BABE RUTH'S CLUB LIKELY TO FINISH IN 7TH POSITION

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Second division contenders, in the major leagues were still battling for positions today with prospects of their final rating being undecided until the season's closing games tomorrow.

The Cardinals dispelled any hopes of the Cubs to finish in fifth place by beating them 4 to 3 yesterday. Chicago is now but half a game in advance of the cellar hole Phillies.

Boston invades Brooklyn today to defend the fifth rung against the Robins. The Braves need to win only one of their two remaining games with Brooklyn to annex fifth place while the Robins must win both of them to unseat Boston.

The Yankees failed to gain on the sixth place Indians in the American league by taking a shut out at the hands of the Athletics 10 to 0.

The Red Sox made it three straight over the World's champion Senators, finishing on the long end of a 11 to 2 score.

WOMEN BORN 1873 TO 1881

Now Is the Critical Time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will Help You Safely Through

Convoy, Ohio.—"During the Change of Life I was weak and run-down and could hardly do my work. By reading your advertisements I found out about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has straightened me right out and made me feel like a new woman. By the time I had taken eight bottles I was well and could do my housework on the farm without trouble. I recommended it to my daughter-in-law after her second baby was born and it did her a wonderful lot of good. I told her to try it and if it didn't help her I would pay for it, and before she had taken one bottle she said to me, 'You won't have to pay for it! It is helping me wonderfully!' And she took three bottles of it. You can use my testimonial if you wish."—Mrs. ELSIE ACKERMAN, Convoy, Ohio.

Consider carefully Mrs. Ackerman's letter. Her experience ought to help you. She tells of the trials of middle age and the wonderful results she obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

FIGHT OF RIVAL RAILWAY LINES OPENS MONDAY

Interstate Commission to Hear Southern Pacific and Oregon Trunk.

KLAMATH ZONE GOAL

Immense Pine Timber Belt Bone of Contention in Legal Contest of Rail Giants.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 3.—Taking of evidence in support of the applications of the Southern Pacific system and of the Great Northern-Northern Pacific group for permission from the Interstate Commerce commission rail lines out from Klamath Falls will begin here Monday before Charles D. Mahaffne, director of the commission's bureau of finance.

Four principal issues will be heard and testimony upon them will be entered in the official record for consideration of the Interstate Commerce commission, after attorney's briefs have been filed and oral arguments made at Washington, D. C. A decision will be made in the remote future.

These issues, all technically classed as applications for certificates of public convenience and necessity, required by the Interstate Commerce act preliminary to construction of railroad lines, are designated as follows:

The Oregon, California and Eastern (the Strahorn project now controlled by the Southern Pacific) to extend the line from Sprague river, which is northeasterly from Klamath Falls, southeasterly to Lakeview, and also northeasterly from Sprague river to Silver lake. Coupled with this application is the petition of the Southern Pacific for confirmation of its purchase of the stock of the Nevada, California-Oregon narrow guage railway and to standardize the line from Lakeview southerly to Fernley, Nevada, on the Southern Pacific's line through Nevada.

The Southern Pacific's projected line from Klamath Falls southeasterly to Alturas in northeastern California, connecting with the standardized N. C. O.

Application for the Oregon Trunk railroad, a subsidiary of the Spokane, Portland and Seattle system, which is owned by the Great Northern-Northern Pacific group, to extend its line from Bend southerly to Klamath Falls via the easterly border of the great pine timber tracts in that part of Oregon.

The potentially enormous pine timber traffic of Central Oregon is the chief attraction in this pending contest between the railroad giants.

OKLAHOMA OIL HISTORY STARTED WITH 30 BARRELS

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 3.—Where years ago the North American Indian roamed the hills of eastern Oklahoma and the broad prairies of the western section, oil wells now appear, bringing to the surface the "block gold" for which eastern Oklahoma is famous.

The first well in Oklahoma was drilled in 1884 by Michael Cudahy of Omaha, Nebraska. When the well was at a depth of 1,120 feet, an oil sand was penetrated and there was a small showing, but not in paying quantity. The drillers were instructed to drill deeper but at 1,800 feet, with no further trace of oil, the well was abandoned.

The showing of oil led many prospectors to Oklahoma although as late as 1891 only 30 barrels of oil was produced. But there was considerable drilling.

Production continued to slump the next two years, only 10 barrels of oil being produced in all of Oklahoma territory in 1893, but it increased to 6,474 barrels in 1900.

A well sunk just outside of the city of Red Fork in 1901, proved to be one of the largest producers, and caused man "wildcat" wells to be put down. The big oil play started in 1904, however, when the Glenn pool was uncovered.

From a small Indian trading post, Tulsa became a city of 7,000 in a year. Oil offices were brought to the city, hundreds of persons became wealthy from oil and built fine homes, stores, factories and all types of business establishments sprung up. Tulsa today is a city of 125,000 people in a state producing 460,000 barrels of oil daily with indications it will go higher.

The year the Glenn pool was discoverd, production was recorded at 1,300,000 barrels for the year, but the search for oil did not end there. It was found in the northern, central and the southern portions of the state.

The northern miscellaneous fields have proved to be the heaviest producers. The southern and northern fields come next. The Garber field in north central Oklahoma, is the most promising in the opinion of oil men, as there are 15 sands, which virtually assures the driller a producer at some depth.

Wells range from 1,000 feet to 4,400 feet in depth. A few wells are now drilling with a view to going below 5,000 feet.

COMMANDER OF SUB S-51 FORMER RESIDENT RIDDLE

Lieutenant Rodney H. Dobson, commanding officer of the ill-fated submarine S-51 was a resident of Douglas county for several years and a personal friend of Harvey Q. Brown of the Douglas county fire patrol, Kenneth Quine and other young men who resided in the vicinity of Riddle. He came to Douglas county in 1912 and was here for three years. His father, a wholesale druggist of New York City visited with him here for a short time. He was engaged in work with the county forest patrol, and with the U. S. forest service, and also leased and operated a farm for a short time. He was a cousin of I. P. Gardiner, a resident of Riddle for a number of years.

From Riddle he went into Alaska and upon his return went back to his former home at Brockport, New York, and later entered Columbia university. After a year in school he entered the U. S. navy was cited for bravery, and was finally advanced to the rank of Lieutenant Commander.

He and Mr. Brown were close friends and the local supervising fire warden has received several cards from the lieutenant, the last having been sent from Cologne, shortly after the first of the year.

JEFFERSON WILL HEAD THE SPECIAL 'LIGHTNING' CAST

Thomas Jefferson, son of the late Joseph Jefferson, has been secured by John Golden to head the special cast that will introduce "Lightnin'" on a tour of the principal cities that would otherwise be compelled to wait another year or two to meet Bill Jones, the slow-moving, old mountain truant whose nickname gives the famous comedy classic its title. The company has just terminated a five week's run in San Francisco and is announced for an engagement in this city at the Antlers Theatre, on Saturday, October 10.

Bessie Bacon, daughter of Frank Bacon, and a member of her father's supporting cast for more than two years, will be seen in the role of Margaret Davis, the limping vaudeville actress whose divorce suit invests the play's famous courtroom scene with its fun and heart throbs.

Not since "The Old Homestead" and "The Music Master" has the American public taken a play to its heart with the affection in which it holds "Lightnin'". Like those well-remembered classics, it is a combination of laughs and heart throbs introducing human, everyday folks not unlike those in the earlier Golden success, "Turn to the Right." Winchell Smith is co-author of both plays and he staged both productions.

"LEAN-TO" BAPTISTS

Every person in this community who "leans toward" the Baptist church is given this special urge to be present tomorrow beginning with the Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. All members and attendants hereby summoned.

BOY ONCE BODILY WRECK NOW STAR IN PUGILISTIC WORLD

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Oct. 3.—A tall blonde youth, who came to the Klamath Pine belt as a war casualty five years ago to rebuild his shattered health, left for Portland today in an effort to win fame and fortune as a heavyweight boxer.

This ambitious young man is Earl Ritchie, Klamath logger, who took to boxing as a means of regaining his lost health, and who has emerged into what more than one critical boxing expert has declared to be a potential contender for heavyweight honors.

For five years Ritchie has been working in the pine woods of Klamath county, and his reputation as a lumberjack is equal to his ring record.

Up until three months ago he was generally regarded as a clever boxer without the needed punch of the heavyweight. Then he stepped out this summer and battered the highly touted Frankie Murphy all over the ring. He followed this up by knocking out Sammy Olson, Galesburg, Ill., heavyweight who suffered his first knockout at the hands of the Klamath lumberjack.

BROTHER'S NAME ON WAR MONUMENT NEWS OF HIS FATE

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 3.—A monument standing in front of the Marion county court house, placed there by the War Mothers as a memorial to this county's soldier dead of the World war, yesterday solved in a tragic way a mystery that long had worried David Janzen of Portland.

David Janzen is a native of Hutchinson, Kans., where he was born about 50 years ago.

His brother, John Janzen, three years younger, was also born in Hutchinson. Twenty years ago John left home, and David did not hear from him again—until yesterday.

Not many years ago David came West to Portland where he now lives. Yesterday he came to the state fair. Strolling leisurely about Salem, he paused at the War Mothers' memorial. As he scanned the list of names of those who made the supreme sacrafice a name like his own arrested his attention, the name of John Janzen.

Inquirying about where he could go to find the records of the soldier dead, David Janzen was referred to the office of Adjutant-General George A. White, and the records there furnished the facts to prove that the dead soldier was his brother.

John was killed in action June 25, 1918.
