NEWSY BITS

SAN FRANCISCO—Six San Quentin convicts, charged with murdering Branch O. Miller, prison clerk, during an attempted jail break, petitioned the district court of appeals for an order to exhume the body of the dead man. The prisoners contend that Miller was killed by gunfire, whereas they were unarmed.

SANTA BARBARA—David Mathews, an aviator, charged in Ventura with disturbing the peace by flying over the fair grounds and distributing dodgers was not forced to stand trial because the district attorney could find no law to cover it.

LOS ANGELES—Charles Ray Corporation, organized to produce motion pictures featuring the actor Charles Ray, was adjudged bankrupt in federal court.

SPOKANE—Boxing gloves for training lineamen are used by Coach Carl C. Quackenbush of the Hillyard high school football team. He hopes to teach the boys to use their hands and to instill fighting spirit.

VICTORIA, B. C.—Professor Y. Kita, of Waseda university from Japan enroute to Chicago, New York and Europe to study newspaper methods and college journalism courses, preparatory to establishing the first school of journalism in Japan.

DENVER—Reserve officers of the aviation units of the 103rd division, Army reserve, comprising the states of Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona, announced the adoption of a resolution supporting Colonel William Mitchell, former assistant army air chief, in his criticism of the army and navy air service policies. The resolution declared for a unified air service.

THEATRES

Majestic Theatre

At the Majestic theatre tonight and Saturday will be "The Arizona Romeo," the latest William Fox production in the Buck Jones star series. It is a combination story of eastern capitalists and western cowboys with a comedy dressing for a salad of thrills and action. The leading feminine role is portrayed by Lucy Fox and she is surrounded by an excellent cast consisting of Maine Geary, Thomas R. Mills, Hardee Kirkland, Marcella Daly, Lydia Yeamans, Harvey Clark and Hank Mann. The production was directed by Edmund Mortimer from an original screen story by Charles Kenyon.

Antlers Theatre

Imagination flees in awe before the thrills of prehistoric monsters and the strange fascination of dramatic grandeus compressed into Watterson R. Rothacker-First National spectacle, "The Lost World," which opened last night at the Antlers theatre.

This adaptation of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's famous adventure tale, "The Lost World," has been translated to the screen by Earl Hudson with the uncanny elusiveness of a nightmare. Yet the hair-raising episodes are transcended by a beautiful love story that grips the heart as the other grips the mind.

"The Lost World," marks an epoch in screen achievement because it combines into the structure of heart drama those elements of the spectacular which are sufficient in themselves to the creation of a gripping moving picture narrative.

Liberty Theatre

"Introduce Me," Douglas MacLean's new screen comedy which comes to the Liberty theatre Sunday cannot be compared with any other MacLean picture.

It is so much superior to anything this bright youthful star has ever given to the screen that other MacLean successes cannot even be mentioned in the same review.

If you have never laughed at a movie before in your life you will laugh at "Introduce Me."

It is so tensely and comicly dramatic that the audience does not know whether to laugh or gasp and it has a lilt of clean romance as fresh as a sea breeze.

The story opens with scenes along the fashionable boulevards of Paris and drifts with startling suddenness to a little chalet high in the Swiss Alps where an international mountain-climbing contest is being held.

Douglas plays the role of a young American tourist who falls in love with a beautiful American girl he chances to see in a Paris railway station. His friend manages to meet the girl but refuses to introduce the youthful hero, who is therefore forced to pose as a great American Alpinist that he may follow his sweetheart to the Alps.

The picture breezes merrily along through romance, fun and thrills to the climax, when Doug is compelled to climb the mountain, or lose the girl. He scales sheer precipices, braves an avalanche, is chased across bottomless chasms by a bear and finally arrives at the summit far ahead of his competitors. But the descent of the peak tops all. Accidentally rolling himself into a tremendous snowball, Douglas crashes downwards—splintering trees, tumbling over cliffs and—but to tell the rest would spoil the picture.

Women students were admitted this year to study agriculture in the College of Agriculture at Los Banos, Philippine Islands, and seven are now enrolled. Several have petitioned for admission to the farm school at Munoz, but so far their application has been denied.

California has a larger membership than any other state in the national congress of parents and teachers—129,212 out of a total membership of 875,000. One hundred and ninety three new associations were organized in the state this year.

WORLD SERIES IS BETWEEN PIRATES AND THE SENATORS

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The American league pennant flew unchallenged at the Washington masthead today for the second consecutive season.

Clark Griffith's Senators made certain of meeting the Pirates in the World Series by sweeping both ends of a double header against Cleveland yesterday, 4 to 3 and 6 to 2, while the Athletics were succumbing to the Browns in a 11 inning contest 6 to 4.

Nine games ahead, Washington can lose all its remaining games and still take the flag. Limiting the Tigers to four hits, Ruffing pitched shutout ball for the Red Sox yesterday, 5 to 0, reducing the chances of the Cobbmen finishing better than fourth. The Tigers' defeat coupled with the St. Louis victory over the Mackmen put Detroit two and one-half games behind the third place Browns.

Babe Ruth beat the White Sox by a homer in the tenth with the bases filled, making the score six to five.

Babe's twenty-first homer of the season marked the sixth time in his career that he had delivered a four-ply smash with the sacks filled.

Pittsburgh, with the National pennant already won, could afford to suffer a shutout, 4 to 0, at the hands of the Giants, but New York had the satisfaction of clinching second place in spite of a 3 to 2 verdict scored by Cincinnati over Brooklyn in 11 innings.

Bob McGraw, Brooklyn recruit from St. Paul, allowed only eight hits. Eppa Rixey won his own game with a single which drove home the deciding tally.

President Griffith said the Senators would arrive in Pittsburgh October 5. This will gives them the next day to work out on Forbes field, preparatory to the opening clash of the World series, October 7.

President Coolidge who threw out the first ball in the opening game of the World series here last year, was invited by Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club to act in a similar capacity, October 9, the first day the Pirates appear here. He took the invitation under consideration.

The president will return to the city from his trip to Omaha October 8, thus permitting him to attend the opening game if he desires.

TREE DISTRIBUTION BY U. S. UNDER THE KINKAID ACT OF 1911

More than 195,000 trees were distributed last year to farmers in the Kinkaid district of Nebraska, from the United States forest service nursery at Halsey, Nebraska, according to a circular just issued by the United States department of agriculture. "Tree Distribution Under the Kinkaid Act of 1911." This brings the total number of trees distributed since 1912 above 1,800,000.

Reports sent in by the farmers who have planted trees received from this nursery indicate that an average of about half of them survive. This is a good showing considering the inhospitable sand hill sites on which many are planted. Some planters who take unusually good care of the trees have obtained almost perfect stands.

Jack pines planted by the forest service itself on the sand hills at Halsey have succeeded so well that true forest conditions now prevail in some of the plantations. The circular states that 10,000 acres have been successfully planted by the government, and even on the roughest and lightest sand hills in state 50 to 85 per cent have survived. Some of the trees planted twenty years ago have reached a height of 32 feet and a diameter of 6 inches, and the average height and diameter of trees of this age are 24 feet and 4 2-3 inches respectively.

"The main object of the tree distribution by the government," says the circular, "is to stimulate interest in tree growing, chiefly for the production of fuel and fence posts and the establishment of windbreaks. With proper care, wood-lot plantations should begin to yield fence posts and firewood in 15 years. Since trees will do well on soils not suitable for farm crops, profitable use can be made of what might otherwise be unproductive areas. Furthermore, the establishment of windbreaks and wood lots makes living conditions pleasanter and adds materially to the value of the property."

The circular gives directions regarding species to plant and methods of planting and caring for the trees.

BOYS' BAND BACK FROM ENGAGEMENT AT I. O. O. F. SESSION

The Roseburg Boys Band returned last night from Portland where they participated in the I. O. O. F. parade on Wednesday. The boys made a fine impression, and were highly complimented for their precision in march, their smooth playing and neat appearance. They left here early Wednesday morning, participated in the parade Wednesday afternoon, and returned to their homes in this city yesterday evening. In spite of the long trip and hard march on Wednesday the boys went through their engagement without the least difficulty. Although the only other boys' band, the high school band from The Dalles, was almost exhausted at the end of the march, the Roseburg boys were in good shape after travelling over the long course. They played almost continuously and the director, Mr. Walter Germain, was greatly pleased.

The boys were well treated by the Odd Fellows, being given good hotel accommodations, and entertainment. Twenty-five youngsters made the trip. They were uniformed in white trousers, white shirts and caps and black ties.

SHOW COMEDY COMING HERE

Last season in New York City, George Bernard Shaw's play "Candida", headed all the lists of the best and most successful plays of the season. It is a fact worthy of note that the Moroni Olsen players opened their circuit repertory company two years ago with this very same play. And according to some of their critics, they have equalled but never surpassed this first production. For instance, the Pocatello, Idaho, Tribune said at the time: "To see a George Bernard Shaw production in Pocatello is in itself a real treat, but to have the opportunity of witnessing it as played by the Moroni Olsen players is a privilege. "Candida" is undoubtedly the best production of its kind seen in this city since the days when the legitimate stage was not eliminated from the west by the moving picture, the occasional girl and music show, and bedroom farce."

The Bellingham, Washington, Music News, commented: "To see a Shaw play for a first time is an interesting experience and when one is fortunate enough to see it performed by so talented a company of players as Mr. Moroni Olsen and those with him, it is a worth-while experience."

All of which only emphasizes the truth of Archibald Henderson's statement about the popularity of George Bernard Shaw and his plays. He says in a recent magazine article, "Shaw is a world dramatist, played in all the capitols of the civilized globe; from New York to Tokio."

For this, their third successful season in the northwest, the Moroni Olsen players have chosen as their opening attraction another of Shaw's comedies, "Pygmalion." They feel certain that it will meet with an even more universal success than "Candida" did.

The baron in Gorkey's Russian play "The Lower Depths," says, "all of us have gray souls. We like to lay on a bit of red."

Moroni Olsen will show you Friday night, October 2, that, as Henry Higgins in "Pygmalion," he is an exception. For the soul of Henry is a beautiful red. You will like the shade and the sentiment.

See this famous player in Shaw's famous play. See also Doolittle of the gray soul, and Freddy of the pale blue.

"The flower girl, what is her color?" you ask.

Nonsense! What color is a fleeting cloud? A woman's soul has no color. It is a pearl, or an opal, which changes with its surroundings.

FLORIDA STAGE SET FOR CONCLUSION OF CROKER WILL CASE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 25. — Involving the legality of the ownership of certain properties fronting on the ocean at Palm Beach, the famous Croker will case, one of the most involved extended in the annals of the Florida courts, is expected to be brought to a conclusion early this fall.

The suit was instituted by the heirs of the late Richard Croker, former Tammany Hall chieftain, to have declared null and void the deeds of conveyance of the properties to Bula Croker, second wife of the wealthy political leader. They contended that they should be decreed as owners of the properties with Mrs. Croker, who would then share a dower right as widow.

Under a ruling handed down by Federal Judge Lake Jones, the defendants have until October 1 to file a reply to the decision of Federal Judge Rhydon M. Call, dismissing their motion to quash the bill of complaint.

The complainants, Howard Croker, Ethel Croker White, Richard Croker, Jr., all citizens of New York state, and Florence Crker Morris, a British subject, set out in their bill of complaint that they are entitled as heirs to properties in the vicinity of Palm Beach which have been appraised at approximately $15,600,000. These were acquired by the political leader in two deals, the first on October 24, 1910, and the second on July 31, 1917.

Recital of Transactions between Richard Croker and his wife and Alice Eccleston involving the first tract is contained in the complaint. Croker and his wife attempted to transfer the land to her on November 7, 1917, and it was subsequently reconveyed to them, the complaint set out. It was declared further in the bill that there was no consideration to the transactions.

A portion of the property was conveyed by three special deeds to Mrs. Bula Croker. Croker and his second wife subsequently entered into a contract with J. B. McDonald, authorizing him as agent to sell part of the properties and turn the proceeds over to Mrs. Croker. The complaint sets forth that none of the properties was sold under this contract, however.

In the contract with McDonald, Croker gave him the option of purchasing the property if no sale for it should develop. After the death of Croker, McDonald and the Palm Beach estates are said to have attempted to exercise that option by depositing a sum of money in the registry of the Palm Beach county circuit court.

The bill of complaint asks that Richard Croker be decreed to have been the head of a family residing in Florida at the time of his death and that the land be decreed the homestead of Croker. It asks that the deeds to and from Alice Eccleston be declared null and void, and that the children of Croker together with his widow be declared the heirs of the estate.

Bula Croker moved that the complaint be dismissed in a document filed January 27. The other defendants presented like motions on February 4, at which time they also sought to strike out certain allegations in the bill. In her motion to dismiss the bill, Mrs. Croker declared that the facts set out in it are insufficient to justify the relief asked by the complainants, and that she holds valid titles to the lands.

The two motions to dismiss the complaint were denied in a decision by Judge Call, dated July 22.

INTERSECTIONAL GAMES A FEATURE OF FOOTBALL CARD

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(A. P.)—Nineteen real intersectional football games in which five western conference elevens and Notre Dame play the chief roles, indicate that the 1925 season on the gridiron will be the greatest football has ever seen.

Notre Dame has the heaviest intersectional schedule of any of the middle western elevens, but of the Big Ten universities with intersectional games ahead of them, Chicago faces the hardest schedule. The Maroons will meet two eastern elevens standing high in grid circles and one southern team. Never in the history of the Big Ten has a conference school looked forward to such a heavy intersectional schedule.

The Maroon eleven opens its season October 3 with the University of Kentucky on Stagg field. On October 24, Chicago goes to Philadelphia to play Pennsylvania, a game that will bring out all the strategy that 34 years of coaching has given Director A. A. Stagg, the Grand Old Man of Football."

Dartmouth, the "Big Green" comes to Chicago to play the Maroon eleven on November 14, in the last intersectional tilt for Chicago. Middle western and eastern grid critics point to this game as one of the best of the season.

Illinois, with Bob Zuppke at the helm of the Orange and Blue, is the second conference opponent for Pennsylvania the week following Chicago-Penn game. The "Fighting Illinois" to Philadelphia Oct. 31 to clash with Penn. Illinois' great All-American half back, Harold Grange, will make his debut before eastern grid fans. Grange will be the big cog in Zuppke's strong offensive machine this season, as he has been for the past two years, and the Illinois team will be moulded around the reat star.

Other western teams by scheduling intersectional tilts this year, give evidence of the rising growth of east-west games and west-south games. Tulane University of New Orleans, has two games with western elevens. Missouri, of the Valley conference, goes south early in the year, Oct. 3, to play Tulane at New Orleans, and southerners come north in Chicago on October 24.

Columbia and Ohio state renew their rivalry on the chalked field, this time at Columbus in the huge Buckeye stadium, on October 17.

The navy seem to be popular with western teams. Once more Michigan clashes with the middies, at Ann Arbor, on October 31.

Marquette University of Milwaukee also meets the navy eleven, in the eastern stronghold on October 10.

Notre Dame faces West Point, Georgia Tech, Penn State, Baylor and Carnegie Tech.

Other intersectional games of this fall are: University of Detroit at West Point, Oct. 3; Knox College at West Point, Oct. 10; St. Louis University at West Point, Oct. 24; Ohio Wesleyan at Syracuse University, Nov. 7; Washington and Jefferson at the University of Detroit, Nov. 14.
