEAL ATHLETIC GROWTH ON WEST COAST.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—Rex Goodell, collector of internal revenue, recently announced figures that show noteworthy progress during the last five years in the development of athletic activities in Southern California. The complications revealed that there are 69 country and golf clubs in operation in the district, tax collections from which amounted to $545,887 during the fiscal year of 1924-1925, an increase of $170,182 in 1920, an increase of $375,704, or 320 per cent. A 27 percent gain over the fiscal year of 1924 was shown. Other amusements likewise increased in popularity. Indoor sports such as afforded by billiard and bowling halls and shooting galleries showed gains ranging from 23 to 46 percent in 1925 over 1924. Riding academies increased 24 per cent and collections of tax on yachts and other pleasure craft advanced 107 percent.
