Wilma Dobell Becomes Bride of B. E. Larson

A pretty wedding ceremony Wednesday evening, Miss Wilma Dobell of Corvallis, was united in marriage to Mr. Benjamin E. Larson of Roseburg, at the home of Mrs. C. A. Dobell in Corvallis.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white tulle, a white veil, and a white tulle, was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms.

The ceremony was read in the candle light at 8 o'clock by Rev. Osgood, of Albany, among a few friends and relatives, while Miss Hazel Soden, of Corvallis, sang "Just a Song at Twilight."

After the ceremony a reception was held for the bridal party and a group of friends were present.

Miss Edith Miller, of Eugene, is spending the week end here visiting friends.

At a dinner, arranged by Mrs. V. J. Micelli, and complimenting Mr. Micelli on his birthday anniversary, a number of friends were present Wednesday evening at the Micelli home on south Pine street.

Mrs. George E. Hume and son, George Hume, who have been spending the week visiting friends in Portland, are expected to return here tonight.

Former Roseburg Girl Weds at Santa Ana

The following taken from the Santa Ana Register of September 2nd, will be of interest to Roseburg people, to whom Mrs. Walker is well known.

Unusually charming in all its details was the wedding last night in Orange of Henry Charles Walker, son of Mrs. C. K. Walker, 1155 East Chapman avenue, Orange, and Miss Louise Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Elliott of Santa Ana and one of this city's loveliest girls.

The ceremony was a twilight affair and hosts of friends of the popular young couple assembled at St. John's Lutheran church in the neighborhood city where at 6:30 o'clock the nuptial service was given by the Rev. William Schmoock pastor of St. Peter Lutheran church of Santa Ana.

As the guests arrived they were shown to their seats by a group of Mr. Walker's close friends acting as ushers, the members of the family being escorted to pews marked with flaming bows of white tulle.

The usher group included Alfonso Mamann of Santa Ana who later served Mr. Walker as best man, Volney Elliott and Louis Walker.

At the nuptial hour the lights of the church were dimmed thus throwing the beautiful white and gold altar into relief.

As the ushers entered from the side Mr. Walker came down the center aisle and with the best man, Mr. Hamann, stood at the altar to await his bride.

Miss Elliott entered on the arm of her father by whom she was later given in marriage.

Following the ceremony, the wedding party remained at the altar in picturesque formation while Mrs. Koulter sang, "Because I Love You."

Following the impressively read ceremony, the wedding party remained at the altar in picturesque formation while Mrs. Koulter sang, "Because I Love You."

At the dinner given for the young people last night, covers were placed for the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Elliott, the newly wedded pair, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Walker, the groom's mother, Mrs. C. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Reymers.

The Large Hat Returns

Hats Which Shade the Face Are Again Sharing Favor With Those Which Fit the Head Snugly

The long lived cloche and its successor in the directoire and modified cloche are looking to their laurels now that the broad brimmed hat has come to be considered seriously.

The close fitting hat of felt and velvet of course will be with us for many seasons as it is both comfortable for sports and very chic in appearance when the tailleur is worn.

Art Department at Fair to Be Unusual

SALEM, Sept. 12.—(Special.)—Splendid things are promised in the art department of the state fair this year, with more suitable headquarters located in the south wing of the main pavilion.

An exhibit of water colors direct from France, by Gallot, will be a leading feature; Clyde Ludwick Harcourt, whose work attracted so much attention in New York, will have a splendid collection of posters.

An effort is being made to have the photographic display non-competitive, this ruling, it made, offering the smaller photographer equal encouragement with the bigger exhibitors.

A TRIP TO MT. MEADOWS

As I traveled today through the forests of tall firs and beautiful pines, I felt so happy and thankful we have laws to protect them and their kind; For me, my children, and others along life's line; A place where there's pure water, crystal clear and free; Flowers, fern and mosses cover like a blanket the earth.

"On the National Forest"

Early in the morning when the air is pure and clear, Perfume of pines and myrtle is everywhere; A bird is singing sweetly, one cannot help but hear, Across the Umpqua river on the bank I see a deer Crouching tender maple leaves with-out a thought of fear.

Away off toward Mt. Bailey the sun trickles a gleam,

From the snow covered peak a rainbow beams, A speckled trout just caught a fly of very pretty hue; The beauties of the woodland are here about for you, If only we seek them they cure all kinds of ills.

The Mountains Speak

If you stand alone on the edge of the mountain, Away from all human kind, Among big firs, tall towering pines; Stand alone, with your mind attuned to receive The message that you are sure to feel; I believe if you are sincere you'll be lifted above your troubles, And all that is not fair, Soar, raise beyond them in breathing the pure sweet air.

There's something in these magic words

That makes ambition thrive, And those who thrill at this same line Are glad to be alive, They live, they know their fellow-men, Their hearts with love will throbb In one great bond of sympathy— They'll always have a job.

South Deer Creek

The South Deer Creek Parent-Teacher association met last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McLaughlin. The school directors met at the same time, and a joint discussion was had regarding the plans for the coming school months.

Milwaleta Camp Fire Girls Have Picnic

Maker For His blessed gift to us

Far more wonderful are the mountains and streams When your heart is filled with the peace they give, Makes you happier, much more willing to live.

A SMALL BOY'S LAMENT.

I'm a'ttin' here a fishin' And should be havin' fun, But heck, I get to thinkin' Taint long 'fore school's begun.

I just can't see no use

Of goin' to school and wishin' That you was a million miles away Out by the crick a fishin'.

Let me be glad when I'm all grown up,

Then I won't have to stedy, I'll be all smiler like my dad And know it all a'treddy, Jennie-George Wharton.

MAGIC WORDS.

For him who earns his daily bread In life's experience grim When wife and children lovingly Depend for food on him; Let health be sweet, let home be kept, Let none be there to rob Him of the joy when he comes home And says, "I've got a job."

Perhaps you've seen the restless youth Go boldly out to face The world's cold stare, the stranger's glare, And heard him ask a place— A place to fill amongst fellow-men, He'd scorn to be a snob— You've seen him come, hopes run a-ning high And shout, "I've got a job."

The working girl with highest aim To start her life's career, Steps bravely out, her rights to claim, And struggles, with a fear, Until her efforts bring her work; With vim she fights the mob, Her joy is great, she will not shirk, She sings, "I've got a job."

There's something in these magic words That makes ambition thrive, And those who thrill at this same line Are glad to be alive, They live, they know their fellow-men, Their hearts with love will throbb In one great bond of sympathy— They'll always have a job.
