KID MCCOY IS GRANTED NEW TRIAL TODAY

REOPEN SLAYING CASE

Former Boxing Idol Now in San Quentin, Convicted for Death of Affinity in August, 1924.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15.—The second district court of appeals today granted the appeal of Norman Selby, former prize fighter, known as "Kid" McCoy, for a new trial on the count of manslaughter, for which he is serving a term in San Quentin prison. The continuation was recorded in connection with the killing of Mrs. Theresa Mors here in August, 1924.

McCoy, at first charged with murdering the wife of the wealthy antique dealer, Albert Mors, was convicted on the manslaughter charge last December after a superior court jury had deliberated 68 hours.

A second trial followed on charges of assault and intent to commit murder and grand larceny, an outgrowth of a shooting orgy McCoy staged in the West Lake shopping district the morning Mrs. Mors' body, shot through the head, was discovered in the apartment which she and McCoy had occupied as man and wife.

With convictions in both cases registered against him, the former prize ring gladiator was sent to San Quentin still protesting his innocence as the slaying partner of Mrs. Mors' death. He said that she had committed suicide.

MARKET IDEAS ARE OBTAINED IN EASTERN STATES

R. H. Kipp, Market Specialist, Makes Trip to East to Study Conditions for Charter.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 15.—R. H. Kipp, manager of the marketing department of the chamber, has returned from a trip lasting six weeks, to the middle west and the Atlantic seaboard studying cooperative marketing as it is practiced in other states.

He attended many cooperative marketing and farm bureau meetings, visited the headquarters of a number of big producers' organizations and inspected their warehouses.

One thing which Kipp said impressed him greatly was the fact that the farther the producer is away from a market for his products, the greater is the necessity for cooperative marketing.

He said that everywhere he went he found the cooperative marketing movement growing, and that it is attracting the attention not only of farmers, but of business men, who are beginning to realize that the success of their business depends upon the success of the farmer.

He obtained many ideas on organized marketing, which he said would be of great aid to the chamber in its marketing campaign in Oregon.

The first meeting attended was that of the Northwestern States Farm Bureau Federation held in Fort Collins, Colo. Reports received at this conference disclosed the fact that farm bureau work is satisfactory in all of the 11 states in the organization, including Oregon and Washington and in these states the work is well organized in about 15 counties. In Utah the farm bureau work is closely linked with cooperative marketing with the result that the farmers, especially the sugar beet growers, are meeting with much success. While in Colorado he gave an address to the Denver Chamber of Commerce.

From Denver Mr. Kipp went to St. Paul and Minneapolis to investigate fresh milk cooperative organizations and the Minnesota Cooperative Creameries. Every pound of butter marketed by the creameries must score 92 or higher. The butter from these creameries is going into all the best markets of the country.

John Brinkley, president of this organization, will be in Portland next week to attend the National Buttermakers' convention and will address the members' forum on Monday.

FLEEING MAN IS KILLED BY SHOT OF TRAFFIC COP

Suspected Car Thief Refuses to Stop—Shooting on Pacific Highway.

KILLING ACCIDENTAL

Officer Shot at Windshield in Effort to Halt Man—Car He Was Driving Had No License.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
ALBANY, Ore., Sept. 15.—Ed. Lousignot was fatally shot shortly before noon today by Traffic Officer C. P. Talent, as the former in company with a woman, was fleeing from the officer in an auto about two miles from Jefferson, near the Marion-Linn county line. He died shortly after being taken to Jefferson for medical attention.

The woman gave her name as Genia Owens, formerly of Troy, Montana, but said her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Owens resided in Clewum, Washington, to which place they moved two weeks ago.

Officer Talent told District Attorney L. G. Llewellyn of Linn county that he did not intend to kill the man, but was trying to send a bullet through the windshield of his car when the man had ignored several shots fired in the air in an effort to halt the car.

Talent was driving south from Salem in company with District Attorney C. Chaney of Jackson county, when they passed the car carrying the man and woman.

The traffic officer said he noticed that the suspected car carried no license tag on the rear, but carried a Washington state dealer's license on the front. He called Chaney's attention to this, and they decided to turn back and question the driver.

Lousignot, Talent said, also turned and rapidly drove into a side road about one and one-half miles south of Jefferson.

The officers gave chase, Talent firing in the air. Finally one shot was aimed at the fleeing car's windshield. It struck the fleeing man under the left arm, ranged toward the chest and passed near the heart.

Talent explained that he suspected the auto had been stolen when he noticed the absence of one license plate.

Miss Owens, who is about 25 years old, said they were on their way to California and that her parents had arranged to overtake them along the way and accompany them. She said she had kept her parents advised by telegraph of her whereabouts.

Through the stimulus of these contracts, commercial aeronautics is expected by air pioneers of the postoffice department to move onward to take its place eventually as one of the principal methods of communication and transport in time of peace and to become the nucleus of an effective air force for use in event of war.

The new air service will directly connect up 29 important cities by air mail routes with the 16 cities which have been receiving similar service on the trans-continent air mail route for more than a year. In addition to these 45 cities which benefit directly from the service, many other cities will enjoy the advantage of speedy transmission of mails by combining the air routes and the day mail service.

GRANGES WILL BE ENTERED AT PRODUCTS SHOW

Exhibits Will Be More Than Twice as Large as at Any Previous Display.

FARMS REPRESENTED

Five Individual Growers to Make Special Displays—Committee Completing Plans.

Excellent progress is being made on the plans for the Home and Land Products Show to be held at the armory on September 24, 25 and 26. John Alexander, who is in charge of the grange exhibits, states that the displays are to be greater than ever before and that nearly all of the granges will have exhibits twice as large as last year.

Glide Grange, Mr. Alexander says, is making extensive plans for its display, and every grower in that district is being canvassed for samples to be used in making up the general display.

Five granges have secured booths and will exercise their own ideas in decorations and in the installation of their exhibits. All have been assigned space, and are organizing to make a strong competition for the prizes which have been offered.

In addition to the grange booths there are five individual farm displays already listed, while others are expected to enter. There are a large number of commercial entries to be made, and every indication points to a show far better than anything held in the county in recent years.

The program committee is completing its work on arranging entertainment for the three days, and those attending the show are promised that they will be shown an interesting time. Music and speaking will provide entertainment each evening, while a number of special features are to be introduced.

One of the interesting events of each day will be the agricultural conference each afternoon. Specialists along various lines have been secured to address these meetings, and growers should receive a great deal of valuable advice and information.

"I went into the cafe for luncheon after attending to some business," Senator Stanfield said. "I had gone to the cashier to pay my bill when I was struck on the head from behind. I wheeled and struck out in self-defense. I demanded to know what the trouble was and I was informed I was under arrest. I asked what for and was told for drunkenness. I was pitched onto and dragged out of the restaurant, although I offered to go unsupported."

McCulloch examined witnesses of the fracas Monday afternoon.

An indication has been given by Stanfield or his attorneys whether he will fight the case or forefeit bail. It will be necessary for Stanfield to appear here Friday if he wishes to contest. Attorney Nichols indicated he would know what his client wanted to do by Friday.

OREGON WILL PARTICIPATE IN LEGION PARADE

Float Showing Agricultural Products of State to Be Entered.

MOSHER IS COMING

State Adjutant to Be Here to Confer With Commander and Chamber Commerce.

Plans for Oregon's participation in the parade to be given during the national convention of the American Legion at Omaha next month are rapidly materializing. The plan was advanced by Dr. E. B. Stewart, state commander of the American Legion, and the Roseburg Chamber of Commerce has taken the initiative in the movement, although the State Chamber of Commerce is acting as the central organization in preparing the plan for adoption by the state.

It has now been definitely decided to enter a huge float in the parade, carrying a display of Oregon products. The Roseburg Chamber of Commerce has secured endorsement of the plan from practically every Chamber of Commerce in the state, and the state chamber has made arrangements for the gathering together of the display. Each community is to furnish crop specimens, and free transportation has been offered by the railroad companies.

One large truck will be procured and will be piled full with crop products of all kinds, which will be distributed to civic clubs and organizations following the parade. In addition to this showing there is a plan being discussed to add a historical aspect to the entry by developing the "covered wagon" idea.

It is proposed to show a covered wagon depicting the outfit in which the emigrants started for Oregon. A second wagon, badly dilapidated, with broken wheels, and mixed teams, would show how they finally reached Oregon, while the great truckload of produce following would show the results of their pilgrimage.

Just how much can be worked out on this plan remains to be seen. It is certain that the crop display will be made in the parade. A meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors will be held in Roseburg in the next few days, at which time Commander Stewart and Adjutant Mosher will be in attendance, and the final detail will be made. Adjutant Mosher has been in close touch with Manager Foster of the state chamber of commerce, and is fully advised regarding the progress that has been made. He has informed Commander Stewart that he will be able to be here in a few days and it is planned at that time to determine just how far the plans shall be continued.

It is expected that the Oregon department will be represented by nearly fifty Legionnaires, at the convention, which will give a large enough number to carry out the ideas presented.
