GAMBLING GAME RAIDED; PLAYERS IN COUNTY JAIL

Harold Smith, George Marshall and F. C. Miller were arrested last night near Oakland, charged with gambling, and were fined this morning by Judge Jones, Smith being fined $150 and the other two $100 each. Smith's fine was made heavier because of the fact that this is his second appearance for the same offense.

Deputy Sheriffs Shambrook and Leas raided a poker game which was in progress three miles east of Oakland in an abandoned cabin late last night. Two Oakland men, the officers stated, were being victimized in the game, and one of these claimed to have lost $400, although the officers found no evidence of the money. The officers seized approximately $80 and the cards, and placed the three men under arrest, bringing them to the county jail in Roseburg.

They appeared before Justice of the Peace Jones shortly before noon, and each entered a plea of guilty. All elected to serve out the fines in jail.

NORWEGIANS DIVIDED AS TO BENEFIT FROM OWNINK SPITZENBERGEN

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 31—(A. P.)—The new Svalbard (Spitzenbergen) law by which the archipelago is incorporated in the Kingdom of Norway has been placed on the statute book after having been passed in the two chambers by narrow majorities.

Norwegians are divided regarding the benefits to them by the acquisition of these islands, which were assigned to Norway by the Spitzenbergen Treaty concluded in Paris between the great powers on February 9, 1920.

On one hand, popular feelings of national prestige have impelled acceptance of responsibility for the sole remnant of what, according to perfervid nationalists, ought to be a Norse Empire embracing also Iceland and Greenland. Norsemen, they claim, ought to possess the command of the Arctic ocean and they find it hard to forgive Denmark for appropriating Iceland and Greenland.

The possibility of Spitzenbergen becoming at some future time an important station for transarctic air traffic is also not lost sight of.

On the other hand, the islands, which are inaccessible during the long winter season, have been hitherto satisfactorily administered by private interests, and they will now require an administrative body headed by a provincial governor, with a host of civil service officials.

The first Svalbard estimates, for 1925-26, recently published, cover an initial expenditure for the new administration, estimated at 240,000 crowns. An income tax will be levied estimated to produce 160,000 crowns and an export duty on coal is calculated to yield 80,000 crowns.

Coal companies' officials opine that advantages and disadvantages under the new regime will about balance each other. They will be relieved of many administrative burdens and the task of keeping law and order, but they will have to submit to government supervision as regards production and export; moreover, all private wireless stations on the islands will come henceforth under government control.

MAN KILLED AND TWO GIRLS HURT IN AUTO WRECK

The place where the accident occurred is without doubt the most dangerous spot in the entire city, and is rapidly earning the name of "Death Curve." The barricade erected yesterday evidently made matters much worse, as there were four accidents on the same corner before the fatal smash. A Pickwick stage coming in after dark failed to site the barricade in time to stop and rather take chances on a quick turn, the driver smashed through the barricade. Three private cars piled up on the Sheridan and Pitchford lawn in attempting to make the turn too late, but fortunately no one was injured.

The barrier is said to have been lighted and marked.

Officers are today making an investigation in an effort to check up on Moore's movements and to locate relatives. He has previously resided at Grants Pass and Roseburg, and also, it is thought, at Glendale. His driver's license, found on his person, was issued to him at Grants Pass in April of this year. He was in Roseburg for several weeks having a private room for a time, and also being located at the Douglas hotel for a few weeks. Recently, according to the girls who were with him at the time of the accident, he has been located in the Holland hotel at Medford.

An inquest into the fatal accident was started at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

TO THE PROPERTY OWNERS OF ROSEBURG.

You are hereby notified that all rose bushes, berry vines, trees, etc., growing out over the sidewalks or in the alleys constitute a violation of the city's ordinances and must be removed at once. All limbs growing over sidewalks must be trimmed. I. S. KETCH, Chief of Police.

FARMER LOSES ON BUMPER CROP OF CORN, SAYS EXPERT

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sep. 1.—A bumper crop of corn does not necessarily mean prosperity for the Iowa farmer. More than likely it means money out of his pocket, says C. D. Reed, director of the weather and crop reporting service.

In his bulletins, Mr. Reed has been repeating "More corn—less dollars." Basis for the statement was found in a fact pointed out by the late Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, substantiated by figures in Mr. Reed's own office. The reverse is equally true, he declared. "Less corn—more dollars."

"Take the crop of 1924," said Mr. Reed. "It was the poorest we have had since 1901. The average yield was only 28 bushels to the acre. Despite the yield being 132,000,000 bushels shorter than the previous crop and that it was of inferior quality, it brought the Iowa farmer $12,000,000 more than the year before.

"The 1921 crop—Iowa's greatest—is another example. The average yield for that year was 42 bushels an acre, a bumper crop even for Iowa, yet the total return to farmers was only $122,000,000, compared with the $250,000,000 which the average corn crop brings."

In that year Mr. Reed said the gross return for land that grew corn was $12.90 an acre, the lowest figure since 1902.

EVANGELIST MAKES PLEA.

Monday night saw a large crowd at the big tent on Rose street between Oak and Wash street, and the Evangelist preached a splendid sermon which the people enjoyed. She said that Jesus Christ was the only one she could recommend as a Saviour, who could bring peace and joy. Real Christians never had any Blue Mondays, for the Lord always kept everything bright. In the beginning everything that God made was good, there was no sin, sickness nor death, these troubles entered with satan at the fall in the garden of Eden. Satan has not changed one whit, and is still the cause of sin and unhappiness, but we can say on the authority of Gods word that Jesus is the same Yesterday, Today and Forever and He has promised deliverance to all, from sin, sickness and sorrow, if we obey Him and accept Him as our saviour.

We are living far below our privileges, if we do not take all of His promises for ourselves.

"Listen to this verse," says the Evangelist: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all other things shall be added unto you."

Now, come humble yourselves, pray, seek His face, turn from your wicked ways, and you will hear from heaven.": 2. Chron. 7:14. And with many other scripture verses, the Evangelist closed her sermon and plead with everyone to accept Christ as their Savior. Many responded to the call, and came forward.

The services will continue every night at 7:45; the Evangelist promises a splendid and interesting service tonight. Come and bring your friends.

They are for breaking up, the steel to be used for building purposes. The warship Suma and the destroyers Nowake, Matsukaze, Shirayuki and Arare are to be put up for auction at the Sasebo Naval Station shortly. Ensigns and coats-of-arms will be removed and placed in the naval museum to be created on the warship Mikasa.

SPECULATORS ON CALIFORNIA PEARS LOSE HEAVILY

NEW YORK, Sep. 1.—Conditions on the California Bartlett pear market are no better. Losses are still heavy, averaging in some cases as high as $500 a car, and the effect of this condition is being felt throughout the aCliforala fruit market. There seems to be little opportunity for those speculators, who have made heavy losses, to recover any of their money this season. A few figures concerning the quantity received, average prices and possible losses may be of interest.

In the six sales held from Aug. 12 to Aug. 19, inclusive, there were sold at auction here, in round numbers, 155,000 boxes of California Bartlett pears. The lowest average price was on last Friday when 21,000 boxes averaged $2.14. The highest average was Wednesday of this week, when 22,000 averaged $2.62. For the six days the average was approximately $2.40.

Assuming that 50 per cent of these pears were purchased originally by speculators, and this percentage is probably a small one, about 80,000 boxes were purchased by speculators. It is difficult to estimate the exact cost of these pears, but they average between $3.50 and $3.75 laid down in New York. Figuring on an average of $3.60, this would mean a loss of approximately $1.20 a box, or in round figures $100,000 for the week. These figures are probably low, rather than high.

The severe losses sustained on California Bartletts have not been confined to this market. All markets of the country have suffered to some degree, but naturally the losses in smaller markets were not as great as in New York, because the quantity received was less. Reports from Boston indicated that Bartlett pears were selling there at $1.50 while the same grade of fruit brought $1 more in New York. Pittsburgh dealers report some heavy losses, one small operator telling that he lost $7,000 on 10 cars of fruit which seriously impaired his capital. Smaller instances in all parts of the country could be given.

Just exactly what has caused this condition is a matter of conjecture. The principal reason seems to be that all of the California Bartletts ripened at the same time. Usually the various sections come in at different times, but this year, due probably to the hot weather, all sections came in at the same time. For some reason or other many of the Bartlett pears this season are not colored as well as ordinarily. Instead of the golden yellow color when the fruit is ripe, which makes it so attractive, many of the pears when ripe, still retain some of the green tinge. This makes them unattractive to buyers and the sales from the fruit stands have not been as good as usual.

At the beginning of the season, before the pears were ripened and before picking began, there were reports that the crop might be short. The canners set a price of $72 a ton, a higher initial price than usual. When they were unable to get fruit even at this figure they raised their price to $80 and in some instances to $85 and still were not able to get all the fruit they wanted. Some of the growers, who refused $80 for their pears, are now glad to take $40.

This high price set by the canners naturally set the pace for buyers of fresh fruit, who were compelled to pay a price which looked exhorbitant to them, but was necessary if they wanted any fruit. Many of the pears were contracted on the basis of $2.75 in California, which meant that they had to be sold for at least $3.75 in New York to bring the holders out even.

This depression in the Bartlett pear market has had some effect on the market for other California fruits. It is extremely difficult for a buyer, who sees a loss of $500 a car on pears staring him in the face to become interested in buying any other fruit. Receivers cannot see much hope for any decided improvement in conditions, as the season is nearly ended, so far as Californias are concerned and there usually is little chance of recuperating on northwestern Bartletts.

most continual criticism, encourages quarreling between those in charge and increases the tendency to shift blame.

McNary's Stand Neutral.

SALEM, Ore., Sep. 1.—United States Senator McNary is regretful of the difficulty that has arisen between President Coolidge and Bert E. Haney for the reason, the senator declared today, that Haney's removal from the board as requested by the president would remove Northwest representation.

"If Haney does leave the board," said McNary, "We will urge the appointment of another Oregon man to take his place."

Senator McNary refused to discuss the trouble as a sympathizer with either the president or Haney for the reason that he had not heard the president's side of the question.

Senator McNary believes there is a chance for the differences between President Coolidge and Haney to be patched up before the next congress. At any rate, he believes Haney can hold on to his place on the board until that time.

"Under the law," said the senator, "the president can remove a member of the board only for inefficiency or malfeasance in office, and Haney is guilty of neither. I presume the differences have arisen over Haney's opposition to Palmer. At the present time, Haney is serving under a recess appointment, not a regular appointment and should he stay on the board it would be necessary for the president to present his name to congress next December in the regular way. Since he is guilty of neither inefficiency nor malfeasance in office, I presume the president could remove him by simply presenting another name instead."

BRITISH IN JAPAN AVERAGE NEARLY FOUR A MINUTE.

OSAKA, Sep. 1.—Illustrations at the recent national statistics exhibition showed that the population of Japan is increasing at the rate of approximately three persons every two minutes. Calculating apparatus of the latest invention was exhibited as also were charts and drawings illustrating all kinds of statistics.

In the population section it was shown that births in Japan are at the rate of 3.88 a minute while deaths occur at the rate of 2.4 a minute, leaving a net gain of 1.48 a minute. The Japanese birth and death rates, figured in that way, were shown to be the highest among the nations of the world.

As to births, Germany came after Japan with slightly less than three a minute; Britain was next with a little more than two and France showed a rate of one and one-half a minute.

Other statistics which attracted attention showed that in 1913 Osaka consumed luxuries valued at 1,200,000 yen, while the value of luxuries consumed in 1923 had increased to 7,300,000,000 yen.
