

$5000 JUDGMENT ON AUTO ACCIDENT PROVES WORTHLESS

(Associated Press Licensed Wire.)

SALEM, Ore., Sep. 8.—Although a judgment for $5,000 damages awarded M. S. Ramp, Mrs. Ramp and their small son, Robert Malcolm Ramp, of Brooks, Marion county, resulting from an automobile accident on July 2, 1921, still stands against E. G. Osborne, the Ramps will probably receive nothing for the reason that Osborne is no longer in these parts, and it is said there is probably no way to get payment of the judgment.

Osborne, Homer Ross of McMinnville and the Oregon Rubber company of Portland, were all made defendants, and the lower court held the judgment against all three defendants. Ross and the rubber company appealed to the supreme court which today reversed the decree of the lower court for Marion county as against the two appellants. Osborne did not appeal. Errors in the admission of testimony is the basis of the reversal. On the date of the accident the Ramps were driving in a small car along a road leading from Brooks crossing, the Pacific highway at approximately right angles. At the intersection they were hit by a big car driven by Osborne at an alleged speed of more than 50 miles an hour.

Ramp, his wife and child were all injured.

The plaintiffs endeavored to show that Ross was liable on grounds that he was owner of the car, but testimony developed that he had entered into a verbal agreement with Osborne whereby the latter had virtually become owner of the car. The Oregon Rubber company was brought into the case for the reason that Osborne was a salesman for the company.

The opinion was written by Justice Burnett and reversed. Judge Kelly of the lower court for Marion county.

Such a special event as this required many special preparations—and the combined merchandising resources of these three big Roseburg institutions were called into play to purchase this immense stock of electric ranges at the lowest price; to arrange for time payments for the convenience of purchasers; and to install the ranges and special wiring, without extra charge.

Naturally, it will be impossible to repeat this amazing offer—at least for a long, long time. If you are even considering the purchase of an electric range SOMETIME—then buy it NOW!

Many purchasers, of course, are not taking advantage of the time payments offered; others are considering the $15 down payment merely as a convenient deposit enabling them to take advantage of this special opportunity.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 8.—Four is expressed for northwest fruit crops as a result of the severe storms of the week end. Already reports of severe damage to the delicious apple crop in the Wenatchee district are coming in and local dealers expect that other fruit producing sections will suffer heavy loss from the wind and hail storms that accompanied the downpour of rain.

It is still too early for any accurate estimate of the damage to be put forth but local authorities who are keenly interested in the 1925 fruit deal were much concerned this morning as to the outcome. The principal damage will be to the apple orchards although the prune crop, too, may be hurt. Prune picking is just getting under way in the big producing districts of the Willamette valley and Clarke county, Washington. Fruit left on trees will be split and water soaked, fruit men declare.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sep. 8.—With Portland people back from mountain and beach for the opening of school, local creamerymen look for a broader demand for butter. This morning prints moved out fairly active and prices are expected to hold steady. Cube butter is none too plentiful and as long as the demand keeps up current price levels will hold. Although there has been no season on the local dairy since last Friday afternoon the egg market continues steady with a good movement of both fresh and storage stocks. Outside markets are holding up well and no price recession is anticipated here as long as the outlet remains open. With large stores holdings this year, dealers are advocating the purchase of a dozen storage eggs along with each dozen of fresh, for baking purposes.
