FOOTBALL TEAM GETTING READY FOR COMING GAME

Selection of the squad which will be taken to Marshfield for the first high school game of the season will be made tomorrow, according to Coach Doubet. The boys are working hard every evening and are showing up fairly well, although they are still weak in scrimmages. It is expected that they will be able to make a good showing against Marshfield in spite of their extreme light-weight and inexperience.

The second game is to be played in Roseburg against North Bend. This will be the first game on the school's new field, and it will be marked with a special dedicatory program to be arranged later. The dedicatory game is expected to be a good one, as by that time the boys will have the hardening of Saturday's game and a week more of hard practice.

"Red" Grange Keeps Cool on the Job

Harold "Red" Grange, All-American football hero of the University of Illinois, is keeping in trim for further exploits on the gridiron as an ice man in Wheaton, Ill., his home town. He rejected numerous attractive offers from movie producers, real estate and insurance firms, etc., in favor of this job, which he has held during several vacations.

SUNSHINE BRINGS OUT RECORD CROWD AT THE STATE FAIR

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
SALEM, Ore., Sept. 29.—Oregon's sixty-fourth annual state fair came into its own today, with a warm sun smiling out of a lightly cloud flecked sky, and thousands of people from all corners of the state literally flocked through the gates.

Today was Salem's and governor's day, and both were strongly in evidence.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon, fair board members estimates that there were 25,000 people already on the grounds, with a large part of the Salem crowd still to come. Many of the stores here did not close until noon.

Predictions that today would see the largest attendance on record for any single fair day were being freely made around headquarters offices this afternoon.

By the time the last of the show spectators have paid their admissions tonight the attendance for the day will have passed the 40,000 mark, it is estimated.

Juvenile Prizes Awarded.
SALEM, Ore., Sept. 30.—First prize at the state fair for the most artistic booth arranged by boys and girls industrial clubs was awarded last night to Sherman county. Second place went to Washington county, third to Multnomah, fourth to Lane and fifth to Josephine.

KILLER ALLEGED HOME WRECKER IS INDICTED
 (Associated Press Leased Wire.)
PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 30.—Leroy Hansen, former special policeman, was indicted this afternoon by the county grand jury on a charge of first degree murder. Hansen shot and killed James A. Day, August 16, laboring under the mistaken impression, the district attorney's office asserts, that Day had broken up his home. Mrs. Hansen denied her husband's charge.

the boats of the rescue fleet anxious to aid in the effort to reach the sunken submarine before all hope is abandoned. Several trips were made to the ocean floor yesterday. The bodies were brought to the surface and divers cleared away debris and took other steps to enable them to continue the search of the hull.

The submarine S-50, whose sister ship lies 138 feet below her, is being used to pump air into the S-51 and at the same time for divers' rehearsals. Before going below the underwater workers are made familiar with all parts of the submersible and given an opportunity to try out the various openings with their diving suits on to determine whether these passages can be negotiated.

Wilbur Orders Inquiry.

Wilbur Won't Resign.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Replying to questions today concerning his attitude toward certain newspapers which editorially have been demanding that he resign, Secretary Wilbur said:

 "I expect to stay right here on the job and have no intention of resigning."

The Eye Appeal
 One of the chief differences between such an art as Homer's and such an art as Dante's or Milton's is that Homer never thinks of any appeal but through the ear; whereas Dante and Milton both know their verses will meet with eyes as well as ears. Their art is certainly not greater than Homer's, but it has finer modulations of significance. The thing is, that Dante and Milton, like every other printed or written poet, take advantage of the eye-appeal without losing the ear-appeal.—Lancelotti Abercrombie.

Use for Old Newspapers
 Merchants in the countries of the Far East depend wholly on the supply of discarded American newspapers as wrappers for purchases in their shops. Hundreds of tons of whole and clean newspapers are being shipped monthly to the Far East from Atlantic coast ports. This business formerly fell almost exclusively to Pacific coast dealers, but with the outbreak of the World War the Eastern firms began purchasing the newspapers from junkmen for foreign shipment.

Strength of Beetles
 Scientific observations of the beetle show it has tremendous power. So far this power has been set at 112 times its own weight. A captive beetle was placed under a large milk bottle made from heavy glass. In a short time the beetle was pushing the bottle ahead of it at a steady and good pace. Another beetle was made to climb an incline of 5 degrees, dragging a weight equal to 125 grains. The weight was attached to its leg by a silk thread.

Franklin and His Kite
 Of timely interest, in view of recent doubt cast upon Benjamin Franklin's kite experiment, is the recent discovery of a letter written by Franklin on the subject in a book published in London in 1774, now in the library of the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, says Popular Science Monthly. After describing how to make the kite with a pointed wire on the upright stick, Franklin says:
 "As soon as any of the thunder clouds come over the kite, the pointed wire will draw the electric fire from them, and the kite, with all the twine, will be electrified, and the loose filaments of the twine will stand out in every way and be attracted by an approaching finger."

"Sit on the Woolback"
 This expression signifies "To be lord chancellor of England." The lord chancellor, presiding officer of the house of lords, occupies a seat on a cushion stuffed with wool. It is a large square bag of wool, with one end or arm, and covered with red cloth. In Queen Elizabeth's reign, an act was passed to prevent the exportation of wool from England and encourage woolen manufacture. In order that this source of the national wealth should be kept constantly in mind, wool sacks were placed in the house of lords, where the judges sat.

Teaching Parrots to Talk
 The bureau of biological survey says no hard and fast rule can be laid down for teaching a bird to talk. This is entirely a matter of patience and perseverance in dealing with the bird. At first the bird should be kept in a room by itself, and the cage covered on three sides. Do not talk to the bird except in repeating simple phrases over and over again. Only one phrase should be used in a single day in the early training. Gradually work until several phrases are repeated over and over to the bird each day.

Waldo Turned a Corner
 Waldo's teacher had asked him to write a sentence containing the word amphibious, and as Waldo was but twelve, he had some trouble spelling the word, but, after several calls on teacher for aid, evidently got it written to his satisfaction. Then ensued a long period of concentration and wriggling. It was broken when Waldo asked teacher how to spell containing.

A pledge of fair dealing

The strongest pledge of friendship and fair dealing known to the early Norsemen was the simple act of one man placing his hand between the hands of another. Ruthless, terrible and cruel as the Vikings were, no man broke his pledge without forfeiting his honor and the friendship of every true man.

Today modern business forms friends in every corner of the world through the pledge of the printed word. Advertisements are pledges made especially for you . . . pledges that advertised goods you buy are exactly as claimed.

No sane business man would advertise an unworthy product. Nothing could bring ruin more quickly. For when a product is advertised, it invites the criticism of millions of people. It must make good its claims, or it forfeits the patronage of thousands.

A product that is not advertised may be worth buying. But it is little known and its merit or unworthiness lies hid in comparative security. Every product you see advertised must be worthy. It is tested daily by thousands. It is proved in the pitiless glare of publicity—pledged to you in the advertising columns regularly.

Read the advertisements to know which goods are advertised.

An advertiser's pledge can be redeemed only by your entire satisfaction
