DISCORD LIKELY TO MAR SECURITY PACT CONFERENCE

Indiscreet Activities of Russian Minister Is Setback to German Cooperation.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
LOCARNO, Switzerland, Oct. 5.—The conference of allied and German statesmen, to secure a security pact, opened here today. The sessions are being held in the cantonal court room in the Palace of Justice.

The conference also will be concerned with the question of safety of one of its chief delegates Dr. Gustav Stresemann, Germany's foreign minister. Stories of plots by German ultra nationalists or fascists against Dr. Stresemann because he had come to Locarno to discuss with the French, British and Belgian statesmen the project of formulating a security pact without having insisted upon the question of Germany's "war guilt" being added to the agenda, caused the police to assign guards to his hotel.

When he came to Locarno, Dr. Stresemann left his special train at Bellinzona as a protective measure and motored into this little village.

Dr. Stresemann, Chancellor Luther and the other Germans are somewhat perturbed, even to the point of resentment over the fact that M. Tschircher, the Russian foreign minister, has gone to Berlin at the moment when the security conference is taking place here. They consider the moment inopportune for Tschircher to use the German capital as his headquarters for propaganda for a Russo-German commercial treaty.

Russia is not represented at the security conference. Austen Chamberlain and M. Briand, respectively, the British and French foreign ministers, and Dr. Stresemann and the other delegates are optimistic over the ultimate outcome.

The inaugural meeting was formally opened shortly after 11 a. m. by Mayor Husca of Locarno. After his speech of welcome, he retired, as all the sessions of the conference are being held in private.

The statesmen made considerable progress at the first session. They examined every article in the Rhine pact guarantee as drawn up at the London meeting of judicial experts. A number of obscure clauses were referred back to the jurists, who are expected to have their report ready tomorrow.

Articles on which differences of opinion arose were reserved for consideration at the next plenary session tomorrow.

Pland and Czechoslovakia, later will be asked to present their views on a spot which is described as "an arbitration convention, with guarantees."

A communication issued after the meeting said:

"Agreement was reached at today's session on a certain number of articles in the draft pact which did not give rise to objections. Others were reserved for later examinations."

"Austin Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, who presided over the meeting, urged the delegates to keep their conversations free and informal as possible and to contribute what they could to the success of the common object, which is the peace and prosperity of Europe."

It is understood that the delicate clauses held over for future action concern France's right to traverse the Rhine in event of Poland being attacked and the relation of the pact to the league of nations.

LEATHER WORKER WILL SPEAK TO ROSEBURG SCOUTS

Mr. L. E. (Leather) Griswold, scout commissioner of Colorado Springs Pike's Peak council, Boy Scouts of America, arrived in town today. He is carrying all his leather working tools and materials required by an expert in this line and will give a demonstration of leather working for the benefit of all the scouts in the community who can attend tonight at the Baptist church basement. This is the meeting night of Troop Two and that troop has taken the matter in hand and invited all scouts to attend.

Mr. Griswold is well known as an expert in leather working and is doing a very valuable work for the scouts all over the country. Tonight he plans to select some older scouts (after the demonstration) and give them some intensive training so that they can give it to the other scouts throughout the winter.

There is a merit badge award for leather working which is awarded on passing certain tests. However, the most valuable thing about being able to work leather is to know how to make handy things and in a permanent way.

There is no charge to the boys for the instructions. Mr. Griswold does carry leather and tools for sale in case any boy or man wants to buy them. No high pressure methods of selling are employed by Mr. Griswold. His aim is that of service and he is highly endorsed by the national council, Boy Scouts of America.

THEATRES

Liberty Theatre

Those two picture personages who co-star in screen life and are pals in private life, Fred Thomson and his great horse, Silver King, appear for the last time today on the screen of the Liberty theatre in their latest F. B. O. production, "The Wild Bull's Lair." The story, which is by Marion Jackson, author of many previous Thomson successes, is unusual in the extreme. There is mystery, melodrama, and an element of the supernatural in the last Thomson vehicle, and incidentally there is certainly an element of the supernatural in Thomson's ability to conquer a huge bull, vicious and infuriated to the point of madness. Close-ups show this spectacular fight, and Fred's "bulldozing" of the big animal; and they prove that no double is used, it is doubtful if a double with Thomson's skill and strength could be found to do what the popular western star does.

Majestic Theatre

Milton Sills has always been a favorite with local motion picture goers but in no type of picture is he better enjoyed than in screen plays which give him an opportunity to demonstrate his "humanism." His work in "The Sea Hawk," "As Man Desires," and in "The Making of O'Malley" have indelibly planted pleasing memories in the minds of his fans and the success of these pictures proves that he is cast to suit them when appearing in visible outdoor roles. He has such a role in his first National "The Knockout," which opened yesterday at the Majestic theatre for a two-day engagement. It is a long time, indeed, since the reviewer has seen a picture with more thrills and action than is contained in this plausible and highly romantic story which, according to the credit titles, is an adaptation of M. D. C. Crawford's novel, "The Comeback."

Antlers Theatre

How the express business followed the transcontinental railroad, extending commerce and extending civilization into the west, is recorded with remarkable realism in the William Fox picture, "The Iron Horse," now showing at the Antlers theatre.

And it is shown too, how express was shipped before the railroad crossed the prairie, when Kit Carson rode one horse steadily, day after day, for 4,000 miles. The little animal became so shy of Indians that he would leave the ground at the sight of a footstep. But Carson got through with government mail, small express packages and money.

The express commenced transcontinental business with the completion of the railroad in 1869. William F. Harnden had commenced the first express business between

S. DEER CREEK GRANGE PLANS FOR HARVEST FESTIVAL

The South Deer Creek grange held a very interesting and instructive meeting Saturday evening, October 3. Plans were made for the annual harvest ball and the time decided upon to hold this important event was Saturday evening, October 24.

The grange went on record endorsing the action of the 1923 session of the state grange authority in the printing of political advertising during the coming campaign in the Oregon Grange Bulletin.

The committee having the harvest ball in charge is composed of Fred R. Cachelin, Dr. C. H. Bailey, and Mrs. W. A. Karcher. Mrs. Karcher is also chairman of the Home Economics committee and will have the care of the supper to be served. The decorating committee for the hall is Sherman Conize, Mark Adams, Mrs. W. A. Jenkins, Mrs. Bert Blood and Mr. Bert Blood. Music will be furnished by the South Deer Creek grange orchestra.

After the close of the routine business of the meeting, Worthy Lecturer Mrs. C. H. Bailey presented the following program: "The Chickadee-hearted Wives of Three Fishermen"; piano solo, Miss Josephine Cachelin; reading "She Stoops to Conquer," Mrs. Fred R. Cachelin; reading "Odd Sights," Mr. Albert Karcher and Calvin Smith; reading, "Skimping," Miss Nedra Cachelin; piano solo, Miss Alice Jenkins; recitation, the Twenty-third Psalm, by the children of the grange; reading, "How to Use Vegetables," Mrs. Bert Blood; "Jokes," Isabelle Karcher, Albert Karcher, Rachael Smith, Calvin Smith, Josephine Cachelin and Lois Luncan; reading, Mrs. W. A. Jenkins; piano solo, Miss Ruth Blood.

This is the week—Thursday, Friday and Saturday—the big one-cent sale at the Beall Drug Store, Cass street, Perkins building.

Everybody's "JIM HOP"

With the passing of "Jim Hop," the faithful $40-a-month servant who used to do all the chores, has come the need of a competent substitute.

In his place the modern housewife now employs a staff of "electrical servants" at a fraction of his wage.

Under the lines of this Company these "servants" cook, sweep, wash, iron, supply the lights and heat water at an average monthly "wage" of $8.50 a month; for electricity is amazingly cheap. The economies it makes possible, particularly in the laundry and in the kitchen, pay for the cost of the appliances over and again.

The best time to wire a house for a range and other needed appliances of course is when it is being built. However, any house, old or new, can easily be wired; every house should be.

When all your laundry can be done at home by an electric washing machine for 50 cents a month—don't you think it's time to act? We'll be glad to show you the best way to go about wiring and just what electric "servants" cost you and save.

FIGHTERS IN GOOD SHAPE FOR CARD AT ARMORY TUESDAY

Everything is in readiness for the opening boxing card at the Roseburg armory tomorrow night. The principals of all four events are reported to be in A-1 condition, and the fans are looking forward to a night of real entertainment. The advance sale of ringside seats indicates a capacity crowd. Bill Kepper, well known to the local followers of fistiana, will officiate as referee.

The welterweight headliners, Cal Herman, of Salt Lake, and Ernie Woodward, of Portland, scheduled for ten 3-minute rounds, ought to put up a hummer of a battle. Herman, with 28 knockouts to his credit, is expected here today from Salem, where he fought a draw with Frankie Lewis, the Salem flash, a few nights ago. Woodward is material for the preliminaries, and Promoter Clough will pick the best for those bouts tomorrow evening.
