Antlers Theatre.

Jobyna Ralston, leading lady for Harold Lloyd in his newest laugh film, "The Freshman," which will be rocking this city with laughter at the Antlers Theatre Wednesday, is probably the screen's most sought after possibility for stellar honors. Virtually every big motion picture company has made a bid for Miss Ralston's services, but she is under contract to the Harold Lloyd Corporation for another period, and will be seen with Harold again in several pictures.

"I'm awfully glad of it, too," says Jobyna, "for it will give me the finest experience any girl could get. In "The Freshman," for example, my part called for considerable dramatic work along with the comedy, which is something one might miss working in straight dramatic productions."

Miss Ralston has made rapid strides since the day Harold picked her for the lead in "Why Worry?" Her work in one-reelers for Hal Roach attracted the attention of the be-spectacled comedian, and when he robbed the screen of one of its fairest prides by marrying Mildred Davis, he decided to give Jobyna a chance. His judgment was readily vindicated with "Why Worry?" and in "Girl Shy" was par excellent. Jobyna had little to do in "Hot Water," but did that little exquisitely.

Liberty Theatre.

"If Marriage Fails," which through its bold and absorbing discussion of the divorce question and its powerful, human and appealing characterization has been enthralling large audiences at every show at the Liberty Theatre will be seen there for the last time today, when it ends its three day run. This C. Gardner Sullivan production, avoiding salaciousness, is nevertheless one of the most daring and interesting pictures ever filmed by the noted director John Ince. It lifts the veil from the mockery and sham of a monied society, permits the spectators to peer behind the curtain at the "Petting parties," the orgies of the rich, and the life that is lead by the wild and wealthy. One of the big smash scenes is the "Venecia Cafe," where the blase patrons of the gilded New York night life are floated into the restaurant in actual gondolas that move in the streets of water surrounding the dance floor.

FOSTER BUTNER WRITES EDITOR OF FARM JOURNAL

In the current issue of the Western Fruit and Vegetable Grower, a farm journal published in Denver, a full page is devoted to a letter received from Foster Butner, manager of the Umpqua Broccoli Exchange. Mr. Butner took exception to a series of articles published in the Country Gentleman dealing with the railroad situation. The articles were written by railroad officials and, according to Mr. Butner, gave an unfair view of the situation existing between the carriers and producers. Mr. Butner asked permission to reply to the articles, but his manuscript was returned. An editorial in the Western Fruit and Vegetable Grower expressed much the same opinion as he wrote in his manuscript and his letter of commendation to the editor of that magazine was reproduced in full.

O. A. C. HOMECOMING IS TO BE MONTH EARLIER THIS YEAR.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Oct. 13. — Homecoming date this year is October 31, nearly a month earlier than last year. The committees are at work preparing for the annual influx of old grades.

A football game with Montana university is the chief athletic event. Montana is now a member of the coast conference and has developed a team that is dangerous in almost any company. Sweet, in the back field, is rated the fastest man on any squad as he cleaned up in the dashes at the coast track meet in Seattle a year ago.

Gordon Pratt of Portland is chairman of the homecoming committee. A contest is being held to select this year's slogan.

10 BELOW AT BEND.

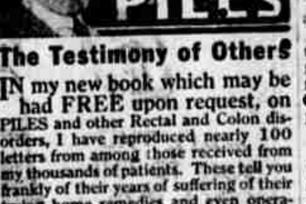
(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

BEND, Ore., Oct. 13.—Clear, cold and snappy weather greeted Bend residents this morning. The heaviest frost of the season was recorded here last night when the temperature dropped to 10 degrees below freezing.

The maximum registered yesterday was 46.

EUGENE, Ore., Oct. 13.—Temperature in Eugene dropped to 32 degrees last night, the coldest night of the season.

MEDFORD, Ore., Oct. 13.—The mercury in Medford dropped to 29½ early this morning, the lowest temperature of the season.



The Testimony of Others

IN my new book which may be had FREE upon request, on PILES and other Rectal and Colon disorders, I have reproduced nearly 100 letters from among those received from my thousands of patients. These tell you frankly of their years of suffering of their trying home remedies and even operations, and, finally, of their complete cure by my NON-SURGICAL method. These are from men and women of every station, many of whom you may know. You will learn by reading this Book why I can give a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to cure your Piles or return your fee.

FIRE BAROMETER GIVES WARNING TO UNDERWRITERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 13. — What type of fires to expect in selected months can be foretold with reasonable certainty by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

The Board has found that the arson curve reflects not only the ebb and flow of prosperity, but also, with unvarying regularity, the closing of the special seasns in certain commodities. A precise relation between incendiary fires and industrial seasons is known to exist.

With the approach of the Christmas season, the fur manufacturing trade concludes it brief "year," and, as the cutting and sewing machines slow down, the number of conflagrations in these shops increase inordinately with other months. Some important seitions of the garment trades season ends in April, and from the middle of that month, underwriters assert, they may expect a sudden increase in calls for fire settlements. Similarly with the sporting goods manufacturing, and other industries whose period of output occupy only a portion of the calendar year.

A trade map of the country warns the insurance man where to expect sectional conflagrations of unusual frequency. This year they are said to center in New England where the textile industry is below par, but the wave also has touched upstate New York and in the last two years the finger pointed to Texas, then Georgia and to Southern Illinois.

Some estimates lay as high as 40 percent of the $50,000,000 annual fire loss to the gruesome hand of the "fire bug." His work is marked by death as well as by destruction, for of the 15,000 people who perished in flames in the United States last year, many died in conflagrations of deliberate origin.

In William street, which is to insurance what Wall street is to finance and Maiden Lane to gems, there is issued a monthly chart for the information of underwriters. It shows is parallel columns, the fires which have occurred in various trades and the "business embarrassments" noted in the same industries.

"What fires are running now?" is a common inquiry of an insurance agent returning from a short vacation.

"Clothing," or "leather goods" or "trimmings" may be the reply. Adjusters and investigators have been warned to scrutinize carefully reports in the trade which, for the time being at least, is known to be undergoing an extra hazard.

Even the weather has not inconsiderable influence on commercial fires. If summer lingers, throwing the fall trade sales behind, the fact is noted by the underwriters' loss committee; if the winter is unusually severe, a closer watch is kept on the spring trades for straw hats and flimsy dress goods will be retarded on their way to market and the weaker elements of those trades may be pinched.

Unassimilated aliens often are the blazers of the arson trail. Underwriters hold this type responsible for many devastating conflagratons. Although declared to be wdespread, arson s a difficult crime to prove and many claims are settled that just failed to bring a criminal indictment.

Those who fight incendiarism have little sentiment about fires. In William street they give credence to the story that Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over a lantern and so burned Chicago half a century ago, and that a lone Pennsylvania crow short-circuited two high tension wires last June and caused a dozen or more blazes. These were fires of fate, accepted as such.

More concerned, however, with the national toll of preventable fire losses, underwriters and fire fighters have joined forces to see that there are no more Mrs. O'Leary's cows.

FUTURE OF GAS INDUSTRY IN PUBLIC SERVICE—MR. COOLIDGE

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 13.—A message from President Coolidge read today before the American Gas Association by its President, H. C. Abell, said that the future of the gas industry "depended entirely on the extent to which it devoted itself to public service, as well as public gain."

"Remembering as I do with much pleasure by previous visit to your convention, I am doubly glad to extend my greetings," President Coolidge wrote. "Your industry seemingly has entered upon a new period of growth, and this will be steady and permanent in proportion as your association keeps constantly in mind that it is an opportunity for public service, as well as personal gain. I am sure that this object will always be before you, and that you will meet adequately your problems and your responsibilities to people whom you serve."

The convention opened today with representatives of more than 500 manufactured gas companies in attendance.

PANAMA RENT RIOT BRINGS OUT TROOPS

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Disorders due to a general strike against high rents have led to action by United States troops in Panama at the request of the Panaman government.

Advices from Panama tell of the city being policed by United States soldiers.

Disorders ceased on arrival of the troops. When the troops raided strike headquarters, one striker jumped to the stree from a balcony and was killed. The troops closed strike headquarters and confiscated literature. Tenants have been on strike all the month in an effort to compel landlords to limit their earnings to 12 per cent yearly.

SOVIET COUNCIL ORDERS WATCH ON CONCESSIONS

MOSCOW, Oct. 13.—By a special decree the Council of Commissars has ordered the chief concession committee to organize a permanent commission to watch the carrying out of the concessionary agreements entered into by foreign concessionaries with the Soviet government and to provide for the removal of any possible obstacles which might hinder the normal work of the concessionary enterprise.

The decree is prompted by the growing number of concessions granted by the Soviet government and the commencement of actual operations, it is stated.

The new commission is also charged to watch the carrying out by the respective state organizations and institutions of all obligations undertaken by them in regard to the concessionary contracts, to discuss all questions arising in connection with the carrying out of the terms of the contracts which cannot be regulated independently by the individual organizations and periodically to draw up reports and supply reviews of the working of the concessionary concerns to the central authorities.

ARAB SAYS "NEEDLE EYE" OF BIBLE REFERS TO WALL GATE

PITTSBURG, Kan., Oct. 13.—The "needle's eye" referred to in the New Testament is a small gate in the Wall of Jerusalem, not a sewing needle, at least in the opinion of Job Negeim, 23 year old Arab guide in the Holy Land, who is studying music at the Pittsburg State Teachers college.

The Biblical passage to which this modern Job has adduced a new meaning is in Mark 10-25, wherein Jesus chided those who "trust in riches," saying: "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven."

"The needle's eye," says Negeim, "commonly misunderstood as the eye of a sewing needle, is known to Jerusalem as a small gate within a larger gate in the city walls. It is for the use of pedestrians after the larger gate is closed for the night for protection. The gate is so low that an average-sized man must stoop low to go through it."

EDITOR HOWLAND DEVELOPS GENIUS IN STATE INDIANA

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 13.—Behind the genius of a group of Indiana writers who carried the Hoosier state to the fore in a generation in contemporary authorship, there has been revealed the hand of Hewitt Hanson Howland, new editor of The Century magazine. Howland, as editor of the Bobbs-Merrill Publishing company from 1900 to 1925, discovered and put before the country the first works of half a dozen Indianians.

Boyhood chum of Booth Tarkington and confidant of half a dozen other embryo literary artists, Howland's sponsorship of many famous writers was not revealed until he was named to succeed Glenn Frank who has become president of Wisconsin University.

Many of the incidents of boyhood which Tarkington has portrayed were from the every-day life of the companions. Tarkington, when not arranging barn loft shows, was immersed in a book, Howland related, and throughout his young manhood he read widely and well, building the background for his literary success.

As the editor began his Indianapolis association, James Whitcomb Riley was publishing his first volume of poems, a tiny pamphlet put out by an Indianapolis newspaper to which Riley was a contributor. Howland saw the genius of Riley and encouraged it. The relationship gave impetus to the young publishing house and started Riley on the road to fame.

Gene Stratton Porter, with a knowledge and love of nature, came from her "Limberlost" estate in northern Indiana to Howland with her first book, "The Song of the Cardinal."

After a number of New York publishers refused Mary Roberts Rhinehart's first effort, "The Circular Staircase," Howland accepted it, rushing to Pittsburgh overnight to get Mrs. Rhinehart's name to a contract.

Brand Whitlock as a Chicago newspaper reporter and a student of politics paved the way for his first book, "The Thirteenth District." Howland heard of it and went to Toledo, then Whitlock's home, read the manuscript, accepted and published the book.

From a Syracuse, N. Y. newspaper man, came a manuscript, filled with adventure, humor and characterization. It was "The Puppet Crown," in embryo, and heralded the arrival of a new writer—Harold McGrath.

George Barr McCutcheon, a newspaper man, brought from Lafayette, Ind., the manuscript for his first novel, "Graustark."

"The writer must be a story teller; he must have a background of good reading and he must be willing to work long and hard. If he has these things he can succeed," says Mr. Howland.

OREGON U. SQUAD SHOWING MORE PEP

EUGENE, Ore., Oct. 13.—With more pep and punch than displayed at any other time this year, the University of Oregon football team went through three solid hours of scrimmage last night. The rumor that some of the veterans in the lineup may be displaced by other candidates seems to have good effect, and things may work out pretty well after all.

Oregon looks a good deal today like she did a year ago. A slow start, proving disastrous because of the defeat at the hands of Idaho, is now wearing off. With nearly two weeks to go before the California game, the team and the fans are getting their old hope back—the hope to beat or tie California.

Against Pacific here next Saturday, Coach Smith may use a number of combinations. The men who show up best will have a chance to demonstrate their calibre in the California game.

CERTIFICATES OF TITLE TO MOTOR CARS IMPERATIVE

Since, under the provisions of the act of the 1925 Legislature, 1926 motor vehicle licenses cannot be issued unless certificates of title have been previously applied for and obtained, motor vehicle owners can do much to avoid unnecessary inconvenience and delay in the process of cases where applications have not been made to date. This condition is mandatory by the Legislature and the Secretary of State has no power or authority to waive it.

Of the more than 207,000 licensed motor vehicles in Oregon, owners of only 130,000 have thus far applied to the Secretary of State for certificates of title. Approximately 100,000 certificates of title have been issued to date, since the law went into effect, July 1, 1925, leaving more than 75,000 cars for which certificates of title have not been applied for.

Unless motor car owners, who have not already done so, apply for certificates of title immediately there will be such a congestion of applications around the first of the coming year, during the renewal period of licenses, that considerable delay will be occasioned in the prompt issuing of 1926 licenses.

Notice of sale of government timber, General Land Office, Washington, D. C., Sept. 23, 1925. Notice is hereby given that subject to the conditions and limitations of the acts of June 9, 1916 (39 Stat., 218), February 26, 1919 (40 Stat., 1179), and June 4, 1920 (41 Stat., 758), and pursuant to departmental regulations of April 14, 1924 (50 L. D. 376), the timber on the following lands will be sold Nov. 16, 1925, at 10 o'clock A. M. at public auction at the U. S. land office at Roseburg, Oregon, to the highest bidder at not less than the appraised value as shown by this notice, sale to be subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Interior. The purchase price, with an additional sum of one-fifth of one per cent thereof, being commissions allowed, must be deposited at time of sale, money to be returned if sale is not approved, otherwise patent will issue for the timber, which must be removed within ten years. Bids will be received from citizens of the United States, associations of such citizens, and corporations organized under the laws of the United States, or any state, territory, or district thereof only. Upon application of a qualified purchaser, the timber on any legal subdivision will be offered separately before being included in any offer of a larger unit. T. 17 S.
