FIRST WOMAN MINISTER BANS SINGING OF STATE ANTHEM

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 25.—Ever since Mistress Nina Bang became the first woman Danish minister, and as such also the head of the board of education, she has done the unexpected and startling.

First the singing of the national anthem was banned, which she claimed was too war-like to benefit the public good. And when despite her prohibition, the anthem was inadvertently sung in a theatre in which she happened to be, the minister remained seated and moreover, pulled her colleagues of the cabinet back into their seats by their coat-tails.

Mistress Bang plans complete reconstruction of the Danish school system according to German method.

REEDSPORT, Ore., Sept. 24.—The Umpqua Mill and Timber company started operations here this morning and will continue to operate its mill here for a long run, officials state. Posters here yesterday announced the opening and asking for men for the yards and mill.

The fill at the city of Reedport from dredgings has made some difference in the appearance of the city already, although the big job has only been started, City Engineer D. L. Buckingham stated. The fill will be the making of Reedport, he stated.

AN OPERATION RECOMMENDED

Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Los Angeles, Cal.—"I cannot give too much praise to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me. My mother gave it to me when I was a girl 14 years old, and since then I have taken it when I feel run down or tired. I took it for three months before my two babies were born for I suffered with my back and it helped me a lot. The doctor told me at one time that I would have to have an operation. I thought I would try 'Pinkham's,' as I call it, first. In two months I was all right and had no operation. I firmly believe 'Pinkham's' cured me. Every one who says me after that remarked that I looked so well. I only have to take medicine occasionally, not but I always keep a couple of bottles by me. I recommend it to women who speak to me about their health. I have also used your Sanative Wash and like it very much."

—Mrs. E. GOULD, 4000 East Side Boulevard, Los Angeles, Cal.

Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised.

The leading Koreans were created peers and given property by the Japanese government. Most of them ran through this property rapidly. Recently 30 of the impoverished Korean nobles sent a petition to the Japanese government asking for financial assistance.

OREGON SHAPING FOR MULTNOMAH OPENER ON OCT. 3

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

EUGENE, Ore., Sept. 25.—Competition for positions is featuring the rehearsals of the University of Oregon football squad with the first ten days of practice gone, and it begins to look as though some of the veterans would have a hard time holding down their old jobs.

Even Captain Mautz, star end, and Lynn Jones, last year's all-coast fullback, are having to work to hold their berths, as there are more than half a dozen candidates out for each position.

The hardest place to fill at the present time seems to be center. Carl Johnson, last year's center, is back, and will undoubtedly get the call, but he only weighs 160 pounds and there are no good substitutes in case he goes out.

The first stiff scrimmage was held Tuesday, and another will be held tomorrow.

The first game will be on October 3, against the Multnomah Athletic club of Portland on the local field.

All parties knowing themselves indebted to S. B. Crouch, are asked to come in and make settlement of their accounts as I close my books on October 1st.

S. B. CROUCH.

MILK AND ITS CARE FOR BETTER HEALTH

Milk may carry disease germs and in this way infect persons using milk. To prevent this, milk is often pasteurized. In preventing the transmission of disease germs, greater emphasis should be placed on the methods of obtaining the milk. The dairyman should have clean pails and clean hands, and the udder of the cow should be cleaned before milking. The farmer who takes the milk pail from the fence and, without washing his hands, milks the cow which has been standing in a dirty stable is not getting clean milk. Furthermore, he is neglecting a duty and responsibility he owes his family and his neighbors. The poisons and dirt in milk are real sources of danger to the body, but they can be eliminated by the careful collection and distribution of the milk supply. The cows should be cared for in a sanitary stable and every means used to keep them clean and healthy. Cows should be cleaned preparatory to milking. Covered pails should be used to keep the milk free from dirt.

It is very important to keep the milk clean after it is collected. All bottles should be sterilized and the hands should not be allowed to come in contact with the milk or inside of the bottles. Flies and dirt should not gain access to the milk at any time.

In spite of the care exercised in many places in collecting milk, a certain amount of infectious material gains entrance to milk after it is collected. To prevent these organisms getting into the body and so causing diseases, pasteurization is widely practiced. Cities after pasteurizing milk have noticed a drop in the amount of sickness and in the number of deaths.

The history of city and state health departments is full of epidemics of typhoid fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria and septic sore throat, caused by milk infected by a sick person or by a carrier on a dairy farm.

In order that uncollected milk shall be safe it must come from cows who are free from tuberculosis or other diseases; the barn and dairy building must be scrupulously clean, people who have sore throats or any other signs of disease must not milk the cows or handle the milk in any way, and the milk must be cooled at once and kept cool.

High standards increase the respect of the milk industry for milk sanitation. High standards increase the confidence of the consumer and consequently increase milk consumption.
